It will profit anyone who has a little spare time to spend it in the reading room.

Latey there has been added quite a large list, new papers and magazines treating on all matters of interest especially science.

Beginning with this term, we have had two halls a day. This adds much to the interest of the reading room and causes the students to frequent the library more during their spare hours.

The library is open all day up to eight in the evening except Saturday. When it is open during the afternoon and an hour in the evening, and Sunday from two until six p.m.

The library now contains upward of four thousand volumes, and anyone interested in any kind of literature can find something to suit him. If you can't get the one in charge of the library will try to find it for you.

A new field is much desired by the Athletic Association.

The football contests in the past have all been played upon a neighboring farmer's field. Although this has answered the purpose very well it is far from being what an athletic field should be.

The old athletic field is much too small and uneven for good base ball work. Foul and fair hits often send the ball into a neighboring garden or woods, causing some delay and thus lessening the interest in the game.

In the new addition to the farm there is a splendid, level piece of oak grove which would make a model athletic field. The Association has hopes of procuring this, sometime in the future.

COLLEGE NOTES.

A meeting of the Students' organization was held Monday evening, Oct. 26th, at which the following business was transacted: Max Shiffrin, '98, resigned from the office of President. V. E. Lucchini, '97, was elected to that office. An amendment to that part of the constitution which relates to the college paper was passed. It gives the board of editors the power to remove from office any member whom they deem unfit for it and to fill all vacancies occurring between the annual elections. Two editors were elected to act at all entertainments given in the college chapel. Those elected are: B. S. Taylor, '97; G. H. Johnson, '97, and C. S. Chapman, '98.

We have two prominent silver men in our midst who do not hesitate to talk upon the merits of their side of the question, when ever a "gold man" puts in his appearance. As a result they were challenged to a public debate, which took place in the college chapel Saturday evening, Oct. 24th. The subject of the debate was "Resolved, that a gold standard will be detrimental to the money order of paper money, and the free and unlimited issue of silver, at the ratio of sixteen to one." On the affirmative side were W. N. Webb, '98, and J. S. Evans, '97; on the negative side, D. D. Roberts, '98. Those who acted as judges were Prof. Lewis and Paterson, and W. L. Chamberlain. The debate was won by the affirmative, the judges being unable to arrive at a correct decision. After the decision the boys formed into a company and paraded the streets. Brooms soaked in kerosene served as torches while a neighbor's vehicle supported the band.

Tuesday was an exciting and busy day at the store. The college had made arrangements with the telephone company at Williamstown to forward all returns as soon as received for that city. Miss Loomis and Mr. Gilbert ('A. C.') attended the telephone here. We were expecting to be addressed in the evening by Prof. A. G. Galley who was to explain the matter of counting up returns, and how we were able to know so soon as to how the different localities had gone.

We were much disappointed when it was announced that Mr. Galley was taken down with his old trouble, dizziness of the head. There being nothing else to do we all congregated about the halls and listened patiently for the returns. Very few slept over an hour or two.

We were determined to vote, whether of age or not, made arrangements for a ballot, which took place from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The polls were in room No. 105 on the main floor of the building. The Australian form of ballots was used. All connected with the institution were allowed to vote. The result of the ballot was as follows: Republican, twenty-six; Silver Democrats, ten; Gold Democrats, one; Prohibitionists, fifteen. All of the ladies students, excepting one, voted for McKinley, the excepted one being a Baptist.

On Friday evening, Nov. 6th, the boys thought they would celebrate McKinley's election so the military company turned out in full uniform. Nearly all of the inhabitants of Storrs fell into line as the company paraded the streets. In cans and the like, out of which a torch could be made, were at a premium that night. The boys also had a good supply of colored fire. The line of march was as follows: The line of march being formed at the stump of the new dormitory marched out in front of the main building, down by the old dormitory, down Main street to Bingham's store; here it turned and countermarched up Main street, up Grove Cottage, up by Prof. Phelps to Prof. Chamberlain's, then back again to the main building where the company was dismissed. Much cheering was done for McKinley and Hobart during the parade. As the line of march passed by the dwellings of our respective Prosfs. they hailed and demanded a speech. In no case was it refused. Prof. Peebles' remarks were in reference to liquor so we have guards for passing him as a Prohibitionist.

