President's Hour, January 7, was devoted to discussion of the Peace Treaty and the covenant. He was backed up ant, in preparation for the referendum vote to be held at the college next Tuesday. President Beach briefly outlined the treaty at present and the importance of action being taken at once. Then he introduced Prof. H. R. Monteith, who gave his views on the proposition. In substance they are as follows:

The Treaty and the Covenant ought never to have been joined. This was a blunder that was pointed out by Clemenceau. The treaty should have been made within three months after the signing of the armistice. Due to the ideality of the Americans and to President Wilson's insistence the covenant was joined to the treaty. The president's idea in this is to prevent any country from repeating the crimes of Germany in the war. He insists that the Senate pass it as it stands or not at all.

In considering this question we must remember that the league expects to be made up of all the nations. A all differences in race and in form of government. Some of the peoples to be represented do not know what Democracy means. It has widely different meanings in Russia, Germany, and the United States. These facts will have an important bearing on the success of the league. The people of the United States cannot be pushed into or fooled into accepting this proposition until they are convinced that the constitution of the country is not endangered.

At the Peace Conference the Premiers of the Allied nations spoke for their countries. There were backed up absolutely by the legislative branches of their countries. They all thought that President Wilson represented the United States. To those who are impatient at the Senate's actions in regard to the treaty, it must be shown that it is not only the right of the Senate to examine the treaty and covenant closely, but its sworn duty to do so. The treaty making power in the United States rests with the President and the Senate and the Senate's duty must be recognized.

NON FRATERNITY MAN WINS TOURNAMENT CUP

RADINSKY BEATS FELD-MAN OF PHI EPSILON PI

Large Crowd Enjoys Scientific Game of Pool Between Best Men

The final game of the pool tournament was played on Monday evening, December 22, in the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity room, between D. Radinsky '23 representing the non-fraternity men and H. Feldman, '23, for the Phi Epsilon Pi.

Since this was to be the last game played between the two best players an extremely large crowd was on hand to see the fun. In this they were well rewarded. Both men were out after the crowd with which to adorn their club-room.

At seventy-three, Radinsky broke, and ran over seven points. Feldman did not have his "eye" with him, so the first rack ended 14-0 in favor of Radinsky. In the second rack however Feldman picked up and gained nine out of a possible fourteen, leaving the score 19 to 9 in favor. No "safes" were often resorted to.

The first half was characterized throughout by straight, scientific playing on both sides. In all but twenty-two safes were played, ten by "Finnegan" and twelve by Feldman. The second half began after a fifteen minute interval. Since the non-fraternity men did not yet have their pool table set up, the game continued on the same table. Radinsky broke. As this was the last chance for either side to score, the game took on a more scientific and professional attitude. "Safes" were often resorted to. Radinsky's method of leaving the cue ball after every one of his plays soon began to tell on the score. In all, fifty three safes were played, thirty by Feldman and twenty-three by Radinsky.

Very little scoring was done during the first two racks of the second half, many "safes" and "scratchers" occurring. Then, however, the game tightened up and bigger chances were taken—no at all did it seem that there was any possible cause of worry or apprehension on the part of Radinsky's upholders, as to who would be the winner. He played the game as never before and defeated Feldman with a score of 106-87.

A. E. Upham was chosen as referee and Harry Hopwood for scorekeeper.

The Storrs Branch Red Cross held a reception at the home of Mrs. Richard E. Dodge January 5th.

Miss Julia Bayley recently underwent an operation for removal of the tonsils at a Willimantic hospital.

NOTES ON THE GAME

Lockwood's shooting from the foul line was efficient to make the team go easy in the fouling line.

The way Alexander heaved them thru the net was too much for Ray in the second half. If he instructed his men to keep AI away from the ball but our wily little forward was more than a match for Ray's guards.

The game brought out the fact that Connecticut needs a new watch and two men on the bench one to keep score and one to keep time.

Leonard certainly had a sure eye for the hoop and the Aggies can congratulate themselves that he did not play the whole game.

Did you ever see prettier teamwork than the Aggie quartet displayed in the opening half? If you have, we have not.

Alexander and Lockwood accounted for 41 points between them, making 70 points that this pair have put on the Aggie score book in the first two games of the season.

