Decorations and Moonlight Ef-
fec ts Add to the Success of Dance

The Mid-year Informal was held by the Junior Class on Friday evening, February 20 in Hawley Armory and despite the poor transportation facilities and the extreme cold, was a huge success.
There were many outsiders present and these guests braved a nine mile sleigh ride from Willimantic in order to be present.

The Armory was robed in the usual
blue and white decoration, draped
from the center beams of the Armory to the rail of the running tracks. The boxes were arranged tastefully and costly. The Shakespearean Fraternity box was unique in arrangement.
The red and grey squares in check-
board effect attracted much attention.
The ninth and thirteenth dances were with moonlight effect and proved ever popular. The 'moon' shone from the south end of the Armory where it was placed by the decorative committee.

The Committee in charge of the dance deserves great credit for its success under adverse conditions.
It was as follows:

POST OFFICE UNDER DIFFER-ENT MANAGEMENT

After six months of heavy business
Mrs. Myra S. Crane and Flora M.
Miller again concluded on February 28, their duties in the Storrs Rural Station Post Office. The work has grown so rapidly in the last few years
that there has been a petition circulated for the establishment of an independent station here at Storrs. No action, as far as can be learned, has yet been taken on this petition but the majority of its supporters seem confident that it will be granted and one of them stated that it would prob-elably be established by the first of July. In the meantime the work is being carried on by Hugh Bromley, who is clerk and substitute carrier at the main office in Englefield.
Miss Miller leaves to fill the vacancy in the position of English instructor to the School of Agriculture caused by the departure of Anna M.
Wallace for hospital work in New York.

Successful Play Adds Much
To the Week-End
Festivities

The week end entertainments cullminated in the presentation of Edwin Mordaunt's version of Dickens' "Oliver Twist" by the Dramatic Club, Sat-day, February 28th. This was the second play given by the club this year and was by far the most difficult of any it has yet attempted. Miss Wallace was responsible for the directing and the coaching of the play and also did a great deal of work in the matter of writing over parts of the dramatization to fit local stage and scenic properties.

The cast called for nineteen persons
all of whom took their parts very credently. It was a type of play which called for real acting and much is to be said for the dramatic ability which was shown throughout the play. This was especially noticeable in the acting of Herbert Webb, who took the part of Fagin, the guardian of young pickpockets and housebreakers.
It was an admirably executed bit of character acting and his scenes in his dimly lighted garret were very effectively placed. Bill Sikes, taken by Frederick C. Maier, was also very well done and he carried off the rough and savage and abuse of Oliver to perfection. The title role was taken by Vermont Pinkham, who made an appealing Oliver. The work of Rose Sellers as Nancy deserves special mention, as the tragedy of her life was brought out very strongly. George Hilldring was cast as Mr. Brownlow was called home suddenly because of the illness of his mother, so Paul Manwaring took the part, having less than a week for rehearsing. In spite of the very short time spent in preparation, his part was taken excelently.

The scenery did much to make the play realistic and a great deal of credit is due Stage Manager F. Hawley
The play called for six changes of scenery, and the delays between scenes which were more or less necessary were filled by music rendered by the College Orchestra.
Due to the heavy expenses in scen-
y building and costuming for Oliver Twist, the amount of money made will be quite equal that realized on former products. It is estimated that the total receipts are about $150.00 and expenses about $75.00. The Dramatic Club feels that it has accomplished something big along the dramatic line, hence, finances are a secdary consideration.

Bolshevism or Democracy

Dr. Eaton Presents Comparisons
and Contrast at College Assembly

At College Assembly March 3, 1925
Dr. Eaton, Professor of Education, read the following paper on Bolshevism and Democracy.

No schemes for the constitution of its friends can be killed by mere acclamation of it. If that were so democ-mocracy would have perished one hundred and forty years ago. Neither an any scheme be sustained by acclaim of it. That scheme which is sound in theory and workable in practice will survive in spite of the most aggressive denunciation; that which is unsound or unworkable will perish amid the acclaim of enthusiasts.

