PRESENT PLAYS TOMORROW NIGHT

State College Players to Give Three One Act Plays

The Dramatic Club plays will be presented tomorrow night in Hawley Armory at 8 o'clock. The program consists of three one act plays, and will last about two hours.

The three plays which are to be given are: "The Bracelet," "The Clod" and "The Drums of Oude." "The Bracelet" is an exceptionally good society play. "The Clod" is an historical play, centering about the Civil War. "The Drums of Oude" is a play with all the ingredients of a good melodrama—guns, dynamite, blood, thunder, and whatnot. Its writer, Austin Strong, is a recognized master of this type of play.

One of the features of the evening will be the Black and Helvers of Hartford, consisting of eight pieces. This orchestra will broadcast from the radio station during the first part of the evening, and will come to the Armory about 10.30 to play during the evening. BULLETIN HOUSE TO BE MOVED

Poultry Experimental Station to Supplant Old Bulletin House Near New Campus. Alterations to Be Made In Building

The building known as the bulletin house, the old school building, and the barracks will be moved to the west side of the new cemetery, to establish a special plant for the poultry experimental station. The reason for the construction of this station is the frequent interruption of experimental work by the introduction of disease from the birds in the egg laying contest. Since special efforts are always made to perpetuate a certain breed it is believed that isolation from the birds which take part in the egg laying contests will prove beneficial. Certain alterations in the buildings will be made to meet the demands of the poultry men.

Upon the removal of the bulletin house the grounds around the church will be leveled off and beautified to form a fitting surrounding for the church which will soon be erected.

NEW CATALOGUE TO BE OUT MAY 1

Because of the necessary change in the college curriculum for the coming year, the publication of the 1921 and 1922 catalogue will be delayed and will not be ready until about May 1. The faculty members are working diligently on the revision of the curriculum, and the proof will be sent to the printer at a very early date.

COMMUNITY HOUSE READY IN MAY

Much Needed Building to Be Beautiful Structure

All indications show that the Community House will be completed early in May as was scheduled. The plastering was ended last Tuesday and the woodwork finishing is well under way.

A committee consisting of Rev. Al ling, Dr. Simcott, Mr. Perry, and Dr. Maurer of the Center church of New Haven have been particularly active. This committee is working out the details for the interior arrangement of the Community House.

Mr. Perry, the architect, is very enthusiastic over this work and is attempting to put the finest expression of the colonial type of structure in this building.

The outside of the building with its red Harvard brick, marble trimmings and white pillars is modeled distinctly along the lines common to colonial buildings. The characteristics simplicity in design of the exterior is carried out in every detail on the inside. The pine wood trimmings are matched with the white walls and the proposals of furnishings are planned to give all of the inside a homelike appearance.

The practical points of the building have not been neglected. A serving room leading into a kitchen which will have all the conveniences necessary for the demands which will be made upon it. A large dumb waiter has been added to facilitate the trans-

Aggtes Atone For Defeat at Kingston
—Captain Makofski, Allard, Bit­good and Green Play Final Game

Connecticut Aggies brought a successful basketball season to a close last Saturday night by defeating Rhode Island State 43-29 on the Haw­ley Armory court. The game was hard fought and keenly contested throughout the forty minutes of play holding the interest of the largest crowd of the season. This victory brought the Aggies total number of wins up to eleven games out of fourteen then atoned for the 33-27 defeat administered by Rhode Island the preceding week.

Aggies Score Rapidly
Play during the first half was fast and spirited. Connecticut regained first in the scoring column when Cap­tain Makofski made good a free try for the basket. Rhode Island scored when Bosworth dropped a field goal. The lead then alternated for eight minutes of play. Here Connecticut started a fast offensive sweep that swept the Kingdom out of its feet. Field goals by Schofield, Williams and Eddy swelled the Aggies total to 14 points while Rhode failed to add to its six points. Eddy was fouled twice while

SEYMOUR ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Marshall Seymour, captain of this Connecticut freshman basketball team, was recovering this week at the Hartford Hospital, where he had been ill since March 1st. The seri­ousness of his illness not being known, he was placed under observation, and the trouble was found to have originated from an infected tooth. He ex­pects to be back on the Hill within a few days, ready to answer the first call for baseball.

SEYMOUTH BOW TO YALE YEARLINGS

Eli Youngsters Overpower Aggie Frosh by 32-14 Score

Coach Alexander's yearlings were defeated by the fast Yale Freshman five at New Haven last Saturday, the score being 32-14.

The game was fast and fairly even up to within a few minutes before the half when Yale started a fast offensive sweep that swept the Kingdom out of its feet. Field goals by Schofield, Williams and Eddy swelled the Aggies total to 14 points while Rhode failed to add to its six points. Eddy was fouled twice while shooting for the basket and shot four free throws in succession making the score 18-6 in favor of Connecticut. Schofield and Eddy added a twin counter each, swelling the Aggie total to 22 points. Here the Kingston will be the second meeting of the Fleming and Irwitz guards. The Fleming guard found the score 22-15 in favor of Connecticut.

