Students and alumni will parade to field by classes. Rhode Island student body may be on hand. Mass meeting Friday night will start the excitement, and victory celebration is planned for after the game, which Connecticut is sure her team can win.

Never before in the history of Connecticut has there been gathered together at one time as many strong and loyal Connecticut rooters as will be out with fighting spirit and determination to back the Blue and White to the last ditch when the football team, still fighting and scrapping after a long period of breaks which went against it, grapples in football with our old time enemy, which they have shown at times in every game they played. The Rhode Island game is the principal concern of the football players and students, and all have their teeth set, and their minds busy planning on how they can best make the day a Connecticut Day throughout.

Rhode Island will be well represented without doubt, and although it is not as yet certain that the Rhode Island students will come up in a body to visit their Nutmegian rivals, there is a pretty large possibility that such will be the case, for they have been invited to visit Connecticut, and they are represented by a team which has the reputation of being a fighting machine. It is not probable that they will fail to accompany their team to Storrs, for Rhode Island is certainly conscious of the fact that Connecticut is laying all plans to win that game, if no other, and that there is no lack of energy needed to accomplish that goal.

Excitement and hustle will reign supreme on the Hill from late in the afternoon before the game until after the celebration of Saturday night. At Friday's practice, which will be the last of the season, the coaches will add the finishing touches to the team they have been tutoring for the past ten weeks, and the last opportunity will be given to perfect the methods by which the Aggie eleven hopes to batter and frustrate the opponents of the morrow. The student body which is even now thinking of nothing but 'the game' will by that time be warmed to the highest pitch of excitement, and will be on hand with cheers and songs to watch the final preparations for the battle which means so much to them.

In the evening the center of interest will be at Hawley Armory where a Mass meeting will start the excitement, and victory celebration is planned for after the game, which Connecticut is sure her team will win.

UNIFORMS RE-APPEAR IN ARMISTICE DAY PARADE

Dr. Denlinger makes a "hit" with the students as speaker of the day.

Arrayed in uniforms scented with mothballs, with silver stripes rubbing against the gold of the overseas veterans, the Mansfield post of the American Legion stood at attention in front of the Main building. Although it has been many months since khaki was the uniform of the day for most of the men, they still had lost little of their soldierly bearing and their appearance was the cause of much approving comment. The R. O. T. C. unit of the college composed of three companies commanded by Maurice H. Lockwood fell in at Hawley Armory and marched to the Main building to form a guard of honor for the Legion men. Leaving the Main building the battalion marched down past the Horticultural building to the Willimantic road and up Faculty row to the military strains of the Storrs Hall band. Arms were stacked at the Armory and the various divisions took their allotted seats inside.

Exercises were presided over by George S. Torrey, commander of the local post of the American Legion Post. The principal address of the afternoon was delivered by Dr. Denlinger of the English Department and to say that it was one of the best speeches.

"Campus" will print two pages for alumni every two weeks besides usual eight pages.

Beginning with the issue of the "Campus" which will be published a week after Thanksgiving, the "Campus" is going to inaugurate a bi-weekly alumni section which will be given over to nothing but alumni notes, alumni letters, alumni news and views on how the alumni think of the college wish to insert in the paper. This will mean that every other week the paper will be made up of ten pages, as the alumni section itself will be two pages in size.

INTER-DORMITORY GAME PROVES ENTERTAINING

Many Budding Brickleys Make Informal Debut

In view of the fact that no home game was scheduled to be played at the Colgate-Dow Field last Saturday, Storrs Hall challenged Koons Hall to don football toggs and battle for supremacy on the gridiron. The weather was ideal for football and a team showed a fine brand of play although it was evident that the Storrs Hall aggregation was a smoother working machine. Ricketts was the most consistent, sound gainer, making continuing end runs which figured principally in the two touchdowns made by the Storrs Hall eleven. Johnson also gained many first downs on his plunges through the Koons Hall line. Block, playing center for Koons Hall made several good tackles.

There was no scoring until the third quarter, when Ricketts took the ball for a twenty yard run around left end for a touch down. Lawson failed to kick the goal. In the fourth quarter an end run by Ricketts and a line plunge by Johnson brought the ball to the one yard line. "Brubh" Dow took the ball over for the second score. Ricketts failed to kick the goal. Although there were no casualties, Ricketts was gloriously carried off the field on a stretcher by his ardent admirers.

