HAMILTON HOLT ON THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

STORRS AUDIENCE HEARS FAMOUS JOURNALIST

Gives Clear and Concise Interpretation of Covenant—Con­futes Opponents' Reasoning

Mr. Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent and one of the foremost supporters of the League of Nations, spoke to the student body and faculty of the College in Hawley Arm­ory Monday night. A large number of people from the town and nearby communities were present to hear Mr. Holt. He has just returned from an extended trip to London, Paris and Berlin and is probably better informed regarding the new League than any man in the United States. Al­though Mr. Holt is a Republican he is a staunch backer of the League.

He said: "I wish to develop two main lines of thought in my talk this evening: 1st—What is the covenant of the League of Nations; and 2nd—What the League has accomplished in the short time of ten months that it has been in existence. The covenant of the League of Nations can be analyzed into three parts, one of which is very important. That is the agreement made by the nations who enter the League to support it...."

THE NEW SCEDURE GIVES MORE TIME FOR SPORTS

ALLOWS LONGER TIME FOR FOOTBALL PRACTICE

Classes Begin at 7:30 a.m. and at 12:30 p.m. Gives Extra Hour for Team

In order to overcome the loss of time occasioned by the arrival of ear­lier nightfalls, the Faculty, at a meeting held Thursday evening, October 26, voted to run all classes one hour earlier until the beginning of the Thanksgiving recess. Starting Tuesday, November 2, all classes begin at 7:30 a.m. Classes begin at 7:30 and continue until 11:30. The dinner hour now lasts from 11:45 until 12:30 at which time the afternoon classes be­gin, all classes being over at 3:30. By this method an extra hour of daylight is obtained for the benefit of the foot­ball team and all interclass athletics.

STUDENTS DONATE $237 FOR ATHLETIC INSURANCE

Varsity Club Disinclined to Grant Co-eds the "C"

Two hundred thirty-seven dollars have been collected from the students by the Varsity Club for the athletic insurance fund according to William Gronwaldt, president of the club. As few injuries are sustained in basket­ball and baseball, the club decided, at a meeting last Monday evening, to deposit this money in a saving bank in Willimantic as soon as the football season is over. It may be withdrawn whenever it becomes neces­sary to use it.

Paul Putnam, chairman of the com­mittee on girls' basketball letters ap­pointed by the Varsity Club, made a report on this matter. The members of the club informally discussed the situation but definite action was post­poned until the next regular meeting on Monday, November 1. The Ath­letic Association, who must finally de­cide the question, have asked for the opinion of the Varsity Club. From remarks heard by a "Campus" re­porter, the attitude of the majority of the members is that they will dis­continue playing on the college teams if the co-eds are granted a plain let­ter as they desire. However, they are apparently willing to allow the girls to wear a "C" with a "G" in the center and a "B" on each side, as de­signed last year.

DINING HALL CAUSES TROUBLE ONCE MORE

Outweighed and outclassed, the Aggies fought their best but went down to defeat at the hands of New Hampshire in a rather one-sided game by the score of 40 to 0. At no time were the Aggies really dangerous, while the northerners plowed through the Blue and White line at will, by sheer force and weight. From one side line it looked like a high school eleven pitted against a team of giants and the Blue and White players can be highly complimented on their game resistance against the terrific plugging of the opponent backs. At no stage of the game were the visitors forced to rely on tricks or open formations and for the most part made their gains on straight line plunges.

Their line opened holes from tackle to tackle, and again, through which their backs plunged for steady and consistent gains. The visitors had a whirlwind of a backfield and it was a hard proposition to stop them once New Hampshire runners when it looked as if they had broken away for a score. Bell, Rumazza and Connors were the individual stars for New Hampshire and they certainly proved themselves to be a brilliant trio.

The Game
Daly kicked off to New Hampshire and the runner was brought to earth on the 30 yard line. New Hampshire immediately started a long march down the field which brought the ball to the Aggies 4 yard line, but here it stopped because the bull dog spirit of the Blue and White asserted itself and the New Hampshire runners were either stopped for no gain or smeared for a loss, and the ball passed to Connecticut on downs.