The future is not revealed to us. Whether Bolshevism or democracy, or some other constitution of society shall prevail we do not know. But we shall have a share in determining Accordingly, it is worth while that we may contribute intelligent effort to inquire into the theory and practice of the scheme under which we live, as well as into that which some propose as a substitute for it. This, in a few aspects and briefly, I have attended to do.

Some Likenesses and Differences of Democracy

A Bolshevist is, literally, one of the majority party. Bolshevism is said also to stand for the rule of a majority. Democracy means, literally, rule by the throng and stands for the rule of a majority. Both Bolshevism and Democracy have arisen in protest against the rule of a privileged minority.

Bolshevism and democracy are young. Bolshevism, in its greater and lesser manifestations, has during the two years of its existence accomplished rule by the majority. Both

COACH SWARTZ LEAVES ABOUT APRIL FIRST TO PLAY ON TEAM IN READING, PENN.

Will Coach Varsity Team Until He Has To Go

According to recent advice of Physical Director Roy J. Guyer, Connecticut will lose M. Ross Swartz, who until he was called to join his team at Reading, Pa., for the International League, was to have coached varsity baseball.

Mr. Swartz has just received notice to report to the manager of his team on April 20. He will leave here on or about April 15. It was expected that Mr. Swartz would be with the varsity until the middle of May. However, these conditions, which have so suddenly arisen will cause his departure not later than the second game of the season.

According to a notice recently received from President Beach, Physical Director Guyer is responsible for securing coaches and is allowed to name them with the president's approval.

At a meeting of the Athletic Council held last Wednesday evening, Mr. Guyer announced that he would begin immediately to look for a coach to fill the place left by Mr. Swartz. He stated, however, that Mr. Swartz would be retained here until April 1, and that a new coach would not be procured before that date.

The Physical Director also announced that he desired the cooperation of the students and would welcome suggestions from them and the alumni as well, in finding a man suitable to coach baseball.

DEBATING SOCIETY MEETS.

The College Debating Society held its bi-weekly meeting in Room 7, Hort. Building, Wednesday evening, Mar. 3. Among the topics of talks on Current Events by D. Levy '23; on the Budget System and its relation to politics, by H. Bous '22; and on Free Tariff by L. Faulkner '22.

A general discussion followed the program. To stimulate interest in the Club, it was decided to have short debates on problems of local interest. The first of these "baby" debates will take place at the next regular meeting. The subject will be announced later.

Any students who are interested in debating are invited to attend the meetings.

The regular Christian Endeavor Service will be held at 6:45 in the Church. We are to have for a leader one who has not been on the Hill very long, but who has some excellent ideas on C. E. work, and is sure to give us an interesting meeting. Miss Florence O'Connor will lead the meeting on Sunday, March 7.

FRESHMEN AND SOPHOS PLAY LAST GAME

FRESHMEN WIN BY CLOSE SCORE

Hot Contest Witnessed by Weekend Visitors

Last Saturday the many visitors on the hill saw the Freshmen quintet beat the Sophomores in a hotly contested game from which they emerged on the long end of a 13 to 11 score.

The two teams were tied for second place so a great deal of extra pop was displayed. The game was extremely fast and but few fouls were called.

The first half ended with the Freshmen leading with a 10 to 5 score. In the second half Beisiegel of the Sophomores tied the score and the game went on at a very fast rate. After several minutes of hard playing Mullane sent the ball through ending the game with the Freshmen two points in the lead.

Dehne had his eye on the hoop and nearly every foul added a point to the Freshmen score. Lawson for the Sophomores did fine work, scoring six points from fouls. Baxter was the star of the game for the Freshmen and Dean for the Sophomores.

The line-up:

Fresmen: Beisiegel Baxter Mitchell LF Dean Dehne C Wooster Mullane LF H. Boas Dehne C Daily Dally Dally Watson Lilly Boas

Goals from fouls: Lawson 6, Dean 1, Dehne 2, Baxter.

