President Hartley told the task force that he does not completely reject the idea of a merger with UConn, but reminded them that UConn's research mission is very different from the State University's primary mission of teaching undergraduates.

4. The President reported that Family Weekend was held on October 2 and 3 with numerous campus activities being very well attended. The campus spirit was very positive. He noted that next weekend is Homecoming, and he hoped that the same Husky positive spirit would prevail.

President Hartley stressed the importance of this campaign to the State of Connecticut and to its many residents who profit from its programs.

6. President Hartley reported that the 1991 Nobel Laureate in Physics, Pierre G. de Gennes, visited Storrs to deliver a lecture at the Institute of Materials Science on October 4. This is just one example of many distinguished visitors who come to Storrs each year.
7. A ceremony to dedicate the School of Nursing's cottage as the Carolyn Ladd Widmer Building was held on October 2. Carolyn Ladd Widmer was the first Dean of the School of Nursing. This action recognizes her commitment and her many contributions to the field of nursing.

The President observed that 59% of the incoming students are female. Twenty-one percent of the students at the Law School are minorities. President Hartley was pleased to note that these figures demonstrated our firm commitment to diversity.
9. President Hartley was a guest speaker at the 37th Annual Convention of the Connecticut State AFL/CIO. He thanked the unions for their role in contributing to the sacrifices made during the very difficult past few years.
10. The Council of Presidents met in Boston on September 24, and President Hartley noted that the fiscal problems of the other five New England State universities were similar to ours; but that UConn received substantial legislative support which sustained us during the current fiscal legislative session.
11. As a further demonstration of UConn's commitment to diversity, President Hartley attended a luncheon meeting of the Latina Women's Group on October 6. On October 6, Richard Bachoo represented the President at a luncheon meeting of black faculty, students and staff. The atmosphere at both events was positive and supportive.
12. The UConn School of Law received a $650,00 grant from the U. S. Department of Education to support and expand clinical legal education and skills training. Less than half of the law schools applying for funding received grants, and Connecticut's is one of the largest awards.
13. Provost Tighe distributed an update on strategic planning for academic affairs, 1993-94. The report focused on a four-part initiative which contained the features essential to maintain the pursuit of excellence in teaching, research, and service.