Mitchell dropped behind the goal line and puntled. The punt was short and when the New Hampshire man tackled the ball was on Connecticut's 20 yard line and the Blue and White was again in danger. Again the Aggies smashed the attack of the visitors and the New Hampshire runners were dropped. The ball was put in play on the Aggies 20 yard line. Mitchell punted to New Hampshire's 45 yard line and the runner was stopped. As the time the Aggies made a staunch stand but the weight of the visitors gradually wore them out and they carried the ball to our 5 yard line on line plunges from where Connors carried it over. Harwell failed to kick the goal.

Bell kicked off to Daly who was downed on the Aggies 27 yard line.

Second Quarter
Baxter was dropped for a 12 yard loss and Mitchell punted to New Hampshire's 40 yard line. The Aggie line was weak and the tackling high and poor with the result that New Hampshire had little trouble walking through the line and Bell finally carried the ball for a second touchdown. Connors kicked the goal. Once more the northerners made a long march down the field and just before the end of the half Bell carried it over a second time. Connors kicked the goal.

Third Quarter
Daly kicked off to Farmer who was downed on the 25 yard line. Rumazza streaked around right end for a gain of 65 yards and planted the ball on the Aggies 10 yard line, from where New Hampshire pushed it across on line backs. Connors kicked the goal.

Harwell kicked to Daly who carried it back to the 30 yard line before being tackled. The Aggies hit the line hard and low and made a first down on line plunges and then Alexander brought the crowd to its feet by catching a forward pass and racing to New Hampshire's 30 yard line. But fate was against the Blue and White, and Alexander's shoulder was injured on the tackle and he lost the ball, New Hampshire capturing it. New Hampshire punted but recovered the ball a few minutes later by intercepting a forward pass. Rumazza once more showed his speed by tearing around left end for 30 yards and another touchdown. Connors kicked the goal. At this stage the New Hampshire coach sent a large number of subs into the game.

Last Quarter
Shortly after the quarter started Rumazza again broke loose and placed the sphere on the Aggies 10 yard line before he was stopped, and Gustafson fell on the ball and tackled the Aggies and New Hampshire runners were either stopped for no gain or smeared for a loss, and the ball passed to Connecticut on downs.

Mitchell dropped behind the goal line and puntuled. The punt was short and when the New Hampshire man tackled the ball was on Connecticut's 20 yard line and the Blue and White was again in danger. Again the Aggies smashed the attack of the visitors and the New Hampshire runners were dropped. The ball was put in play on the Aggies 20 yard line. Mitchell punted to New Hampshire's 45 yard line and the runner was stopped. As the time the Aggies made a staunch stand but the weight of the visitors gradually wore them out and they carried the ball to our 5 yard line on line (Cont. on page 3 col. 2).
W. SCHIMMEL RESIGNS POSITION AT DAIRY

William Schimmel, '20, has resigned his position as instructor in the Dairy Department to take up teaching in Vermont. The name of the institution has not been revealed but it is understood that he is to teach in a secondary agricultural college.

Charles Hardy has been secured to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Holbrook last spring when he left to enter business for himself. Mr. Hardy comes well recommended. He graduated from the two year course at New Hampshire State College in 1919. After graduating Mr. Hardy spent three years doing advanced registry work at his college when he left to take charge of the creamery at the Balsam Stock Farm, Dixville, N. H. He was with this concern for two years when he left to enter the army. Before coming to Connecticut, Mr. Hardy spent two years with the Mohawk Dairy Company of New Hampshire.

COLLEGE QUARTET SINGS AT STAFFORD SPRINGS

Fifteen members of the Mansfield Grange, accompanied by the College Quartet, composed of E. W. Crampton, A. P. Bates, E. W. Fogg and B. Smith, motored to Stafford and furnished the program for the evening in the Grange there. The College Quartet rendered eight selections and won much applause each time.

A. G. Skinner acted as chairman of the program, State lecturer C. A. Wheeler, Mrs. C. A. Wheeler and Frank Miller, Master of the Mansfield Grange, spoke during the evening. Mr. Stemmoms, representing the new Women's Party spoke on the platform of the party. Refreshments and dancing followed the program.