BASEBALL ANNOUNCEMENT

Manager M. L. Osborn has announced that candidates for Assistant Manager of Baseball will be called for the last part of the season. A large number should respond and a lively competition is expected.

Colby College has been obliged to cancel the game arranged to be played at Bowdoin on Monday, May 15, because of an Intercollegiate track meet to be held at Bowdoin at this time. Colby gives preference to track and as six of her varsity baseball squad are also track men, no outside games can be scheduled for this date.

New Hampshire is scheduled to meet Colby at Storrs Friday, May 19. Manager Osborn does not expect to fill all the date caused by Colby's withdrawal.

BASEBALL PRACTICE BEGINS MONDAY

Fine Prospects for a Winning Season

The basketball season at C. A. C. is nearly over and we are all looking forward to start our favorite spring sport, baseball. Monday, March 8 will start the first indoor baseball practice for this season and it is hoped that it will start with a "bang."

M. R. Swartz, who is to have charge of the basketball team this spring, says that he is in hopes of putting at least fifty in uniforms this spring. In order to do this the men have got to get behind him and back him up to the end of the season.

An exceptionally good schedule has been arranged for this spring, and a man who is able to make the team will never regret it. Arrangements have already been completed for eight home games and five out-of-town games for the varsity team and there will be still some open dates. Assistant Manager Maier is also planning on a schedule for the second team that will have several trips on it.

We have our two varsity pitchers, J. P. Johnson and R. Sawin, back again this year and in addition we have several new men, P. Lord, L. A. Alexander, R. L. Chamberlain, Emigh and Lauberger, who will give them a rub for their positions. Our old backstop and this year's Captain, Mahoney, is back as strong as ever with his usual "pop" and he has high expectations for a winning team.

There is a big hole left in our infield due to the loss of Ryan, Eaton and Murphy, who are not back with us this year, so that there is a good chance for some men to work on the infield.

Last year we turned out a baseball team to be proud of and a lot of men did a great deal for the team and in addition have been several new men, P. Lord, L. A. Alexander, R. L. Chamberlain, Emigh and Lauberger, who will give them a rub for their positions.

It was the manager's idea to have a team all-Ohio and the idea was accepted by the players.

The team consists of six men from Ohio and the players are:

L. B. King, Managers; B. W. Bailey, Captain; W. H. Brown, T. J. Smith, W. J. M. Black, T. J. Wilson, W. H. Campbell.

The team will be in camp at Storrs, Conn., on March 15 and is expected to return to Colby on April 10.

The team will play its first game with the Freshmen on March 20 and its last game with the Sophomores on April 17.

The schedule is as follows:

March 20: Freshmen vs. Team

March 27: Team vs. Sophomores

April 3: Team vs. Freshmen

April 10: Team vs. Sophomores

April 17: Team vs. Freshmen

TOLLAND LAWYER

Ratcliffe Hicks Founded Prize Which Bears His Name

Ratcliffe Hicks, who established the prizes for oratory and declamation in this college, was a wealthy lawyer and manufacturer, a legislator and industrial politician.

He was born in Tolland, a picturesque little town a few miles from here. His father was a prominent merchant in Providence and his mother was the daughter of one of the leading lawyers in Tolland.

At the age of nine he entered the preparatory school and entered Brown University in 1860, graduating with high honor four years later. During his college days he gave particular attention to public speaking and debating. He ranked high in his class and was one of the orators at Connecticut.

After graduating, Mr. Hicks taught school in the town of his birth, devoting his leisure hours to the study of law. In two years he was admitted to the bar and immediately became associated with United States Senator Platt of Meriden. Later, he practiced alone in that city and in Hartford, attaining a reputation as a young lawyer of great oratorical powers.

When but twenty-three years old he was elected a member of the Connecticut Legislature and held public offices from then until 1895, his speeches bringing him much fame.

In 1857 Mr. Hicks became connected with a manufacturing concern in Bridgeport, was elected its president, and devoted his ability to the management of the factory. He afterwards did much traveling and wrote entertaining sketches from all parts of this country and Europe.