The summary:

Storrs

Bates rt Modell
Heath rg McMurphy
Groves rd Goodall
Lawson c Black
Johnson lb Lilley
Ricketts lb Nelson, Dawson
Wolcott lg Kennedy
Edgar lb Chapman
Pinkham le Neuman

CO-EDS IMITATE BABE RUTH

In a very exciting game last Saturday afternoon the Sophomore Co-eds defeated the Freshmen girls’ nine 19 to 18. The game was very exciting, each team taking the lead alternately. The Sophomores made the winning run in the last inning. The features of the game were the pitching of Mr. Swartz and the Babe Ruth display of the girls.

Summary:

SUFFIELD HUMBLES SECOND TEAM BY 49-7 SCORE

Saturday, November 6, Connecticut second team met defeat at the hands of Suffield Preparatory School, at Suffield, Conn. Although Suffield had not been defeated this year, the Aggies seconds were in high hope of a victory, and for the first quarter showed the Prep men that they knew football.

The second quarter, with Connecticut’s defense weakened, ended with a score of 28-7 in favor of Suffield. From the beginning of the second half fortune began to smile on Suffield, and soon two more touchdowns were added to their side of the score sheet.

Patterson was taken out of the game with a dislocated knee. With a sudden burst of spirit, Connecticut carried the ball down to the ten yard line, Wooster and Emigh gaining the most ground. The attempt to score failed and the game ended with the score of 49-7.

Babcock, of last year’s Syracuse Freshman team, was the shining light for suffield as the scored four times. Patterson, proved to be a consistent ground gainer for Connecticut and Wooster showed wonderful speed both in end runs and several brilliant tackles.

BLACK MARIA FINALLY RETIRED FROM SERVICE

FAMOUS MUSICAL GROANS WILL BE MISSED NOW

Memories of Former Days Revealed by Big Event

Gene but not forgotten are the sighs and the laugh of our old "Black Maria." No more can we tell the time of day by the youthful shout of its second child.

This old body for overboard when Nantucket passed over it and has been noisily running ever since. As the Storrs Garage Company acquired a different chassis, the old “Maria” was transferred to her new legs. She sang a new song with every engine, each time being sadder than before.

But now the company has purchased a whole new outfit in the form of a Reo bus with a capacity of about twenty persons, and “Maria” has been discarded.

Memories of the old soul recall to mind the days preceding my visit to the “Maria” hit the Hill. In 1895 the entire transportation facilities of the college consisted of six horses and two pairs of cattle, only one of which was owned by the institution, the other being hired.

Except at the beginning and end of terms, all freight and passenger travel was from Eastville. At these times groups would arrange to hire a team to or from Willimantic where a three seated wagon accomodating ten persons could be hired for three dollars and a half. Most students, however, walked to and from Eastville and continued to do so for a number of years. Trunks were carried on farm teams but were not sorted and delivered until late at night.

About 1901, under the direction of President Stimson, a regular service was established between Storrs and Eastville. The number of horses increased until ten were being used for passenger service and three men were needed in the barn. Members of the faculty were carried free of charge, but the rate to others was from twenty cents to a dollar, depending upon whether a regular trip ticket was used or a special rig required.

President Beach first appreciated the possibilities of direct communication with Willimantic by automobile, and the present system, under private ownership, was started six years ago. However, little improvement has been made in the handling of freight as most of it still comes from Eastville and the roads to that town are worse at present than they were twenty-five years ago.

It is now predicted that a greater improvement in both freight and passenger service will be made at the completion of the proposed trunk line from Storrs to Hartford, which will reduce the mileage from about forty miles to twenty-four miles and cut the expense in half.

Many plans have been made but none completed, the railways from Eastville, the trolley from Willimantic, or Coventry and all other projects having finally been abandoned in favor of the proposed improved highway. Naturally the acquisition of all unloading and storage equipment has of necessity been deferred, pending the adoption of some permanent route and method. A siding for a freight depot will probably be constructed at Mansfield Depot and the Eastville one will not be used further.

