Need for Appropriation Studied by Committee

Faculty and Co-eds Entertain.—Action on Bill Probably Taken This Month.—College Prepares Reply to Chamber of Commerce Report.

Members of the legislative appropriation committee visited the College on Friday of last week as a means of seeing at first hand the situation that is back of the College's request for an appropriation of $1,455,921 for new construction and maintenance for the next two fiscal years. With an appropriation of $1,455,921 for new tenant-Governor Bingham, House Leader Buckley, and many friends of the institution. Secretary Meredith represented the College Board of Trustees.

Visitors Entertained

The visitors were entertained by President C. L. Beach and members of the faculty who escorted them around the college grounds. Many of the visitors were interested in college stock at the horse barns and beef barns. Dinner was served the guests in Holcomb Hall by the co-eds. After dinner the B. O. T. C. unit staged an exhibition drill. Many of the visitors expressed their pleasure with the College and the work being done there. Action on Appropriation Bill

It is not known when final action will be taken on the appropriation bill, but if the legislature completes its work by May 18 as it now plans, the bill will come before the Assembly some time this month.

Reply to Chamber of Commerce

In relation to the report of a sub-committee of the State Chamber of commerce concerning C. A. C., a brief answering the statements set forth in that report has been prepared by the College. Replying to the Committee's recommendation that "the mortality in the four-year course is large," figures have been compiled showing that in comparison to 48 other institutions the percent of seniors to the total enrollment at Connecticut is on a par with those institutions. Answering the Committee's recommendation that the women be transferred to the Connecticut College for Women at New London, and to the State Normal Schools, the brief sets forth the following reasons why this is inadvisable: the College was made co-educational by the Legislature in 1890, all Land-Grant Colleges are co-educational, the elimination of women would not materially reduce the teaching

Mid-Semester Honor List Carries A Total of Sixty-One Names

College Division Headed by Seniors with Sixteen "Lucky Ones" Listed

Two-Year Men Lead All Others.—Juniors Win Record Place in College Courses.—Sophs Have Seven Names.—Frosh Slump and Win Only Four Places, Three of Which Are Held by Girls.

The honor list for mid-semster has recently been given out from the office of the Secretary and contains sixty-one names. The Two-Year men have twenty-two on the list, the largest number from any group. In the college division the seniors lead with sixteen represented, while second place is taken by the juniors with nine. The sophomores captured third honors with seven while the freshmen suffered a terrific slump from the beginning of the semester and have only four representatives, three of them being girls, while the only male member has left college.

CONNECTICUT DAY WILL COME ON MAY EIGHTH

Tentative Plans Drawn up by Student Senate Various Committees to be Named Soon.

The Student Senate has set the tentative date of May 8 for Connecticut Day—a tradition at this college which few others share. The personnel of the various committees in charge of the day's work will be drawn up at a joint meeting of the faculty student affairs committee and the Student Senate to be held in the near future. It is customary at Connecticut to set apart a day early in May which is called "Connecticut Day," and dur-

Big Event of Junior Week Scheduled for May 18

With Junior Week only a little over a month away, the committee in charge of the Prom is hard at work in arranging for the big dance of the year. It is absolutely necessary that the day's work will be drawn up at a joint meeting of the faculty student affairs committee and the Student Senate to be held in the near future. Much Business at Student Org Meeting