OUR CO-EDS VISIT THREAD MILLS IN WILLIMANTIC

Unable to Discover Why Boys Go There So Often

As a part of their training in textiles, twenty-six students of Home Economics, under the direction of Miss Edith L. Mason, inspected two cloth weaving plants in Willimantic the morning of October 29. The plants visited were those of the Windham Silk Co., and the Quinidick Windham Manufacturing Co.

In both plants guides showed and explained each step in the various stages from the raw material to the finished product. The girls also visited a model factory home, which had been fitted out by the American Thread Co., for the instruction of its employees in the latest ideas in home management.

Upon the completion of the inspection the girls were allowed the freedom of the big city and immediately set out to discover what the attraction was that drew the boys to town so often. The first stop was made at the Y. M. C. A., but after much discussion the girls decided to give it a clean bill. Next the "Five and Ten" was visited and many articles necessary to feminine comfort were secured. At the same time a sharp watch was maintained for pickpockets and wooden nickles in the change, for had not their sisters on the Hill warned them repeatedly against such precautions? No attempts were made to inspect the side streets, some of the girls even considering it desirable to walk in the middle of Main Street. After hours of fruitless searching, the girls turned to Storrs still undecided about the lure of Willimantic.

MRS. J. S. KOONS THINKS NEW GIRLS DORM IS BIG STEP

Mrs. J. S. Koons, wife of the former president of the college, is visiting for a while at a home of Miss Edwina Whitney, librarian. When asked what she considered to be the biggest change in the appearance of the grounds, she replied that while there had been many developments since her residence here, she thought that the advent of the new girls' dormitory which is now under construction was the biggest single step yet taken.

SCHOOL OF AG. INSTRUCTS ITS NEW MEN

At a meeting of the School of Agriculture held Monday, October 25th, William Edge was elected captain of the School football team and Reginald Shannon manager. The manager is responding to all requests of sport managers and the rules in regard to entering the dinner hall early were explained to all first year men of the School.

The international importance of the Dairy Show at Chicago was strikingly brought out by Prof. R. C. Fisher in a recent discussion of the National Show. American dairymen were far from being the only ones at Chicago, for eminent scientists and dairy investigators were present from Holland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Argentina and other countries where dairying is an important industry.

Butter, cheese and other dairy products from Denmark and Argentina were shown, in addition to the very large number of American dairy products.

The exhibit of the National Dairy Council clearly set forth the importance and food value of dairy products to the nation. The U. S. Department of Agriculture exhibit included a miniature Swiss cheese factory, complete in every detail. The machinery exhibited was excellent and a plant equipped with milk condensing and milk powdering machinery was a feature of this display.

In the educational department, the Ohio State University had an exhibit which traced the steps in milk production from the food which a cow eats to the cow, the dairyman, the dealer, and the other middlemen down to the ultimate consumer.

The National Ice Cream Convention, the Milk Dealers' Association and the Dairy Science Association held held meetings at Chicago during the Dairy Show.

Better marketing organization was strongly emphasized throughout the show. A combined meeting of all milk producers' associations, such as the Dairymen's League and the N. E. M. P. A., was held to discuss the problems of the dairy industry. The operation to discuss problems of vital interest is one of the biggest steps which the American farmer has ever taken, and it has been largely brought about by the dairymen's associations which are scattered throughout the whole country.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Connecticut says that it is willing to make sacrifices to help athletics, for starting the day's program half an hour earlier each day, in order to allow a longer practice for the football team. This is a step in the right direction to all members of the community. It is gratifying to know that nobody has grumbled and that all are willing to help the team to that extent.

At present, all energy is being expended to duplicate last year's success over the team from Rhode Island, and in spite of the recent victories results obtained thus far, there seems to be no doubt in the mind of the followers of the Blue and White that they will again conquer their old time rivals. Although it is not certain that the Rhode Island student body will follow their team to Storrs, it is expected that the Connecticut Alumni will be present in larger numbers than ever before, and many have written announcing their intention to be on hand. John McCarthy, former varsity halfback, and captain of the baseball team, has stated that he will return a week before the game, and do his best to help Coach Swarts in whipping the Connecticut machine into tip-top shape.

Connecticut plays Rhode Island State at Gardner Dow Field, Storrs, on Saturday, November 20th, 1920. The game will get under way at 2:30 o'clock p.m. Admission will be seventy-five cents for those not holding alumni tickets or athletic association tickets.