His great love of oratory led him to donate a sum of money to Brown University and Meriden High School, the interest to be used for prizes for public speaking and debating. In 1894 he established here the Ratcliffe Hicks' Prizes for oratory and declamation. The college was then known as Storrs Agricultural College and B. F. Koons was president. Mr. Hicks transferred a thousand dollar bond to the treasurer of the institution in order that the prizes might be awarded each year. Probably the proximity of the college to his birthplace influenced him to make this gift.

Both Bolshevism and democracy profess belief in the enlargement of opportunity to the increase of opportunity among those to whom it has been and still is in large measure denied—the proletariat. Equally it is opposed to the restrictive opportunity among those who have enjoyed and still enjoy a fair measure or an excess of it—the bourgeoisie and the aristocracy. Democracy is committed to the doctrine of equal opportunity for all—the fullest scope for development of original capacity without infringement upon the opportunities of others.

Both Bolshevism and Democracy set up a common machinery of action. Bolshevism establishes representative government founded upon industrial division. Voting and the right to vote are determined by occupation. Men and women are accorded suffrage, and vote for candidates of their own occupation unequally, according to the numbers they are employed in the different branches of labor, mechanies, mechanics, sailors, clerks, teachers, etc. Industrial control is had through committees in the different occupations, electing the workers according to their varying suffrage. These are the famous soviets. Local government is carried out by representatives of the soviets or workmen's representatives; regional government by representatives of the local representatives of the workers; central government by central representatives of regional representatives of local representatives of the workers, etc. Executive authority is in the hands of the heads of a committee of seventeen chosen by a group of 250 chosen by the 1500 central representatives of the regional representatives of the local representatives of the representatives elected by the workers. It is a factory, a mill, a mine, a farm, a shop, etc. The ideal international must be left to the higher imagination. At any rate representative government under Bolshevism results in the establishment of central authority utterly remote from the workmen voters—a condition highly unfavorable to despotic rule. It is an authority founded upon representation of classes, not of men; a government of the people, under lucky circumstances, not men, but never, by any chance, by the people. Democracy establishes representative government founded upon adult suffrage, with no recognition whatever of industrial or other classes. Hardly even the most conservative republic or limited monarchy of our time is so far removed from the will of the people as under Bolshevism the dictatorship of the proletariat in Russia.

Both Bolshevism and Democracy hold to the theory of rights and duties. Bolshevism recognizes but one right of the individual, the right to share in the product of social industry; but one duty, the duty to work or participation in social industry. Democratic theory recognizes a large number of specific rights and corresponding duties, as state, national and state constitutions, and implies recognition of more extensive and vague categories of both. Here is where the two theories come into conflict, in the right of the individual to the control of his own labor. Neither Example America legalizes the right to strike. Russia denies it utterly. America, too, accords to the individual for his own efforts and success, the possession and disposition of wealth accumulated through his own sacrifices and the ownership of the fruits of his labor.

Bolshevism denies that there can come for the proletariat, at least, an enlarged opportunity under a capitalistic scheme of society. Democracy denies that under a scheme of communism ownership of wealth there can be any such thing as equality of work. Equality of work, according to the democratic conception is a positive reality, not a negative abstraction, a means to socialisation for the in indvidual, not a denial of his individuality. The man denied the right to control and direct his own labor has no more rights to an axe or an automobile be said to have opportunity. The Bolshevist doctrine lays upon the man the duty of work, but denies him individuality, self, choice, will, or motive in the matter. Yet work is meaningless in any human sense without these factors. Bolshevism declares that labor is the source of all wealth. Democracy is doubtful. Saving and sacrifice are not the source of capital, but would abolish capital. But Democracy says: Without saving and sacrifice there can be no capital, without capital there can be no opportunity. You save, and you have, first, sacrifice, and then labor. Labor abolished there will be no classes to which the proletariat would have no need for opportunity—an end to all government, and all society.