Mr. Walter Shults, '94, has returned from Cornell University, with vision impaired. He will work around the college until Christmas, when he hopes to return to Cornell. That is, if his vision improves.

Mr. C. H. Mansfield, a former '97 classmate, spent Sunday, Nov. 8th, with us. It seems like old times to get "Ike" and "Ted" out with their horns.

The orchestra now meets in the parlors of Oak Grove Cottage. The council also meets there on Wednesday evenings.

As a result of Prof. Phelps' untiring efforts we have at last been able to put some thoroughly stocked in our stables. We have at present four Guernseys and five Ayreshires, a bull to each herd. We shall soon add to this list at least five Jersey's. The nine animals thus far obtained have been passed by expert judges as excellent representatives of their respective breeds.

An entertainment was given in the college chapel Friday evening for the purpose of raising funds to purchase games and the like to be used in our social gatherings. The program was musical and was very well carried out under the supervision of Miss Zezima Smith.

"Divisions of labor," have been changed. "Mickie" feeds the chickens.

Mr. W. L. Chamberlain has just completed a brooder house. It is situated over the new cemetery, just over the fence, on the south side of the road, directly opposite the large gate which opens into the graveyard. The structure is one hundred feet long by fifteen feet wide. It faces the south-west.

Mail dues this term are fifteen cents per capita. This is the highest amount asked since I have been here, and that is nearly four years. The mail carrier is a Republican so we expect high prices.

On Wednesday, Oct. 4th, Prof. Phelps took the Senioi class to the stables to do some practical work in the corning of animals. Mr. Bushnell is evidently accustomed to handle extra fine stock, for he gave the best animal in the herd a score of seventy out of a possible one hundred.

Messrs F. J. Fitzs, '97, W. Hawley, '98, and C. Hawley were made voters this year.
Mr. Shults' fox has disappeared over the hills. A cage had been nearly completed for him in which to spend the winter when one morning it was discovered that he had escaped. He has been seen on the hill but we have not been able to capture him.

There were some changes made in the board of editors as will be seen under another heading. Mr. Beardsley, the athletic editor, resigned from the board. George Smith, '95, was elected to fill the vacancy. Max Shapworth, '98, exchange editor, also resigned. Sidney Chapman was elected to the vacancy, and this ballot was elected assistant business manager.

Prof. Phelps left Storrs Monday afternoon, Nov. 8th, to attend the National Grange meeting at Washington, D. C.

President Koons also attended the National Grange meeting. He was gone for two weeks, in which he lectured at different places throughout the state.

Doctoring horses is added to his department three fine skeletons, representing horse and sheep.

The members of both literary societies invite attendance at an open meeting of the Alpha society in the Grange building, Saturday evening, Nov. 21st. The evening was passed very joyfully by all, amid games and other entertainment.

Prof. Phelps and family have moved into their new cottage. We may say that this cottage is the handsomest building in Storrs.

Prof. Gully spoke to the boys Friday evening, Nov. 13th, on "elections, the returns and the way they are counted." The subject was one of course an interesting one which with an interesting speaker made the lecture a very instructive one. The boys of S. C. A. may now say that they know somewhat about the subject, which beforehand was a completely dark one.

A class consisting of four ladies and two men were initiated into the grange at the regular meeting of that organization Wednesday evening, Nov. 11th.

Nearly half of the number of students will remain over Thanksgiving.

W. L. Chambers is beginning to feel the effects of Thanksgiving day on his turkeys having mysteriously disappeared.

Prof. Peebles and family have moved into their new cottage, a tastly little structure situated on a high knoll from which a handsome view can be obtained.

R. D. Beardsley, '97 has again prained his knee. It seems as if he has pretty bad luck with football. We hope that he will be well in time to help back the Middletown High school football team.

The creamery wing to a dairy building is being built just south of the farm barn. The plan is to complete the building next year. The entire structure will cost about $600. When completed, the dairy building will consist of a main building, 52 x 32 ft., one story and a high basement with the wing now being built 26 x 22 ft., the floor of which is to be on the same level as the basement of the main building. This basement and 51 1/2 ft. of the creamery wing are to be of cobble stone and the rest of the building of brick. The main building will contain a rectification office, an office for records, etc., and a small laboratory for microscopic work on milk.