The following statement was made in a recent letter from a Senior in a college near here, having a student enrollment similar to ours:

"About the board here—we pay $7.50 per week and receive a sensible ordinary bill of fare—lots of it and prepared wholesomely. Tables with linen cloths are set, and the linens are set for twelve and served by a student waiter—white coat, etc. Table manners and etiquette are observed and enforced, so that the meal hour is as agreeable as desired. Of course, the Hall is run by our Student Association and if we see a large profit coming the price will be raised. That there is no way to be a self-supporting part of our student association."

Wouldn't it be a good thing if some of our literary and theatrical groups could produce some additional college songs, typical of Aggie spirit and original in melody as well as words? Our new choir work first-rate, why not have a few songs which we can say are truly Connecticut?

WE'VE GOT TO THINK

To thoughtful students, who are ever so mindful that all the games of the college and her athletic teams, the athletic situation especially when regarded from the angle of football seems rather acute, is viewed by some with alarm. That the Freshman class was a disappointment from the standpoint of football material is no secret; so weak are the lower classes in that branch of sports, that they succumbed to the Seniors in the inter-class series. Not a freshman has appeared in the varsity lineup in the past two games, and for the first time in many a year, there is a likelihood that one Freshman will win his football letter.

The football squad is hard at work and the team has been playing games throughout the season but the trouble has been that they were outclassed and outplayed. To be beaten is no disgrace, especially if you are playing a better team than you, but the alarming part of the situation lies in the fact that Connecticut this year has been playing in the lowest class possible as far as football ability is concerned, and it would be hard to arrange an easier schedule than this year's and still play colleges.

If Connecticut hopes to play football and in hoping that it should get into the game planning to pull out a few victories, something must be done. An endeavor was made last fall to take on desirable football players in Connecticut High Schools in order to interest them in Connecticut, but success did not crown our endeavors.

The solution of the problem means that every available ounce of thought and energy must be expended by both the students, faculty and alumni, in order to keep our athletics progressing as they should. This editorial aims to stimulate thought.

STUDENTS CAN TALK

In years gone by, it has been the custom to allow the leaders of the various student activities an opportunity to explain the aims of the activities which they represent to the college body. College newspapers have usually been given to the students to accomplish the above purpose. But why not go a step in advance, would be of considerable interest to all to hear a student speaker now and then, especially if he was prepared to speak on a subject relating to the life and activity of the institution? Some of the students say that it could be and are asking that some of their college leagues be given a chance to show their ability on the rostrum. Moreover, with the dignity with which the college assembly is conducted, it is possible for a student to "get more across" than he could at Students' Organization, and there is the added attraction of having a student present to hear what he has to say.

LET'S BE CAREFUL

It would seem in the light of past experiences that the relations between the student body and the boarding department would be handled with a considerable degree of grace and care and in a manner to insure a reasonable degree of contentment among the students. The tax on tea never harmed the American colonists to any great extent. It should be just on the principle of the thing. The tablecloths certainly have been an expensive item for the first six weeks of college.

SPELL IT OUT, ALUMNI!

Loyal Connecticut roosters will not be wanting at the game in Boston today. Men who used to spell it out years ago for old Aggie will be there "with bells on" according to a letter received from Pop Eaton this week.

That the Alumni are showing interest in the game is evidenced by the fact that many have attended the last two games at Storrs. The Alumni campaign has been productive of results, but better things are coming.

By Pop Eaton's letter we see that a bunch will arrive for the game with Rhode Island. Good enough. If we have lots of alumni present, lots of pep and a nice, clean win—what more can we ask?

Pop's letter is as follows:

"The following alumni will attend the C. A. C.—B. U. game at Braven Field, Boston: C. E. Hood '90; F. S. Hoff '09; Dr. Miller '06; I. H. Rotman '09; R. E. Nowell '13; Keith Scott '06; W. A. B. Mann '13; A. J. Blackhall '15; Melville Baker '15; James A. Geenan '11; E. C. Eaton '13; Arbein '13; Richard Dres- son '15. This list is to date. Yester- day three letters came in saying, "Well be there with bells on." The alumni living in the Hub are planning to take in C. A. C. vs. R. I. C. at Gardner Dow Field. Plan to get to C. A. C. Friday for chow and take in the various club and fraternity meetings and root for Mater on the 20th."