Rhode Island Threatens

After the rest period the Aggies increased their lead when Eddy sunk two field goals in quick succession. At this point the Rhode Island team threw a scare into the Aggie spectators when they sunk four field goals bringing the score up to 24-23 in favor of Connecticut. The Aggies missed many shots for the hoop and Rhody threatened to take the lead. Connecticut finally found itself and countered each, swelling the score up to fifteen points.

Schofield and Eddy added a field goal by Eddy, Schofield and Makofski widened the gap between the two teams. Williams contributed to the Aggie score with two baskets while Allard and Bitgood kept the Rhode Island forwards covered.

Coach Dole shifted his line-up during the game, and both combinations were effective against the visitors. Schofield led the Aggies in scoring and Eddy and Williams were close seconds. The work of the Aggie guards, Allard and Bitgood was outstanding. Captains Makofski, Allard, Bitgood and Greer played their last basket ball game for Connecticut, as they are slated to graduate in June. Makofski has played basket ball on the varsity for four years while Bitgood and Allard have been regulars for two years. These three seniors have contributed a great deal to the splendid record which Connecticut has hung up this year.

for unless our Hartford rivals take the count, a season cannot be considered altogether successful. Trinity was successful the second half, and it is interesting to note that in the last four seasons, the Hartford team has lost every one of the eight court games with Connecticut.

A defeat sustained at the hands of Rhode Island at Kingston is the only loss the Aggies suffered in the season. Aggies' right to the claim of being the best team in the New England Conference is not merely established, but defeated Connecticut. Rhode Island, in her second game with Connecticut, was defeated, and defeated by a decisive margin. The Aggies have played every member of the Conference at least once, something no other Conference team has done. This, coupled with the fact that we have lost but one Conference game, would certainly justify all of Connecticut's correspondents for the Hartford "Courant."

Presumably he writes all the glowing accounts of Trinity's athletic bat for $50.00 so he has been finished with an excellent opportunity of showing that he is indeed a poor

It is truly well versed in the art of pounding out all bills for the teams of his Alma Mater. From him we learn that Trinity oufscored every tram in the Conference, and its success is one that adds a great deal to its future basketball teams might well strive to equal.

A POOR LOSER

Practice makes perfect, so the old saying goes. All of which makes us wonder about Trinity's correspondents for the Hartford "Courant."

Presumably he writes all the glowing accounts of Trinity's athletic bat for $50.00 so he has been finished with an excellent opportunity of showing that he is indeed a poor

It is truly well versed in the art of pounding out all bills for the teams of his Alma Mater. From him we learn that Trinity oufscored every tram in the Conference, and its success is one that adds a great deal to its future basketball teams might well strive to equal.

The election of Schofield as captain of the 1926 football team was a popular one; "Congratulations, 'Bill,' and best wishes for a successful season."

Without question, Doctor Poole is one of the most interesting and effective speakers we have ever had for President's Hour. Let's have him every year.

Football for 1925 begins next week. Coach Dole is faced with a real problem in building an eleven for next fall, and right now is too early to lay the foundation.

A GOOD RECORD

In defeating Rhode Island here last Saturday night, the Aggies closed one of the most successful court seasons in the history of the college. Eleven victories in fourteen games is the record of Captain Makofski's team for the season. Harvard, Spring-field, Vermont and every team in the New England Conference were among the quintets defeated. Trinity should be mentioned also.

Mention of the fact is made at this time because apparently many in the student body are unaware of the existence of this rule. Smokers may often be seen in the Main Building, Hawley Armory, and other campus buildings.

As much as the faculty has taken no action regarding smoking in college buildings, preferring to leave it in the hands of the Student Senate, one of two courses should be followed. The Student Senate should either enforce the rule or abolish it.

And it would seem unfair to abolish this rule in view of the expressions of dissatisfaction heard daily regarding present conditions. The Social Committee, in particular, finds the increase of smokers at the Saturday night dances a source of annoyance. Complaints have been heard from faculty members, and unless some measures are taken to remedy the situation, it is not difficult to foresee faculty action on the matter. All of which means the Student Senate should require a more general observance of its regulations, taking immediate steps to enforce the rule.

THINK IT OVER

The development of Connecticut's football team will begin in early next week, when Coach Dole plans to start his spring training. Present plans call for three meetings a week of the squad, which will count as regular physical education work. The basic formations and plays for next fall are all outlined, which will enable the candidates to make a faster development when practice begins in Sept.

Coach Dole has already announced that candidates for the 1926 eleven must attend spring practices. Studying the schedule that must be played, and considering the number of men who will be lost to the squad by graduation, the need for this is apparent.

As usual, Connecticut will play a hard schedule, meeting among others every school in the New England Conference. The College Library has recently added several new books to Library Shelves.

STORRS 10 YEARS AGO

STORRS TEN YEARS AGO

Plans for the biggest Commencement in the history of the college were drawn up by a committee from the faculty, the Alumni Association, and the Class of 1916. The commemoration of the thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the college was to be celebrated at this time.