The south half of the basement will be used as a laboratory for milk testing-post post-post-mortem tests, etc., while the north half will be used for engine, boiler and storage.

The creamery room is to have an elevated platform for the separators and cream vats so that cream can be drawn directly from them.

The building is to be equipped at once with two or three different makes of power and hand separators, and with different styles of churns and butter separators. Some work will also be done this winter in the pasteurization of milk and cream. It is not expected that a large special dairy school will be built up, as our equipment is planned mainly for use by our regular students. Special students will however, be received and allowed to take up the dairy work during the winter term, with the regular class.

Prof. Gully has changed the basement of the old ice house which met its fate last fourth of July, into a root cellar.

On Saturday evening, Nov. 7th, Messrs. Bidwell, '98, Atwood, '97, Rosebrock, G. E. ofphia attended a minstrel show at Willimantic.

Miss Smith gives dancing lessons to the students on every Saturday afternoon from one to two o'clock.

The curtain on the greenhouse, at which there are a number of varieties, is just beginning to bloom, with the crysanthemums they make a good showing.

Mechanical Department.

Storrs is anticipating another improvement in the erection of a new forge shop. The foundation is completed and awaits only the superstructure which is to be 30 x 45 ft., one story, with a gravel floor. It will be well lighted and furnished with a row of modern portable forges and a complement of anvils, vices, tools, etc., which will be equipped in first class style for practical iron working and the development of skill and muscle in the Tubal Cain's that are to be. Although good things come in small packages, Storrs is making steady and sure progress in the line of equipment in its various departments.

Two street lamps have been put up about the campus, one by the old dormitory and one about half way between the new building and Oak Grove cottage.

The grading in front of the cottage is progressing rapidly. If the plans are carried out, a pretty campus will be the result.

Prof. Gully is having a root and fruit cellar partitioned off down under the horse barn. It will be a splendid place for that purpose, as it is nearly all under ground.

This is the first year that the college has raised enough apples for its use. There are some thirty barrels over what will be needed, which are to be sold.

It seems as if a moustache epidemic has visited Storrs. The latest report states that Dr. Waterman made a bet with his wife on election questions. As a result, his moustache left him between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday.

The regular football team had its picture taken by Prof. Peebles Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 23rd. It will represent a noble set of fellows.

Of the four S. C. A. Alumni who entered the game, two remain, Stonchill Hile and it is hoped that he will finish his course at that institution.

The monthly reception was held Friday evening, Nov. 16th, at Oak Grove cottage. A very pleasant evening was passed amid games and dancing. Miss Smith's good work as instructor in dancing is beginning to show.

The senior class made its annual trip to Rockyville, Tuesday, Nov. 23rd, for the purpose of examining and scoring the fine herd of Jerseys owned by Trustee and Congressman Steve Henry. A fine dinner was given dinner at that place and a pleasant evening was had by all.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Messrs. F. A. Bartlet, '95, and A. J. Pierpoint, '95, made a flying visit to North Haven, spending Sunday with their former classmate, Horace J. Brettick.

Mr. G. R. Hall, '95, expects to graduate from Hutsingt's Business College, Hartford, Dec. 1st.

Irving Mansfield, '97, was privileged with the good fortune of winning a bicycle by raffle, costing 59c per ticket.

The class letter of '95 has been a grand success, having been through the class once and is now on its second circuit.

Mr. W. A. R. Hawley continues teaching at New Canaan.

Mr. W. F. Schults, '94, is at the college being advised by a physician to take a vacation of 2 months on account of weak eyes.

The game in the Middletown vs. Storrs game in Middletown found a good halfback in the person of E. H. Waff, '96, who has severed his connection with the Cornell University.

ATHLETICS.

G. E. SMITH.

The first football game of the season at Storrs was witnessed by a large crowd.

The weather was not very pleasant in the morning but it cleared off so that by three o'clock in the afternoon it was all that could be desired. The Willimantic arrived in a large bus and after preparing for the game started out for the field.