Will send you complete list of those planning to see Connecticut defeat R. I. C. on the 20th as soon as same is yes or no.

Sincerely,
E. C. Eaton, '11.

A business meeting of the Sewing Club held Thursday evening, October 29th, Miss Florence M. Kittner was elected President and Miss Alice G. Larkham-Secretary-Treasurer for the ensuing year. A vote of thanks was given Miss Tapley and Miss Mc- Cracken for their services during the past year.

SAFETY VALVE

THE VARSITY EMBLEM

Many of the students at the present time are considering the possibility of raising the Connecticut Campus VARIETY EMBLEMS. The students mentioned above are the men who are representing "Our" college in Athletics. It is of course the players who have discussed the problem from various points of view. It should be to all students an important issue in the building up of a better, stronger, more attractive Connecticut Life.

When we stop to consider this question, just what does the wearing of the varsity letter mean to the men wearing them. It should be the reward of skill, faithfulness and loyalty; an attainment to be arrived at by earnest work and success. The wearer often stops to think whether the team he has played on has done credit to the institution and insures him the right to wear the "C."

There has been a few seasons when the whole of the team has been on the College credit enough for the time and energy placed into it. These few things lessen the value of the "C." so much that men are wearing the coveted letter when they really should not because the team they represent has not given them sufficient justice to do so. There are men who have earned the letter and others who have not; while there are others because of an injury received are prevented from earning the letter and others are wearing them for the simple reason no other man was there to fill the positions. Many men are absolutely correct in thinking that they have the right to wear the "C." because they have done credit to the Institution. Legally speaking he has; but morally speaking, have they? In many cases the moral side over-balance the legal side for it enables the man after winning his letter a right to say he has actually earned it and has the right to be respected accordingly. All of us are broad minded enough to know that a day three side of the question is the condition we want here.

Taking the moral side of the question, I think there are too many "C's" being worn in the first place and secondly that there are too many different types. Isn't there a possible means of changing this condition? Isn't there a means of Standardizing the Co-eds letters. Could we adopt one letter for all sports? If this were possible, which I really think is, it would enable the men to have their own letter. This would be true. It would enable the Co-eds to have a letter of their own for their participation in athletics. The men will recognize only one letter for their major sports and the Co-eds can have their letter for their major sport. This might be a solution for the controversy about the Co-ed letters. It would then be possible to have both departments of the A. to..."
say that he means what he says but another wing of the Republican party namely Ex-President Taft and his followers think that Harding will come in. Either faction is due for a jolt in the event that Harding is elected, because Harding must do one or the other. A large number of Republicans expect Harding to come in but if he does he will come in with such a weak spirit and such a wry face that I could not conscientiously support him. If they are all wrong, it means that the U. S. A. will not enter the League but that Harding will try to scrap the present League and form a new one. This cannot be taken seriously because the League has already progressed too far.

The present controversy over the League is the greatest issue since that of slavery but is being treated like a football by both parties. The Democrats are ninety percent right in their thoughts but both parties are radically wrong in their tactics. The Republicans are trying to steal the credit for the League for themselves.

I define the League as a plan by which sovereign nations can act more expeditiously unanimously. No nation loses any sovereignty by entering the League and I defy Messrs. Harding, Brandegee or my good friend Hopkins Clark to point out a single article of the U. S. constitution that is violated by any article of the covenant of the League of Nations. If they cannot show where the constitution is violated then that is proof that the U. S. loses no sovereignty by entering the League. The League is a start towards a final peace and is a big step forward.

There is nothing fundamentally wrong with the covenant and Mr. Harding is wrong when he says that Article 10 will straitly present boundaries.

There is nothing in the covenant preventing the peaceful readjustment of boundaries but the league does aim to prevent the stealing of territory. Neither does the U. S. treaty with Mexico embody the Monroe Doctrine.

The main issue today lies in the fact that Republicans refuse to accept the Democratic reservations, while the Democrat refuse the Republican reservations, even though they both make practically the same reservations with different wording. The Democrats are willing to accept the Taft reservations but refuse the Lodge reservations in spite of the fact that the ones formulated by Mr. Taft are probably more severe than those of Mr. Lodge.