BUILDING NEARLY DONE

A recent interview with the fore-mam of the builders of the New Din-everything in running order before

Commencement at least. As far as the actual building operations are concerned the Hall is finished, but there remains a great deal to do on the finishing touches that are necessary to change the edifice from a mere pile of stone into a place for humans to use. More detail will be ready for publication very soon.

CORPORATION TO FORM FOR NEW CHURCH

R. E. Dodge Explains Community Church Movement

French Class Sings

Prof. Croutereau's French class, composed of ten co-eds, entertained R. E. Dodge, chairman of the committee, that has charge of planning for the building of the Community Church and House. He told of what this movement means, somewhat as follows:

The committee can not work alone in this movement but must have the spirit of many workers to help it along. If the church today would meet its purpose, it must pay attention to economic and social problems as well as those concerned with religion. The church must take leadership in the life of a community. It has a responsibility as a center for bringing people together. With a building and equipment it can make more vital the religious work in the community.

We do not want to erect a monument but want a spirit behind the movement that will accomplish something. We need a building separate from the college, controlled by the people for service and worship. The church and community house would be open for the use of all church organizations and not restricted to those of one faith or creed. A corporation of one faith or creed. A corporation

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

There are forty senators who on the issue of Yes or No will vote Yes for the treaty as it now stands. There are eighty senators who will vote Yes for the treaty if it has certain amendments and reservations. The voice of sixty-five in favor of either proposition will pass it. It would be unwise to try to amend the treaty and covenant as this would necessitate the calling of a council meeting, which would be a misfortune. Reservations are the best way to secure satisfaction. The reservations would show what the United States understands certain points in the document to mean 'n respect to this country. It must be remembered that no power on earth can put the Army and Navy of the United States on a war footing except Congress. The Monroe Doctrine must be preserved. We can never let ourselves get under the power of any other nation in respect to its observance. We hear charges of bad faith on the part of some senators. These are unjust and unfair for the most part. Very few of the senators are guided by politics in this. The matter of votes in the league council is best forgotten. However when we know that England asked for and secured important points for her advantage in the covenant, we cannot feel but that we are entitled to demand the safety of our constitution and our freedom to use the Monroe Doctrine. The treaty and covenant can only be adopted with these reservations.

THE BOOK STORE PLAN

It is important that all should read and think over the plans for a cooperative book store, as printed on the first page of this issue. The step is a long one toward paying our bills for the athletic teams we send out from here, for the profits go to the Athletic Association. It also gives students more responsibilities in the matter of management.

A Student Org. meeting will be called very soon to vote upon the compact and it is necessary that we look it over and think seriously about it. If there are any flaws or faults we want to know them so that no mistake will be made on the part of the students.

THE ARMORY FLOOR

Preservation is almost as important as creation. Man made products can not last forever and it is for that reason that we must try to keep them in the best condition possible as long as they still have utility. When something is new and carries not only the everyday use and abuse that we wish we had more careful with it when abuse could have been prevented. We have had a number of our armory floors faultlessly perfect, for there is no better and we are proud of it. But there are times when carelessness triumphs over common sense and we allow ourselves to do what we ought not to.

It is hard to play or to dance on a floor that is constantly being dirtied by the tramping of dirty shoes. It is also wearing on the floor. Sometimes when it is muddy or snowy we forget to clean off our shoes before we go in the armory and carry in a lot of sand and wet. Then there is no more time in the day for using the gymnasium, it has been cleaned. Better rugs and foot scrappers at the entrance would help remedy this a great deal.

The mind has been warned often enough to keep off the floor unless we have rubber soled shoes on except at drill time. Yet some have the temerity to disregard this rule and go on scarring and wearing the surface. Moving the piano and gymnasium equipment about cannot be tolerated but care and effort demanded in this and the one who rides on the piano while it is being moved often be put in the second.

Succeeding generations will be just as proud of a fine floor in the armory as we are and it must be preserved according to will not be ashamed to ask girls from outside to a dance, nor to play other college teams there.