Six miles of this new road have yet to be completed, however, one important gap having been finished during the past year. Labor conditions and a dispute as to the exact route from Mansfield Depot have been the principal causes of delay at this end. It is anticipated that most of the long distance travel to the college will be made from Hartford and that the city will be the passenger station of the institution.

SENIORS HOLD SOPHS TO 0-0 TIE

Varsity Players Unable to Turn Tide for Sophs

In the interclass series the Seniors and the Sophomores battled to a 0-0 tie on Monday. Although Sophomores were reinforced by Hajosy and Juralowitsch of the varsity team, they were unable to break down the strong defense of the Seniors and had to be content with a tie.

Both sides were evenly matched and the ball was in the center of the field most of the time. The first half proved to be a battle royal with neither side being able to gain consistently. The tackling was deadly for a class game and time and time again both backfields were thrown for a loss. In the third quarter the Soph line was in danger of being crossed when the Seniors intercepted one of Emigh’s forward passes and put the ball on the one yard line. The Sophomores rose to the occasion, however, and took the ball on downs. In the fourth quarter the Sophs retaliated and pushed the ball within scoring distance only to lose. Gronwoldt punt. the ball too midfield and the game ended shortly after this.

POMOLOGIST NOTES

Professor Holliker spent three days at the New England Fruit Show setting up exhibits and is going to Boston to set up exhibits for the National Grange this week.

The Pomology Department has received items from Nebraska, Wyoming, and all the western states that is from the different institutions about the country, to be used for class work.

An extra fine stand of crimson clover has developed in all the orchards this year.

Owing to the scarcity of barrels this fall the Department has not shipped and fruit in barrels, but has sold about 1500 baskets.

The apple crop at the college this year is estimated at about 3000 bu. not including several hundred bushels of cider apples that have been sold.

1916 ANNOUNCES GLASS REUNION THIS SPRING
CASE SAYS '16 WILL BE THERE WITH BELLS

Fortieth Anniversary of College Expected to Bring Back Many Alumni

It has been announced by James R. Case, '16, former Editor-in-Chief or the "Campus," who visited the college recently, that it was the intention of the Class of 1916 to hold their first re-union since graduation at the fortieth commencement of the college next June, and that plans had been inaugurated for the affair. As to what the members of the class would do, Mr. Case was not prepared to say, but he promised that the undergraduates would know that the "old timers" had not forgotten the college and that they would show as much pep and enthusiasm as the youngsters could.

Mr. Case also said that it was hoped that other classes would come back to celebrate the fortieth anniversary and that he understood that something was being done among the alumni to insure a big "home-coming." According to Walter Clark, '18, everything possible will be done to have a reunion of the Class of 1918, thus bringing back a number of students who had been the College since before the war.

COLLEGE CARRYING ON SILAGE EXPERIMENT

Three Varieties of Corn in Silos

The three experimental silos at the north end of the new dairy barn have recently been filled with corn by the farm department. These new silos are each 36 feet high and 6 feet in diameter, and each one has been filled with a different variety of corn in a different stage of maturity. Pride of the North, Leaming and Eureka are the three varieties used.

Feeding experiments will be carried on this winter with three groups of dairy cattle, in order to determine, if possible, in what stage of maturity the silage should be made to get the best quality of feed. The care and management of the three groups will be practically the same, except that each group will be fed on a different variety of ensilage.

Throughout the feeding experiments records will be kept of the weights of the animals, the amount of ensilage consumed by each group and the amount of milk produced. The varieties of silage will be analyzed from time to time to determine the per cents of water and total digestible nutrients, and also the coefficient of digestibility.

From the results and other data which will be recorded it is hoped that some conclusion may be reached as to the stage of maturity desirable in ensilage corn, in order to have the best quality feed.

STUDENTS IN MECHANIC ARTS BLDG. SATISFIED

Want Only a Shower Bath

Far from the maddening crowd which keeps Storrs and Koons Halls in constant commotion until late into each night, a few students are finding quiet and an opportunity for undisturbed rest and study in the Mechanic Arts Building. When the Boarding Club was transferred to its own building last summer, eight rooms were fitted up in the west half of the second floor to accommodate as many students. Seven of these rooms are now occupied, six by students and one on two nights of the week by Prof. H. R. Montefith.