Dr. Denlinger, of our English Department is conducting a course in Argumentation through which his students are deriving the benefits of his wide experience in that department. He is a graduate of Princeton University where he has resided for his Masters degree in Arts and an honorary degree as Doctor of Philosophy. His college career has been an active one. He has won on numerous occasions the Washington Prize Debates. After playing halfback on the Princeton scrub team, he became captain of the varsity football team, afterwards coaching the varsity football squad at the University of Tennessee.

Under the auspices of a group of New Yorkers from New York and Chicago, he made a lecture tour thru the United States, visiting Camp Oglesborough and Dixon talking to our boys on the "Faith of America."

He then offered his services to the Young Men's Christian Association of New York, and as head of the Board of Education was sent to Camp Funston to address our soldiers who were about to leave for France.

As a settlement worker, he is well known in connection with the New York District Board of Education, appointed to study the "Gary System" and has spent a number of years among the steel workers investigating conditions. In connection with this work, his editorship of a Western Chronicle and membership in the ministry has given him the opportunity to take an active part in settlement work throughout the Western States. At Illinois he had charge of a Presbyterian church of twelve hundred members and became known as the president of Blackburn College. He spent a number of years at the Wesleyan University, lecturing and coaching the various debating societies, such work being his chief interest.

He comes from a family of Quaker Farmers and traces his lineage back two hundred years. When his sons volunteered for service at Verdun, he spent two years expounding the principles of a true democracy. To this end he is devoting a greater part of his time, encouraging discussion and debate for to him "democracy is fundamentally based upon the freedom of speech and assembly. It is this freedom which softens the influence of social evolution and makes violent political upheavals impossible."

Last Sunday Dr. Denlinger gave his audience an interesting talk on the "Faith of America. The acceptance of the cost of one's principles and the difficult men between Ambition and Aspiration were the main points of his sermon. America accepted the cost of her principles in entering the war, for she saw that the lives of thousands of men would be the price that she must pay in order to make the world safe for democracy. The pacifists who wanted to keep the nation out of war were not willing to pay the price.

The Apiary Department has added several new appliances to its equipment so that the students may have a chance to see modern equipment in use, also to contrast it with the old.

PROFESSORS AT CORNELL, PURDUE AND PURDUE HERE DURING WEEK Contest Hens Being Shipped to Owners

Professor A. G. Phillips of Purdue University, Professor H. R. Lewis, of Rutgers College and Dr. O. B. Kent of Cornell University will spend the last week of October next year. They have been invited by the poultry department for the purpose of examining the hens that are finishing their first laying year in the contest. They and members of the poultry department will also go over the new pullets that are sent in for the next laying contest. It is hoped that from the examination of 1,000 year old, trap-nested hens and 1,000 pullets that there can be devised a suitable score card for egg production.