President Beach, since becoming head of the institution, has done much work resulting in doubling the attendance, raising the scholarship standards and increasing the value of the college property to nearly $800,000.

Several classes were making plans to continue the custom of meeting every five years after graduation. This year the classes of '86, '91, '96, '01, '06, and '11 were expected back on the Hill.

Five men were awarded their letters in basket ball for the season 1915-1916.

The freshmen won the indoor track meet with 24 1/4 points and the sophomores took second place with 17 1/4 points. The first year school were third with 13, the juniors fourth with 5, while the seniors and second year school were tied for fifth with one point each.

THE R. O. T. C.

To the Editor of The Campus:

There seems to be a growing tendency to disapprove of military training in the schools and colleges; even going so far as to agitate legislation against it in New York. Opinion voiced by older persons seems to be the result of a general prejudice against anything of a military nature; while many of the younger generation who come in contact with such training cultivate a general dislike for it either through failure to exert themselves or by antagonism created against anything of a compulsory nature.

Such independence on the part of the student cannot last long in this economic cooperative world of ours. Just as the rules of an athletic contest must be adhered to, so must the laws of life which govern our independence in relation to mankind be lived up to. With the exception of the home atmosphere in which we were reared there is no better place to learn these laws of life than in a military organization.

Opponents say let the young man enlist in some branch of the service if he so desires; but in trying to evade the question they are admitting there is some value in it. The opponents then counter attack with "Then keep military science, but cut out the compulsory clause." Let it be said here, for the benefit of those against militarism in any form, that compulsion for the student is purely local and not a Federal measure. No college faculty is going to put a foundational subject on the elective list. As long as ethics, sociology and psychology sound the cry for more education about life, a subject foundational for these, such as military science, will be just as important as the relation between geography and transportation.

If R. O. T. C. members could only realize that it is impossible for Uncle Sam to fit them for the soldiers' profession in the few hours allotted, they would see that the main object of a general knowledge of military science and tactics is of value in helping the individual serve society as a whole either during emergencies or while engaged in private business. There is a civil justification for military training of youth which no future citizen should shrirk, and that is protection of private property. What do the opponents of military training of youth have to offer for protection in times of great catastrophes which cannot be handled by local police? The solution is a citizen force which is not green to military organization. The State Guard of Massachusetts is a glowing example of citizen soldiery when it so nobly arose to the occasion during the Boston fire of 1872, the Chelsea fire of 1898, the Lawrence strike of 1912, the Salem fire of 1914, and the Boston police strike of 1920.

There are untold benefits from R. O. T. C. courses. A college man who has an aim in life will not waste a term of enlistment in regular branches, whereas it would in the prime of life just after graduation; rather he should welcome the opportunity of securing the benefits of military training at the same time as the rest of his education. Command and leadership benefits any prospective manager in real the outlaying of work for, and the issuing of orders to, employees. There is also the chance for studying individual or group reactions to your own personality as a leader. Administration helps a future employer to get a better man with military knowledge to lead these than the ordinary layman. Brevity and accuracy in correspondence, as well as keen observation, are benefits to be derived from scouting and patrolling which may mean dollars and cents to a future business man more than once. And last but not least, comes obedience and respect for superiors. The ability to receive and carry out, as well as give orders, is a qualification needed by any departmental manager. The way in which an organization gives and receives orders within itself is a definite indication of the reputation of that firm with the public because the opinion of the public starts with the small worker of the organization. If anyone has heard comments on our unit of a few years ago he will realize the good the present commander has done in establishing these attributes, and be sorry to see him leave, or to see the abolishing of a unit at C. A. C.

MILITARY TRAINING

To the Editor of The Campus:

We have often wondered what would happen to the originator (or should we say instigator) of compulsory military training in the state colleges, if he were to receive a realization of the curses heaped upon him Friday mornings between the hours of eight and twelve. Not being prone to weird stretches of the imagination we leave his fate in the hands of the muse.

But could it be otherwise? Anyone who can enjoy prancing around for two hours, laboring under the weight of a baby cannon perched on his right

Reports on matches shot during the week of February 27 show that the Rifle Team split even on the two matches held that week. Montana State College scored 3491 and Oregon Agricultural College had 3709. The Aggie Team's score was 3640. Notice was also received that the match shot the week before with the Agricultural College of Utah had been forfeited because of an epidemic of scarlet fever there. This week's matches are with the University of Missouri and the University of Illinois. The First Corps Area Match is also slated to start this week. Entrants for this match include Norwich U., Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, M. I. T., Harvard, Rhode Island, Mass. Aggies, Yale and C. A. C.

Spring Football
Next Week

Spring football practice will begin next Monday, and will consist of defensive and offensive line and back field play. There will be three sessions a week.

Coach Dole declares that there are 40 men from the freshman and varsity squads who are eligible, the only requisite for eligibility being that one is either a freshman, sophomore or junior. Coach Dole further states that any man who desires to compete for a position on next year's varsity should show up at these practice sessions. Coach Alexander will assist Coach Dole in this work.