Every evening when the moon is shining too brightly for detective work, S. L. Teeter may be found at home there, the rest of the roll call being Messrs. Brown, Cooke, Eddy, Kennett and Schultz. The eastern half of the building is occupied by Harry L. Dresser, instructor in Mechanic Arts, and his family.

With two members of the faculty in the near vicinity to insure proper quiet and order, with an attractive and pleasing view of Swan Lake from the windows, the rooms tastefully decorated and Japanese lanterns swinging in the corridor, there should be just the right atmosphere for the student. And, indeed, the students living there are on the whole well satisfied with their surroundings. Their only want at present, so far as discovered, is a shower bath to replace the present unpopular tub.

In such a homelike environment, it is reported that Teeter is fast losing his keen penetration and instinct, relaxing even so far as to allow himself to be fastened securely inside his room during the period of Freshman rope pull practices.

STENographers to Have GYM CLASS

At the request of a number of the stenographers of the college, a special gymnasium class has been organized for their physical education under the direction of Earle Crampton, '20. All stenographers are eligible for the class, and a great many of them have shown interest in the idea, as is indicated by the attendance at the two meetings which have already been held. The stenographers are not so much interested in games and sports this year as formerly and they do not expect to have a regular basketball team and schedule as they did two years ago. They will devote their time to straight, 790 in 1910, and lastly 280 in 1911, and two Suffolk stallions in 1912, the year of the foot-and-mouth disease, when importation of sheep was prohibited. In 1910 Cooper received $150 for 200 sheep, and in 1911 he received $200 for Richard Cooper's agent came around to the farm to see the sheep, and mentioned the fact that he needed some good sheep for work. With the sheep, he was looking for some one to go to America with an exportation. Joe convinced him that he needed not look further to find the man he was looking for.

His first voyage was in June and July, 1908, when 200 sheep were brought over to Quebec. With these sheep, Joe went around the midwestern show circuit, winding up at the Chicago International. Becoming homesick at first, he returned to England around Christmas time. His liking for America came back, however, and he followed up his first trip with three others bringing over 400 sheep in 1909, 790 in 1910, and lastly 280 in 1911, and two Suffolk stallions in 1912, the year of the foot-and-mouth disease, when importation of sheep was prohibited. Prof. Sherman Hollister as Treasurer of the Athletic Association, recently wrote the alumni in which he offered athletic season tickets for sale, and also asked the alumni to do something in the support of our athletics. A number of alumni had responded favorably to this letter, but one alumni sent back a reply in which he expressed an opinion in which he was mistaken, and to our knowledge quite wrong. He had written that he could not subscribe to the alumni fund.

That alumni took a good stand, which demonstrates that he well learned the "Connecticut first and always" axiom when he was an undergraduate. However, he is not well posted on conditions on the Hill.

Fraternity politics is at present at the lowest ebb since the close of the war. There was a short while, even carrying its influence over into last year. But in the actions of the three teams last year as to the way they managed, there was an un­

Monster mass meeting will be held at which every student will be present and to which all of the faculty are invited and urged to attend. Here the cheer leaders will gear up their splendid rootine machine, practising the old cheers and perfecting the new ones. Then the cheers, school and enthusiastic alumni will give their messages of encouragement and faith, and now and then a song of old Connecticut will be heard, and the evening will be a chance to rest. The coaches will be on hand, and there is even a possibility of inducing the fighting Aggie captain to say a word or two, though his speaking when compared with his playing is humorously sad. Then after singing Alma Mater the Aggie supporters will go home, either to sleep that they may be in good fighting trim for the game or to continue conversation on the chances which the Blue and White team has in the battle.

But when the sun climbs up above the Garleyville hills on Saturday morning—Saturday morning, the day of the game—then the best sights of the day, and the real excitement of the game, will come. For Connecticut is certain that the number of people who are present to cheer Connecticut when the game is on their side, and the number of the world, will number nearly a thousand.