DENLINGER A MAN OF WIDE EXPERIENCE Speaks at Church Tomorrow Dr. Denlinger of our English Department is conducting a course in Argumentation through which his students are deriving the benefits of his wide experience in that department. He is a graduate of Princeton University where he has resided for his Masters degree in Arts and an honorary degree as Doctor of Philosophy. His college career has been an active one. He has won on numerous occasions the Washington Prize Debates. After playing halfback on the Princeton scrub team, he became captain of the varsity football team, afterwards coaching the varsity football squad at the University of Tennessee. Under the auspices of a group of New Yorkers from New York and Chicago, he made a lecture tour thru the United States, visiting Camp Oglesborough and Dixon talking to our boys on the "Faith of America." He then offered his services to the Young Men's Christian Association of New York, and as head of the Board of Education was sent to Camp Funston to address our soldiers who were about to leave for France. As a settlement worker, he is well known in connection with the New York District Board of Education, appointed to study the "Gary System" and has spent a number of years among the steel workers investigating conditions. In connection with this work, his editorship of a Western Chronicle and membership in the ministry has given him the opportunity to take an active part in settlement work throughout the Western States. At Illinois he had charge of a Presbyterian church of twelve hundred members and became known as the president of Blackburn College. He spent a number of years at the Wesleyan University, lecturing and coaching the various debating societies, such work being his chief interest. He comes from a family of Quaker Farmers and traces his lineage back two hundred years. When his sons volunteered for service at Verdun, he spent two years expounding the principles of a true democracy. To this end he is devoting a greater part of his time, encouraging discussion and debate for to him "democracy is fundamentally based upon the freedom of speech and assembly. It is this freedom which softens the influence of social evolution and makes violent political upheavals impossible." Last Sunday Dr. Denlinger gave his audience an interesting talk on the "Faith of America. The acceptance of the cost of one's principles and the difficult men between Ambition and Aspiration were the main points of his sermon. America accepted the cost of her principles in entering the war, for she saw that the lives of thousands of men would be the price that she must pay in order to make the world safe for democracy. The pacifists who wanted to keep the nation out of war were not willing to pay the price. Clifford E. Hood, '09, Entomologist, U. S. D. Dr. H. Miller, '06, is in the automobile business in Lowell. He plans to root for his alma mater in the truck and fruit growers in his time, encouraging discussion and debate. His topic was, "The Application of the Pilgrim Spirit to Our Life Today in Churches, Schools and Politics." Mrs. Jennie S. Koons of Topeka, Kansas, is spending a few days with Miss E. M. White, whose husband is the widow of ex-President Koons. Prof. C. C. White, R. C. Fisher and Leroy L. Chapman, and the members of the Dairy Judging Team held their picnic lunch, Saturday after the game at the trenches. Prof. White entertained at his home the same evening. The Bee are now being put into their winter quarters after having turned out in surplus of feed needed for wintering about one-half ton of honey, or approximately fifty pounds per colony. The Apiary Department has added several new appliances to its equipment so that the students may have a chance to see modern equipment in use, also to contrast it with the old. CLASS OF 1910 REUNION
A GREAT SUCCESS

Sets Example to Other Alumni—
Two Classes Coming Back
This June

"Mighty oaks from little acorns grow," and so from a few plans suggested by 1910 men at an Alumni Banquet in Hartford last February, men were induced to travel a distance of six hundred miles in order to take part in one of the most interesting class reunions ever held at this college.

Before Commencement, letters and questionnaires were sent to the last known addresses of the members of the class. That college and class spirit is far from dead in the Class of 1910 is shown by the fact that practically every member of the class returned his questionnaire and eleven out of thirty-five returned to the Hill for the occasion.

When Edward Forbes, the class song writer, arrived, he found the members of the class assembled in A. J. Brundage's office, in the Machin­ery Building and ready for anything within the bounds of reason. The tale of Forbes and the good old spirit of 1910 were molded into the chorus of the song.

Keep your eye on Alma Mater Budge her as she strives to grow By returning to her Campus, Loyalty to her we'll show.

Next came R. L. Birdsall, bringing with him a pure white milch goat, which was given the honor of being the first live mascot of any C. A. C. class reunion. Seth Anderson was immediately appointed "official goat tender."

Following supper the class, bead­ed with orange and white paper caps and carrying small bamboo canes tied with orange and white ribbon, attend­ed the play, goat and all, en masse. The many cheers and songs rendered by the 1910 fellows throughout the evening proved that they were still loyal followers for their Alma Mater.

When the dancing, which followed the play, was well under way, some men, possessed with the spirit of Satan, eloped with Mrs. Goat. Not to be daunted the '10 men got together and the following morning goat No. 2 appeared and was duly accepted as class mascot.

A meeting was held after the class breakfast in the church parlors, which was prepared and served by the class members. The officers elected for the next five years were: A. J. Brundage, President; R. L. Birdsall, Vice-President, and Mrs. W. L. Slate, Secretary and Treasurer. Other business of the meeting consisted of electing to honorary membership, wives and husbands of the class members. It was decided to hold the fiftieth reunion at C. A. C. in 1960.

The goat, like Mary's little lamb, followed the class about as it went to and fro attending the various func­tions of the day and finally allowed her proud leaders to give a demonstra­tion of how to milk a goat and utilise the milk, causing many a laugh throughout the audience in attendance at the ball game.