Bolshevism says all labor is equally service to society. All men should share, then, equally in labor and in the social product. Democracy says: No. Not all labor is equally service to society. The able individual in the right place contributes more to social well-being than the weaker or less able, he should get more besides his pay. He works more, and is in justice entitled to a larger share. By his larger contribution he helps his weaker fellow. If you deny him a reasonable part in the increase due to his superiority you destroy all motive in him, ceases to be the superior contributor, embarrassing and the weaker brother both lose.

In theory then, Bolshevism is the rule of the proletariat, a majority rule. Democracy holds to the right of all to work and receive their just share, a minority, a majority rule otherwise. Bolshevism is a representative form of government founded upon, perpetuating and emphasizing class difference.

Dear Editor:

What has been taken by the Student Council in regard to the recent complaint about the Dining Hall? Have they conferred with President Taft in regard to this matter? And can we ascertain whether something can be done to alleviate the situation?

Also, the writer believes in discussing the great interest in the Campus, it seems entirely unnecessary and altogether too bad to create an unfavourable impression of C. A. C. throughout the state.

The discussion of Dining Hall affairs is a private matter and should be confined to the limits of the campus—not circulated for the perusal of the citizens of the state.

If the subject is carried to the proper authorities, no doubt improved conditions will result.

Dear Editor:

It is no more than fair that "Miss Understood," and any other person should be allowed to discuss why the Popularity Contest for the Nutmeg was judged illegal.

Dame Rumor was correct when she accused the students of being a group of three fraternities. In this particular case, the election did not represent the popular vote of the students, but the vote of the three fraternities, each as a single person.

Some time before the contest, these three fratos arranged among themselves just who to vote for, for each character on the contest, regardless of each person's own personal opinion.

Is it not time for the students here to act more like men and women in such matters? It would seem that each on the part of his fraternity should have enough backbone to vote for the person he thinks best suited and not be coerced into voting for someone he does not wish for. It is to boost his own fraternity to the top, regardless of the fact that there may be just as good or a much better man from some other fraternity who could fill the position? As long as there is this interference political fighting, C. A. C. will never be able to succeed and forge ahead. Why cannot one person be given just as much of a show as another, regardless as to whether he is a frat or non-frat? Let each get enough backbone and grit to think as he pleases, vote as he pleases and stick up for his own ideals. This might be good food for some people.

Last week Miss Taft was asked by a member of the Mid-Year Informal committee to try and do her best over the weekend, while some of the visitors were here. Everybody has noticed the better meals that we have been getting ever since that time, and we think it is no more than right that we should evince our approval when such a change takes place.

EXHIBITION DRILL GIVEN

At 1:50 P.M. last Saturday a bugle aroused everyone on the campus and reminded them of the battalion drill to be held at 2:00 o'clock in Hawley Armory.

The three companies of the battalion assembled on the Armory floor and then for the first time the band appeared in public. The boys of the battalion displayed their alertness and ability at executing the manual of arms and then passed in review.

Company C gave an exhibition drill from Butt's Manual. Evidently the three commanders then picked a squad of men from his company to enter in the competitive drill. The rules, saying that any man who did not execute the proper order with exact precision would be counted out and the company having the most men standing at the end of a ten minute period would be declared the winner, were read and the judges then took their posts and watched for errors. Ex-Lieutenant Infantry Dow gave commands and acted as one of the judges. Ex-Lieutenant Cavalry Bauer and Ex-Lieutenant Aviation Gleason were the other two judges.

In the first few minutes of the period the entire squad from C company was put out. Men from the remaining squads were sent out from time to time until only two were left. Moses for Company B and Matthews for Company A.

On the next command Matthews was counted out and Moses alone remained upholding the honor and dignity of Company B.

Mr. Manter has recently taken some pictures of the R. O. T. C. battalion at Storrs and the proofs will soon be forwarded to Washington.