Now don't begin to doubt, friend reader, and say that that figure is newpaper or else that there probably won't be over a hundred or so present. You see, old timer, the student body numbers about four hundred and the other loyal rooters on the Hill will make that number up to a thousand. And listen to this. There are high hopes that 200 alumni will be on deck to see the game, and to attend the fraternity reunions that will have been planned.

Now please don't go up in the air and blow off a whole lot of steam if the Campus makes a mistake, and don't be too hard on the campus editor if it turns out that 200 alumni don't come back. You know the Campus can't help it if more than that are selected with the desire to see the game, and decide to come back to the Hill to give vent to their enthusiasm and desire to win.

Oh! it's going to be a grand old day, from one end to the other. The classes of 1910 and 1918 are planning to have special attractions according to "Gus" Brandage, '18, and Walter Clark, '18, and it is even rumored that 1906 and 1917 are in for something out of the ordinary. And the program of the afternoon is peppered so that a good deal of the faculty, students and alumni will congregate, probably on the front campus, where there will be a huge "peeraide" formed. Yes, there is going to be a band and plenty of interest when the game will be procured for the Nutmeg crew by the committee in charge of the game. The alumni will be formed in classes and will be allowed to bring in any types of uniform or novelty that they desire. The "peeraide" will then proceed around the campus to Hawley Armory, and from there out across the field to the grandstand on the north side of the athletic field.

At 2:15 o'clock Captain Mitchell will have the Connecticut ballyhoo on the gridiron and will soon be followed by the Rhode Island outfit. Cheers will fill the air in both cases, as the Rhode Island students are expected to have plenty of rooters along the south side of the grid, who will try to make their "Rhode—Rhode Island" heard in the regular Connecticut and the din of horns and rooters.

Then the officials and the rival captains will confer a few short minutes, the crowd remaining silent in suspense as the coin is tossed in the air, and the captains will return to their teams, which will immediately line up. Bedlam will break loose, the referee's whistle will be blown, and the fans will roar in the air, and the game will be on.

In a few hours the game will be history, and the rooters will turn their attention to the battle in the locker rooms. One team will be flushed with victory and the other will be quiet in defeat. And listen, gentle reader, for here is a bet that the boys are going to build a big bon fire on the field in the morning, so that it will be around if it is needed later on, and that those fans who could not make it could say without boasting unduly.

The evening will probably be as interesting as the day, and if Aggie wins, it will prove more interesting than the afternoon. The cheer will crackle and sparkle, and again the cheers and songs will ring out over the Mansfield Hills, and the players from there out will talk and the rumbling in the air, and the game will be on.

"We are situated in the heart of the Willamette Valley and right in a large apple, pear and prune growing district. Before returning East for a visit next summer, I expect to visit the famous Head River, Wenatchee, Spokane, Rogue River and perhaps some of the California ridges."

Yours truly,

The death of "Gyp" last summer left a void that could not be filled with the loss of any of the alumni classes, that class functions and activities of alumni may be recorded. The columns of the alumni section are open to contributions from any alumni of the institution and it is the earnest desire of the "Campus" that the alumni should take an active interest in this bi-weekly supplement, and use it to further their school by service to the institution.

All contributions to the section should be sent to the Alumni Editor, and should contain the name, address and class of the contributor.

ALUMNI NOTES

Alumni Editor of the Campus:
I have just received a letter from Frank J. Rimoldi, Instructor and Research Assistant in the Department of Horticulture, Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Oregon. Mr. Rimoldi has had charge of the Horticultural work at Rhode Island the past two years but left there early in September to accept a fellowship at the University of Minnesota. He signed from this fellowship soon after starting his work to accept the present position which he now holds in Oregon.

He expects to complete his graduate work which was started at Cornell and Brown University, so that he will secure his advanced degree in June. To quote from his letter, "This College is more of a university than a college, as we have five colleges in the institution and teach some four or five thousand students. The state supports the institution very liberally on a very sound yearly development basis. No hazing of any kind and State Legislators every two years is necessary as a special tax is collected each year for support of State College, State University and Normal Schools."

"We are situated in the heart of the Willamette Valley and right in the large apple, pear and prune growing district. Before returning East for a visit next summer, I expect to visit the famous Head River, Wenatchee, Spokane, Rogue River and perhaps some of the California ridges."