MAY LIMIT ACTIVITY

At a recent meeting, the Adminis­ trations board discussed the importance of the relationship of student activities to scholastic standing. Owing to our size and especially to the small number of men in the upper classes, students of ability are under a peculiar temptation to spend an undue amount of time in outside activities. With a view toward improving this situation if possible, the Board is the intention of the Board to adopt a rule prohibiting the refusal of the baby to scholastic standing. Owing to the refusal of the States faces are different than other countries complete deviation from the truth. The complaint that the library is not open at eight in the morning or else one, and one that could doubtless be settled in a satisfactory manner if a petition were presented through the proper channel. On the other hand the statement that the library is opened at the conveni­ ence of the librarian is so fallacious as to be almost absurd, if it were not for the unfortunate fact that many people are more ready to believe an untruth than a truth. "Ferret's" turkeys is a White Leghorn pen.

VIEWS ON THE LEAGUE

Though the League of Nations has been and still is to some extent a much advertised and exceedingly im­ portant issue, the mind of the Ameri­ can public does not seem to be greatly concerned about its fate. Politicians have worked hard to hurry the thing through and get it out of the way so as not to have it jarring too much with the coming presidential election, and perhaps have overem­ phasized the importance of the points in question. The general public may have underestimated the importance of the issue.

European nations seem to be chang­ ing their attitude of feeling as though the refusal of the United States to accept the Treaty as drawn up in Paris, would undo all that was gained in the war. The conditions the United States faces are different than other nations and it is realized that we must proceed with a proposition that is enough to be accepted by this country as well as the others. Any reser­ vations that will be fair to all and will make the League acceptable may probably be regarded by the nations as being the best the United States can do in the matter.

SAFETY VALVE

TELL IT TO LIBRARIAN

Dear Editor:

In the better class of periodicals slight attention is paid to anonymous communications. A complaint that is unsigned has generally very little weight. On the other hand the very fact that it is a stab in the dark car­ ries with it an injury and arouses a feeling of indignation which an openly signed communication would in no case do.

The contributor who under the pseudonym of "Ferret" (evidently a singularly well chosen name) com­ plains in the "Safety Valve" of the Campus of December 20, 1919, of the absence of the special (sic) of the library hours, is a good example of this class of writer. Whatever of Justice there may be in his statement it is over­ stated through the proper channel. On the other hand the statement that the library is opened at the conveni­ ence of the librarian is so fallacious as to be almost absurd, if it were not for the unfortunate fact that many people are more ready to believe an untruth than a truth. "Ferret's" turkeys turns into White Leghorn pen.

RESPECT THE DEAD

To the Editor:

Most of us have noticed the winding process of the dogs in the dairy building, doubtless started by some mortal who was al­ ways in a hurry to get through the day. A good example of this was the old booth (sic) that was laid around the sides of this graveyard, in order that we might feel dry with the dairy building.

To the Editor:

Our lives here at college is surely not so valuable that we can afford to show any disrespect or inconsidera­ tion in such a matter. It has been pointed out already that this is the greatest but by no means the sole offenders. This however is covered by their set of rules.

Let us be a little more considerate and keep to the straight and narrow board walk!—H.F.W.

REDS IN CONTROL HERE!

One of our reporters rushed in the other day with the startling news that the Reds had the upper hand at Storrs. Now we knew that there are few college students who had not index to, and this was indeed news to us. That our beloved professors and instructors and the students under them might be objects of suspicion as followers of Bolshevism and the Red flag was intolerable and deplorable by us and we would not believe it.

After vainly attempting to convince us the sponsor of the unwelcome news was reluctantly imparted the fact that it was not the Red party, but the Rhode Island Reds that led all others at Storrs. Relief spread over our features when it was announced, "Everybodys" path through the old graveyard op­ ened up."

The annual banquet of the Massa­ chusetts Club of the Connecticut Ag­ ricultural College was held in the United States Hotel, Boston, Mass., on December 27, 1919. The banquet was the first held since 1915 and proved very successful. Over thirty students, faculty and Alumni attended. Professor Slate spoke on "The Future of the College," Presi­ dent Hood, Messrs Maier, Newell and Alberti also spoke on subjects of gen­ eral interest.

Advertising C. A. C. and the financ­ ing of Athletics were the topics for the evening. The same officers were re-elected, except that Frederick Maier '21 was elected un­ dergraduate secretary.