The pictures show the men at drill and include triangulation, sighting and adjusting the rifle and prepares them for more accurate work on the range. More pictures are soon to be taken and these will show the men shooting on the indoor range; the battalion drawn up on the Armory floor; and Company C executing Butts Manual.

Colonel Morrow of the General Staff has requested that these pictures be taken for the use of that department. It is thought that they may be included in a catalog showing the activities of different branches of the United States Army.

JUNIOR PLAY CHOSEN

The play to be given Junior Week has been decided upon by the play committee. It is the play "Nothing but the Truth" which is a real, live comedy from start to finish and will keep the audience in an uproar at will the predicaments of the poor man who "has to tell the truth."

The play has had a very popular run and the lead was taken by William Gillette. The plot and costuming is modern.

Due to the fact that Anna M. Wallace has left the institution it is quite probable that the show will be directed by a student. Tryouts for the cast will be announced very soon.

DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS are the cheapest as well as the best

This is an unanswerable argument in favor of the purchase of a De Laval Cream Separator.

Everyone wants the best, provided it's cost is within his means. Fortunately a De Laval costs but little more than an inferior cream separator and saves that difference every few weeks. Moreover, an inferior separator wastes in time and labor, and in quantity and quality of product what a De Laval saves, and goes on doing so every time it is used, twice a day every day in the year.

If you doubt this is so, try a new De Laval alongside any old machine you may be using or other make of separator you may have thought of buying. Every De Laval agent will be glad to afford you the opportunity to do so.

If you don't know the nearest De Laval agent, simply address the nearest De Laval main office, as below:

THE STATE COLLEGE AS IT LOOKS

J. A. Manter Has Many Photographs on Exhibition

The beautiful photographs of College scenes and exhibits in the new book store have aroused the admiration of everyone on the campus. The pictures are the work of J. A. Manter, of the Zoology Department of the college.

Mr. Manter has taken about five hundred pictures of the College, ranging from likenesses of the prize livestock of the state herd to pictures of beautiful scenes and of the co-eds in Practice House. Besides the collection which he has himself taken, Mr. Manter has on file several hundred negatives which are the work of Dr. Jarvis, who spent several years at Connecticut Agricultural College and is now in Washington, D. C. The publicity committee finds these pictures very useful and takes advantage of the honor's file whenever catalogues and bulletins are being published.

Mr. Manter is an experienced photographer and achieves some very artistic effects in his work. He takes up photography simply as a hobby and uses various sizes of cameras. From those having a 2 1/4 plate to those with an 8x10, Mr. Manter spent some time last summer in studying nature photography at Amston, Connecticut. He is taking advantage of this knowledge just now to get a photographic story of Storms covered deep with snow. The scenes which are now on exhibition at the book store are a part of the story of our great white winter. Mr. Manter put these on exhibition in order that people may get copies of the pictures, if they desire any. The charge for the pictures covers merely the cost of producing them.

ALPHA PHI NOTES

Trueman H. Spencer, '12-S, visited the Hill February 25-26, and stepping off on his way to Albany, N. Y., where he has been offered a position as Asst. Herdsman in a large certified milk concern supplying the dairy Mr. Spencer's wife and two children will remain for the present in Colchester, Conn., although he expects to take them with him to Albany in the near future.

George I. Ball, '17-S, is still confined to his home in Hackensack, N. J., as the result of an injury received last August. At that time one of his legs was badly burned and two bones were broken; although the latter still remaining out of their normal position.

BATTALION SHOOTS—
100 IS HIGHEST SCORE

During the past few weeks the members of the R. O. T. C. battalion have been shooting on the indoor range in the Armory as fast as they could be accommodated.

A record is kept of each man's score. Quite a few men have completed firing at the 50 foot range; kneeling and standing positions. Each man firing ten shots in each position.

The total possible score in the firing done so far is 100. The scores made to date are as follows:

Leen H. Kibbe, ex-'22, writes that he is working out for the Yale Sheffield School.