May 28 Set as Date of Annual Elections

At the regular meeting of the Student Organization, with President Weinstein presiding, a recommendation regulation the standardization of class colors and Freshman caps was presented by the Student Senate. The recommendation as adopted follows. There shall be but three sets of green in use by the classes in the undergraduate body. These colors shall be Green and White, Orange and Black, Purple and Gold. Each Senior class shall present their colors to the freshman class at Commencement. The traditional freshman cap shall be a solid blue color with a small green visor and a white button. It was decided to continue the present system of having the Sophomores sell the caps to the incoming freshman class. It was voted to hold the next regular meeting on Monday, May 28, when the officers for the coming year will be chosen. The officers to be elected are President and Vice-President, who shall be members of the present Junior class; Second Vice-President, who shall be a member of the present Sophomore class; and Secretary and Treasurer, who shall be members of the present Freshman class. Nominations for office shall be made in writing and shall be presented to the president of the organization, who shall acknowledge in writing the receipt of the nominations. Each nomination must be signed by two students, one of which is the nominee. The names of all candidates for all offices will be posted on the bulletin board of the Main Building on May 19. From two days after the posting of the names until two days before elections take place, each candidate must have the signature of fifty students of the college endorsing his nomination. The possibility of having a Military Hop added to Connecticut's social calendar was brought up and discussed. President Weinstein appointed a committee consisting of Frederick Metzger, Harold Baldwin, Donald Lawson and Captain Crim, to determine the advisability of having the Military Hop made the fourth big dance of the year.

A communication from the Student Senate was read warning against the moving of stationary equipment in the Armory when boxes are being
CLARK WILL OPPWED AGGIES SATURDAY

Boston University, U. S. Coast Guard Academy and Colby Next Opponents to Appear on Local Diamond.

The baseball season on Gardner Dow Field will be opened this Saturday with the Clark University nine providing the opposition for the Blue and White. Connecticut gave Harvard a hard fight for victory and lost out only by the narrowest margin and should be in fine form for the Worcester team.

With a week ahead in which to practice, Coach C. R. Crim is determined to get in as much intensive training as possible in order to make up for the short time the team has been able to engage in outside workouts. As a result of this a smooth working machine will take the field Saturday to perform for the Aggie fans.

Last year Clark furnished no real opposition and was sent back with a whitewash. Nothing has been heard from the rival camp this year and they will face the Aggies as somewhat of an unknown quantity.

On Wednesday next Boston University will send her diamond stars to the Hill for the second home game. The team from the Hub was trounced by Harvard last Saturday to the tune of 7-1, and if comparative scores mean anything in the national pastime it would appear that the Blue and White had the edge on the lads from the Bean Town.

The same team which faced Harvard will probably take the field Saturday with the exception that several of the stars will be given a chance to show their wares and, if conditions warrant, a number of the budding candidates for the varisty may play against the Worcester team.

INTERCLASS BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Tues., April 17—Seniors

Epsilon Pi. Manager of the Senior team, which is leading in the interclass league battles, and this advantage may be one of the deciding factors in determining the winner of this year's battle. "Dick" Dickens and "Bob" Lawson are the two twirlers for the Seniors, and they keep the batting averages of opposing batters. Both men have performed well for the class of '23, and they will be back in the old form again this year. "Pat" will drop his scissors and shaving mug and the opening game will find him at his old position behind the bat. The "Million Dollar Infield" of "Moe" Daly on first, "Hap" Steere on second, Feldman on third, and "Red" Cohen at short, will function as of old and according to the Seniors, nothing gets by this outfit. "Joe" Bement, Harold Steck and George Sneidman will cover the garden positions, and judging from past performances, it will be a long and high fly that one of these boys won't pick out of the air. Without a doubt, the Seniors are going to present a formidable lineup when the season is officially opened.

Optimistic Juniors

The camp of the Juniors presented an atmosphere of optimistic normalcy to that of the Seniors. They feel that with "Slats" Bamford and "Nellie"
SIGMA PHI GAMMA WINS FIRST POOL GAME

In a closely played game from start to finish, Frank Brenneis, representing Sigma Phi Gamma, defeated "Rudy" Seymour who shot for Alpha Gamma Rho. Both played a very safe game from the start to the finish and the contest was close until the last ball was neatly shot into the side pocket. The score at the end of the first ball was Brenneis 56, Seymour 46. Even though there was very few spectacular shots, the spectators were on edge all through the game. The final score ended with Brenneis having one hundred and Seymour ninety-nine.