LUNCH AND PARTY HELD

Oranges, Candy, and Gifts Remind Children of Christmas

Under the leadership of Mr. Richard E. Dodge, the Storrs Social Satellite gave a very pleasant party at Havley Armory, Saturday, December 17th. Each person brought a basket lunch and coffee was served to all. Lunch was over at five o'clock, when the main program began. Miss Missie Hayes gave a reading and all sang a few carols. Then the children each received an orange and some candy from the big Christmas tree. Mr. Roy E. Jones, as Santa Claus, with Stanley Dodge as assistant, proved very efficient, for even some of the big "boys" and "girls" received gifts from the tree. Then came the "White Elephant Party." Each person had been asked to bring something for the tree,—either a joke gift for some special person, or just a "white elephant." As his or her name was called, each went forward and opened the package. There was much merriment, because few gifts were especially appropriate and most of them decidedly "white elephants." After this, dancing and cards were enjoyed until about 8 o'clock. Following the party at the Armory Mrs. C. A. Wheeler entertained the young people at her home.

Among those who spent the holidays at their homes here were: Gladys Wheeler, Russell Sage College; Win. CHRISTMAS ON THE HILL

Although many of the faculty and practically all of the students were away for at least Christmas Day, still Christmas at Storrs was very enjoyable. Several held dinner parties and there were also a few card parties that evening.

Mr. E. Dodge entertained at supper for those students who were "stranded" during vacation. After a very pleasant time at Mrs. Dodge's, the guests went to a party at the home of Mrs. W. M. Esten. Games were played until rather a late hour, when the party broke up everyone voted that Christmas at Storrs was not at all dull.

BOYS' FAME SPREADS

Three Connecticut Agricultural College students seem to be getting a lot of national advertising out of the fact that they brought their hens to school with them. Although the hens have not yet attained the fame of Mary's lamb, the story has at least penetrated as far as California.

The Rev. Marshall Dawson recently received a clipping from a San Francisco newspaper, sent to him by a woman who lives in a neighboring town and who was formerly a member of a well known and has been overlooked had not Mr. Dawson's former parishioner called attention to it.

RIFLE INSTRUCTION
INCLUDES SHOOTING

BATTALLION WILL PRACTICE ON GALLERY AND RANGE

Company Teams is be Picked.
College Rifle Team May Form

In order that each member of the B. O. T. C. battalion may become proficient in the use of the rifle, Major Ferris has laid out a progressive and complete system of training.

At the present time the cadets are receiving instruction in nomenclature, care, and use of the rifle.

As each cadet becomes familiar with the rifle he will be instructed in the various sighting exercises and then in the position and aiming drills.

Gallery practice will follow. This will be done on the indoor range at the Armory.

The course of shooting prescribed will consist of each cadet firing twenty rounds, standing and kneeling at fifty feet and twenty rounds prone and sitting at seventy-five feet.

The Springfield gallery practice rifle will be used for this firing. This rifle, although the same size and weight as the 30 caliber Springfield, shoots a 22 caliber cartridge.

A cartridge holder, which is like a 30 caliber shell, is used to hold the 22 caliber cartridge in the chamber of the rifle.

In the spring, when the weather permits, outdoor firing will be held on the range in the rear of the Dining Hall. The Army Special Course A will be fired by each cadet.

This consists of preliminary and second firing at two and three hundred yard ranges using both slow and rapid fire. In this each man will fire one hundred rounds of ammunition.

Firing will be done from the prone, kneeling, sitting and standing positions.

Complete records will be kept of the work of each cadet. The results of scores made by individuals, squads and companies will be published so as to encourage competition.

Teams will be picked from each company and a match will be arranged so as to determine which company has the best shots.

Owing to the lack of time and the shortage of ammunition it is not expected that much shooting outside of the regular battalion schedule can be arranged. However, it is possible that a faculty team and class teams may be formed. Something may also be done in regard to the formation of a college rifle team which could shoot in competition with teams from other colleges.

CO-ED CHRISTMAS PARTY.