The game was played in a large lot belonging to Mr. Snow, just back of the house.

The field was in good condition but the markin : was not plain.

After playing a short time the game was called.

The ball was so near that the visitors thought a field goal would be made but instead, Nov. 16, Beardsley took the ball and went around left end and easily scored a touchdown.

Webb kicked a goal making the score Storrs 6, Willimantic 0.

Willimantic again kicked off, Webb who caught the ball, advanced it only a short distance and after the ball had been advanced to the center of the field it was lost on a fourth down. It was soon recovered by Willimantic.

Storrs then advanced the ball by end and tackle plays to within a few yards of Willimantic's goal when time was called.

The features of the game for Willimantic was Damon's playing while for Storrs Beardsley's game and the good interference were the best points.

The M. H. S. boys had an advantage in knowing the signals of the Storrs and also having one of Storrs former players who was captain of the Storrs team for two years.

afford to purchase fertilizers to grow weeds. Weeds are generally strong and vigorous and produce large numbers of seed, which take a great amount of nourishment. This parasitic and soil-rotten vegetable could be removed from the land, if two years of diligent work be put forth, the plant being a biennial and the seed left to live. This would not be as successful as it would at first thought seem.

The Canada thistle and the conch or quack grass (agropyron repens) are bad weeds to the farmer. They grow from underground stems. These weeds, however, are not propagated by seeds, as it is quite rare that either plant produces a perfect seed.

These weeds confine themselves to patches and do not spread rapidly. It is not well to run a horse cultivator through a patch of either of these as pieces of the root are apt to be torn off and gain a foothold in other parts of the field. A horse plow will tear off the tops will after a while kill the root.

Weeds troublesome to the farmer are the ragweed, pigweed and red weed. This weed is the most troublesome origin to prove to be bad to the garden. It seems to have some special grudge against mankind, producing more seed than any other plant.

The farmer has too many monks and corners in which he allows weeds to grow. As a general thing he has a great many more stone walls and fences than are really needed. It is almost impossible to til or more close to fences. Cora lawleylyy, weeds are hoed and allowed to multiply in those places. The so-called Virginia Jenise is among the best weeds to propagate weeds.

Still another place is the farmer's kitchen garden. This place in the spring of the year receives two or three days of good earnest labor, during which the farmer works and the soil, sow the seeds, get the garden in the best condition possible, thinking that this year he will have a decent garden, his seeds germinate and grow. So do the weeds, but he has got his corn to hoe. The gardener must take care of itself.

Now if the farmer had planted his seed along in the rows with the corn he might have tended the two at the same time and not have a big patch of weeds at his back door.

THE MODERN NEWSPAPER.

By H. B. Lucas, for E. L. S.

Few of us who read the newspapers every day realize how much ability and push account in it's publication. The finest mechanical appliances, the best of business management, brainy editors and keen reporters are all essential to its success. There must be a library, all of which must be instantly accessible by a fine system of classification. Dates of all coming events are carefully kept.

The life history of almost every prominent man is carefully filed and ready. From 151 lives set up in the paper office. The editor is somewhat of an expert, to whom the editor of each department reports, while the reporter is responsible to his department chief. The reporter does not depend on mere chance. His life is not spent on the street; he is everywhere. If a wedding occurs, he knows about it and appears and again if a trial he is present. If there is an imporant meeting he doesn't fail to come—and always by assignment from the office.

If any sensation or brand new piece of news comes in his way he gets a glimpse on him to get it before the other papers. Our large city presses turn out some 4,800, eight or 16 page papers, fail printed, folded and pasted in one hour. Allowing for our largest cities two or three papers or more whose circulation is so wide in the hundreds of thousands we can get some idea of the vast amount of reading matter the American people consume.

Every business man takes at least one paper if not more and looks at the day's events with more or less interest. A certain part of the paper is given up to scandal, crime, science, politics, etc. Men cannot spend time to get into the deeper reading and so just glance over the daily news. People often say that the sensational side of life is endly or to largely brought forward and so we get things in the wrong light.

The papers will continue to be trashy just as long as the majority of the people are educated to read such matter.