BROWN GAME POSTPONED BECAUSE OF WET FIELD

May Be Played Later in the Season

The initial game of the season with Brown University was called off because the field at Providence was in such a condition that playing would have been impossible on Saturday. This is the first time in four years that Connecticut has not met Brown in the opening game of the year for both colleges. It is probable that the game will be played later in the season if a satisfactory date can be agreed upon.

Last Wednesday at Assembly, Pres. Beach introduced Mr. F. C. Walcott, President of State Fish and Game Association. Mr. Walcott gave an extremely interesting talk on the conservation of our national resources.

A meeting will be held in the old "X" Club room on Monday night, Apr. 16. All ex-service men are urged to be present whether or not it is their intention to join.

Nelson alternating on the mound, there will be little cause to worry from opposing batters. "Tom" Donahue, behind the bat, can be depended upon to check the efforts of any would-be base stealers. The infield will be made up of either Bamford or Nelson on first, "Larry" Lawson on second, Stafer on third and Eddy at short. This infield is a smooth working combination, and opposing batters are going to find difficulty in driving the ball through them. Outfield candidates include Seymour, Platt, Pallen and Metzger, though there are several "holdouts" yet to be heard from. Not only are the Juniors sure fielders, but they are wedged with the stick as well. The "Murderer's Row" of Donahue, Eddy, Nelson and Balock will probably send many an opposing pitcher to the showers.

Frosch Unorganized

The Frosh team might be called the dark horse of this year's league battle. At present their team is unorganized, though steps are to be taken within the next few days to put it on a working basis. The class is rich in material, and after a few workouts together, they will probably be able to put a smooth working aggregation on the field. Among the men available for the Freshman team are: pitchers, Mehaffey and Endt; catchers, Sey­ mour; infielders, Ahearn, Moore, Nan­ ford, Wardl, Allard, Leverty, Dug­ gan, Clark, Radovich, Fitzgerald, Gil­ bert and Filmer; outfielders, Cohen, Kane, Donovan, Moreland and Wegg­ her.

Faculty Strong

As in former years, the Faculty will take part in the interclass series and will, no doubt, furnish some real opposition to the other teams. The old­ time battery of Brown pitcher and Mahoney, former Aggie star, at back­ stop, is still on tap and will do duty for the profs. Moore, another Aggie player, will fill one of the second baseths. Professor Lamson, White and Metzger, though there are sever­ al "holdouts" yet to be heard from, are wicked men with the stick and will be on the receiving end. The infield will be picked from Radomski, John­ son, Brigham, and Mac­ Donald, all of whom are heavy sluggers.

Bed and Worse

A man rushed into a tobacco store.

"This cigar you sold me,? he said.

"It's—it's simply frightful."

"Well, you needn't complain," said the tobacconist. "You've only got one. I've got thousands of them."—Adv.

some time may elapse before the plant that will put the church work at Storrs upon a splendid material basis, is secured.

As regards to the student relationships of the church, it is clearly seen that the time of further successful development in the work of the church along these lines is partly dependent upon the students themselves.

In the first place, it must be kept in mind, that after the pastor has, through considerable labor and need, secured outside services for many of the services, for them to come here—sometimes through severe weather—and find the church only sparsely filled is unfortunate. It is worse for all concerned to have speakers come here, under such conditions and go away with a bad impression of the religious activity and the community, than for them not to have come at all. The moral energy of any community is measured, by the world at least, by its willingness and ability to attract leading church services on Sunday. Similar conditions developed at Massachusetts Agricultural College some years ago and the issue was met by the students making church attendance compulsory. Such a thing is far from desirable and is not to be considered at Connecticut. But, unless the problem is met somehow, the plans of the local church leader of securing outside speakers may have to be reconsidered. It will be especially helpful to the church for the various organizations, clubs and activities to refrain from conflicting gatherings on Sunday morning and to establish a sentiment which will make it good form for one of its members for all of them to attend the morning services. Even they may fear ridicule from their neighbors and refrain from following their natural good helpful bend. It would be well for everyone to remember that if they cannot, or care not to be a boomer, they should refrain from claiming others to be one or belittle the work of a good organization.