The Christmas activities at Storrs began on Sunday evening preceding, with a party at Valentine House. All the co-eds were present. Each received a "joke" gift, accompanied in most cases by a poem. Miss Rose acted as Santa Claus. As each girl received her gift she was required to open the package and read the poem aloud. After the gifts had been distributed, all joined in singing Christmas carols.

PHI EPSILON PI

The Phi Epsilon Pi National Convention was held in Pittsburgh, Pa., from December 28th to January 1st. About one hundred and fifty delegates from the different chapters were present. Donald Hirsh '19 and Emanuel Shulman '21 represented this chapter.

On New Year's Night an informal dance was held in the Elizabeth Park Pond House in Hartford by the Connecticut Active and Alumni Phi Epsilon Pi members. Chapters represented were Cornell, University of Maine, Syracuse University and New York University of Law.

New Year's Eve Party

The Storrs Social Satellites again held forth on New Year's Eve. This was a larger party because many of the students were back. The Armory floor was divided; one side was used for dancing, the other for card playing, dominoes and other games.

The committee in charge had planned various exciting contests, such as obstacle races. After these, refreshments were served and dancing resumed.

At quarter of twelve all joined hands and sang "Auld Lang Syne." Following this was the singing of "Old Hundred" by everyone and the reading of a prayer by Mr. C. H. Savage. Everyone then wished everyone else a "Happy New Year," and the very pleasant affair was over.

Make Sure of Your
DE LAVAL
CRAAM SEPARATOR

Early in 1920

There's no happier or better way of starting the New Year right than by making sure of a new De Laval if you are either without a cream separator or are using an inferior or half-wornout machine that should be replaced.

For three years now, thousands of those who wanted a De Laval have had to wait weeks for it and many have had to buy a second grade separator. The demand has simply exceeded the possible supply, though more De Lavals have been made each year than ever before.

More and better De Lavals will be made this year than ever before—as many as available plant additions and skilled workmen can produce—but the demand gives every indication of being even greater still.

Order your De Laval now. Make sure of getting it. Let it save half its cost by Spring.

See the nearest De Laval local agent at once, or write the nearest De Laval office below for any information desired.

CHARLES LEWIS BEACH, President
"THE BATTLE OF C. A. C."
(Dedicated to the Instructors, Officers and Men of the S. A. T. C.)

We're always hearing "Who won the War?"
And "Where were you when it was on?"
Or "What outfit, But?" and "What ship, Jack?"
When we answer "S. A. T. C." we're done.

But I'm telling you, Jack, we didn't have a cinch
In the nice S. A. T. C.
On the contrary we had to fight damn hard
In the "Battle of C. A. C."

You went across in nice big boats
And landed safe in France,
We came up here in the Black Maria,
Now who took the greater chance?

And then we ate in the Dining Hall
And had classes every day,
To say nothing of the awful line
The "Shave-tails" threw our way.

With reveille at six, and taps at ten,
No wonder it affected our heads,
Cause we'd have to hurry home from Willy
And jump in our barb-wired beds.

Speaking of "barbed-wire," you had it in France
But in front where you could see,
We had issued blankets made of that stuff,
In the "Battle of C. A. C."

You got your passes and went to "Paree";
And had a whale of a time,
Our "Looies" didn't know what passes were,
So we had a H — of a time.

Yes, we marched and fought, and even starved
While in the S. A. T. C.
And believe me Jack, it was a tough old fight,
That "Battle of C. A. C."

WOMAN DEAN SPEAKS HERE
An open meeting of the Woman's January 6th in room 7 Main Building.
Club of Storrs was held at 8:00 P.M. Miss Mary L. Benton, Dean of Women at Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota, spoke on "Woman and World Service."

Miss Benton has just returned from two years' service with the Y. W. C.
A. in Europe. Her work lay among the women of France and Lithuania. She was one of the two delegates sent out by the United States Commission of Education to select French girls for scholarships in American Colleges.
She made two such trips with two different assistants; over two hundred French girls are now in various American colleges with scholarships.

Miss Benton gave a most interesting account of her experiences while travelling abroad, and described conditions as she found them. She was in Paris during its bombardment.
The Dean was formerly an instructor at Smith College and while at Storrs, was the guest of Mrs. L. G.
Davis, one of her students at Smith.