"Kib" left C. A. C. at the end of his Freshman year to enter the Yale Sheffield School.
BOLSHEVISM AND DEMOCRACY

ences. Bolshevism is a government, as that of any ruler of the people, possibly for them, but not by them.

Democracy is, in theory, the rule of the majority, a denial of class differences, a recognition of individual differences, a government by the people as well as of them.

Bolshevism denies the individual and his own distant political power. Democracy exalts the individual and recognizes the state only as a means to his well being.

Bolshevism sets up a machine, but neglects the motive power. Democracy provides first the motive power then the machine, crude as it may be, and keeps it running. Bolshevism is static, Democracy dynamic. Bolshevism a structure of society, Democracy a society of classes.

But in practice Russian Bolshevism does recognize individual differences, does reward the able, does preserve capital. It does so, because, as Lenin has confessed, in that way, and in that way only can the machine be kept in some sort of motion. Lenin still hopes for the day when capital, initiative, the individual, his own distant proletariat shall cease to be, in the perfection of the Bolshevistic theory. At present Bolshevism, as exemplified in Russia, is a clumsy socialistic machine, put together with extraordinary awkwardness, and groaning along under the impulsion of crude industrial democracy to the production of misery and discontent for the whole world.

In practice, too, democracy squawks and complains and produces misery. Its machinery is imperfect, if its motive power be great. But misery is a by-product, not the principal product, as with the Lenin-Trotzky achievement. Wealth is with us still passed on from those who have earned to those who have not earned, accumulated in the hands of those whose contributions to social well-being have been nil or less. Still it is true that the able man must often start leagues in the rear of the less able. But opportunity does widen. The sense of defects is strong, and when the majority strongly wills it, defects in the machine may be remedied without stopping it, upsetting it, or destroying it.

As I see it, if we revolt and install a social system according to the theory of Bolshevism we cast out the motive force of civilization and kill society. We substitute a skeleton for the living creation. If we revolt and substitute for our democracy the practical machinery of Bolshevism, we set up a mock substitute, a crude industrial democracy, introducing a host of evils from which we are now free, and accentuating the defects and evils of which we now complain. If we hold to our faith in equality of opportunity, and give ourselves with patience to the perfecting of a social system of proved worth, containing as much of the provision for change in accordance with the will of the people, the world may yet be a happy place for all who come into it.

EXTENSION DAIRYMAN

also knows the selling end through experience.

The many dairymen from all parts of the state who greeted Mr. Campbell at Farmers' Week felt that they were welcoming to the state an old and valued friend. The dairy friends present from outside the state were unanimous in their congratulations to Connecticut in securing the services of Mr. Campbell and these congratulations were not expressed as a matter of courtesy. They were enthusiastic and sincere because they were warranted.

The following article in the New England Homestead of February 21 speaks well of Mr. Campbell and moreover judges the Connecticut Agricultural College as a vital factor in real agricultural work.

Connecticut is most fortunate in securing the services of P. A. Campbell as dairy specialist for the state extension work. For a number of years he headed the animal husbandry department of the Maine college of agriculture and then became manager of a large live stock enterprise in northern New Hampshire. He has a host of friends in Maine and New Hampshire. At the big farmers' week in Connecticut he was getting acquainted with the men in his new field. He is expected to take up his new duties about March 1. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that the Connecticut college at Storrs is fast coming to the front as a leader in real agricultural work, especially in dairy and live stock lines. The management doesn't say much, but is sawing wood every minute. Farmers appreciate this kind of service.

JUNIORS EARN DEGREE WITH 145 CREDITS

Faculty Make New Ruling To Cover Students of Class of 1921

At a recent meeting of the faculty it was voted that the present Junior class be required to obtain 145 credits for a degree instead of 150 as was hitherto specified. This was done upon the recommendation of the Administrative Board which had taken the matter of reducing the credits under consideration. The reason for this action was that the faculty felt that a stiffening up of the college courses has already taken place in connection with the reducing of required credits which was put into effect last year commencing with the class of 1922. It is believed that the class of 1921 should be given the benefit of the new schedule under which they are working.