Yours truly,
S. P. HOLLISTER

Harold D. Hatfield has been connected with the Howard University for several years and is now Dean, School of Applied Science.
John E. Houston expects to be at the R. L. game. His address is care of James P. Bent & Co., Hartford, Conn.
James R. Case, Box 71, Colchester, Conn., expects to be with us at the R. L. game.

Walter A. Bates, South Norwalk, Conn., writes, "I expect to attend the R. L. game on the 20th.

William Gerhardt ex-90 is at present Instructor of Horticulture, in charge of greenhouse work at Truro, Nova Scotia.

Ralph Averell, '93, president of the Alumni Association, visited the Hill recently.

Charles Pomeroy, '38, and Mort Pierpont went on the campus for a few days. Both are frequent visitors. Everett Mitchell, '13, was up for the New Hampshire game.

W. H. ROBERTSON LEAVES EMPLOY OF COLLEGE

Was an Experienced Horseman

Willis H. Robertson, who has been in charge of the college Percherons during the past three years, resigned his position as horseman here on October 31.

Mr. Robertson is a Westerner by birth, claiming Iowa as his native state. He was born and brought up on a large Iowa grain farm, but left home while young to follow the horse business. At various times he was employed by Chandler Bros., Charleston, Iowa; the Percheron Importing Co., St. Joseph, Mo.; Longview Farms, Lee's Summit, Mo., the property of Mrs. Loula Long Coumbis of show-ring fame; and the Percheron breeding establishment of Mr. W. B. Cora, White Hall, Ill. While at these places he gained considerable experience in handling, fitting and showing horses, having followed many of the western fair circuits.

While at Mr. Cora's on one of his western trips, Prof. H. L. Garrigus hired Robertson to come east with a bunch of horses, and since his arrival at Storrs in April 1917, he has remained here in the capacity of horseman.

Regarding his future plans Mr. Robertson has said little, although it is understood that he is now on his way to Texas.

Mr. George P. Simon, of Lyndonville, Vt., has been secured by Prof. Garrigus to fill the vacancy at the horse barn. He is an experienced horseman, having been for many years a trainer and trotter of Morgans. He is also familiar with the handling of draft horses and will assume charge of the Percherons here in the near future.

Y. M. C. A. ELECTS OFFICERS FOR THIS YEAR

Last Year's Pledges to be Collected

At a meeting of the Y. M. C. A. held on Thursday, November 4, the following officers were elected:

President, Webster C. Chapman, '21; Vice-President, Donald B. Bassett, '23; Treasurer, Robert E. Johnson, '22; Secretary, Fred Metager, '24.

The young men's bible class was the main topic of discussion in the meeting.

Plans are under way to have the college furnish the Armory Lecture Room in order that it may be in first-class condition when the Y. M. C. A. furnishes it for the Community Room.

There is about $75 owing on the pledges of last semester and this must be collected before all bills for the furniture can be paid. Every student who did not pay his pledge in full will be visited in the near future.

(Cont. from page 1 col. 2) the various classes will have amusing novelties to exhibit during the parade and it has been suggested that a joint meeting of the Glee Club and Blackguards be called to practice the college songs and provide a nucleus for the song section.

SAFETY VALVE

We are met on all sides with the fact that our college spirit should be aroused, that we should back the teams and enthusiastically cheer them on to victory. We have a football team, a baseball team and a basketball team to yell at and help develop —and we also have a co-ed basketball team. Most of the fellows fail to recognize this fact.

The young women worked hard last year and they put out a winning team. They worked just as hard, relatively, as the fellows on the Varsity teams. They will work hard again this year and against great odds, as things stand now. The fellows will be backed by every student, they will have the support of all. The co-eds too will go to a team and they will be backed probably by a divided crowd. There will be some ridicule and some cheers. They will not have the support necessary to help them out in a tight place.

The co-ed's athletics are growing. There is good material to work with. Winning co-ed teams will advertise this college in their field just as much as the men's Varsity teams in their respective fields. There is something lacking, however. You say, "Give the teams support." I say, "Ditto." Give them support instead of ridicule and a squelching of every little bit of enthusiasm which might leak out.

There's a field for your proverbial "College Spirit." Use it.