Most of the '10 men had left the Hill by the time that the Alumni dance began, but there were enough left to uphold the dignity and honor of the class when goat No. 1 reappeared with the 1910 banner dragging in the dirt. When some one attempted to recover the banner, tempers rose and clothes were mashed in the brawl that follow­ed Peace was soon declared and the goat was once more returned to its rightful owners, whereupon the class called upon its song writer to produce a song fitting for the close of this reunion in which the uniting class members put forth special effort to establish a custom which will make Commencement an occasion of great moment at C. A. C.

Already it is rumored that the classes of '16 and '11 are planning reunions for this year's Commencement and the student body is anticipating a big time with plenty of action.

NEW WATER SUPPLY NEARLY COMPLETED

The work on our new water supply is rapidly progressing. The pump house at the dam is well under way and already one large three-cylinder pump has been installed. It is expected that this pump will be connected to the college water main soon. Two more pumps are to be installed. One of these is to furnish water to the Mansfield State Training School and the other is to act as a reserve.

MAY GRANT SCHOLARSHIP FOR MISSIONARY WORK

At a meeting of the trustees and directors of the Hale Fund, at the Windham National Bank, October 26, Rev. Marshall Dawson secured an expression of opinion from the directors to the effect that they would think over the granting of scholarship aid to any sturdy young man, who wishes to prepare himself at C. A. C. for agricultural missionary work, either in New England or overseas.

Rev. Dawson's resolution will come up before the directors at their next meeting in October for definite action.

DR. KNIGHT OF OKLAHOMA VISITS CONNECTICUT

Interested in Our Egg Laying Contest

Dr. H. J. Knight, Director of the Extension Station and Dean of Agriculture at the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College at Stillwater, Oklahoma, visited the College last Friday. Dr. Knight was returning from the session of land grant colleges held at Springfield last week. He made a visit to Connecticut because he is interested in our National Egg Laying Contest and some of the departments of the College.

CHARLES LEWIS BEACH, President.
Y. M. C. A. WILL OPEN NEW ROOM IN NOVEMBER

Trophies and Varsity Pictures Can Be Seen There

The Young Men's Christian Association of the college will hold its annual elections on Thursday, November 4 at 7:00 p.m. Just as in the past, the elections have been discontinued and the association is cooperating with the Christian Endeavor Society and the students in establishing a Young Men's Bible Class.

The armory lecture room will soon be remodeled into the "Y" room. The association has a small amount of furniture at present but, because of the failure to reach the thousand dollar mark last spring, they are still a little short of furnishings. During the Thursday evening lecture, the room will be fitted up and it will be opened shortly after the students return to college. Coach Gayer is obtaining all the pictures of past varsity teams and players, and this, together with the college trophies, will be placed in the "Y" room.

The 22 members of the faculty showed that they were stronger for the Republicans than was expected by the student party leaders, although they were stronger than any group for Lonergan. Harding and Roosevelt received 2 votes for 1 on the first question, but Senator Brandegee only defeated Congressman Lonergan by one vote. The vote for Governor, Congressman and State Senator was overwhelmingly Republican.

The ballots in the straw vote were printed on the same style as town ballots, and great numbers of straight tickets were voted. The balloting commenced at 11 o'clock, Professor Henry Menteth being the first voter to cast his ballot. Newton Alexander '21 was chosen moderator, Frederick Maier and William Graf were counters, and Sherwood Bowers and Marcus McCarren were checkers. The voters were registered by Everett Dow, Republican Club leader, and Harbertus Webb, leader of the Cox- Roosevelt Club. The polls were closed at 12:30 o'clock, 225 persons casting ballots up until that time.

boost the reputation of their respective letters. They could make it a tradition, as it should be, that no person could wear the emblem unless they actually earned it. This would call for the cooperation of the Athletic Department in the coaches would be the judges of the men who really earned the "C" as they are now. We could ask for stricter censornship of the men. Let them make it so a man can rightfully and proudly say he earned his. This, if it came to pass, would put a little wear to the meaning of "C" Men.

ERRATUM

In last week's issue of the "Campus" it was stated that the students of the School of Agriculture in the twenty week course would receive no diplomas. This is incorrect. All college graduates who satisfactorily complete their work will receive diplomas at a special Commencement.

The catalog reads as follows: "A diploma will be awarded at a special Commencement for the School, at the close of each school year, to students who have satisfactorily completed the two-year course of study. No diploma will be awarded any student against whom a condition or a failure is recorded."