Student associate memberships are now very popular in the church. A student associate member does not cancel his membership in his home church. He simply sets himself in a definite relation to the local work and puts his name on the mailing list of the church.

Definite plans to bring about a closer relationship between the leaders and the work of the student associates has been started this year. The church parlor is not large enough to allow the church to throw open its fraternal events, as suppers, to the students at large, but they must be limited to a select group of those who have announced some interest in the work.

The associate membership affords such a list. In addition to the plans of the church above plan, a supper was held a short time before the Easter Recessional, at which a faculty member or an alumnus was present for every student and they were seated alternately, first a student and then a faculty member or an alumnus. The success of the event was so large that the school of music offered its help in convincing a mutual understanding between the community

CHURCH WORK

The growth of the church at Storrs during the past few years has brought problems and opportunities both to the church itself and to the students of the Connecticut Agricultural College. Formerly the church was one of the churches of that typical of New England villages, but the emergence of the college made a new community among the hills of Mansfield. The church of necessity was changed from a village to a college church.

As a college church the local organization requires large resources for realizing its plans for it must not only fulfill its task as a local enterprise but must also take its place and rank as a state enterprise. Its ministry must be qualified to preach to congregations of scholars, to leaders of thought, and its work must be of the quality necessary to furnish the prestige upon which to build up needed contracts with the religious leaders of the state. During the past seven years that Rev. Marshall Dawson has held the professorship, there has been a new development in the development of such relationships has been made with other denominations as well as individual leaders. Approval of plans for a fine, adequate parsonage by the church has been secured from the Congregational State Conference but as yet the promotion committee has been unable to embark upon the actual work of securing the money. Although the success of the undertaking is assured, the friends of the church work at Storrs upon a splendid material basis, is secured.

group which, if left aloof, often does become sharply subdivided, if not drifting toward positions of misunderstanding or antagonism.

Further developments have been made in bringing the college, as well as parents, to the students of the Protestant students of the college and thereby giving them an opportunity to assist the church in the work. The sons and daughters are, or should be, interested in. Subscriptions from parents, although only nine subscribed, of the college is carrying on is clearly shown by the fact that the college has about $300,000 from the 1923 general assembly for new buildings. The friendly attitude of the Connecticut Agricultural College is particularly appreciated by the faculty that they have been able to broaden the college program with the scanty facilities that the general assembly has seen fit to grant them.

The Connecticut Agricultural College students are asking for between $200,000 and $400,000 from the 1923 general assembly, all of which was not to be made.

"The Connecticut Agricultural College is at the critical point in its career. The time has come when the college may have seen the end of its progress maintenance, and in the department of the state college. The great public of Connecticut probably does not appreciate fully enough what the state college is doing and what it means. The young men must appreciate it, or the college would not now be in the position of being utterly able to accommodate another student.

At the last session of the general assembly, there were some rumors that a "scandal" would develop, regarding the conduct of the state college. The "scandal" largely consisted of evidence that other things besides students pertaining to agriculture were being taught at Storrs. Any graduate or undergraduate could have told the "scandal" seeking legislators the same thing. It is to the great credit of the college that they have been able to broaden the college program with the scanty facilities that the general assembly has seen fit to grant them.

ing which students and faculty don their old clothes and work together in clearing up and in effecting improvements about the grounds thus giving a clean face to a naturally beautiful campus before the advent of Junior Week and Commencement.

During the past two years the athletic field and the ground near the dining hall has received special attention. The tennis courts have also been repaired and put in shape. It is an unwritten law of the college, preserved by tradition, that each student shall be on hand to do his share on Connecticut Day, unless prevented by serious illness. An open-air supper is served by the co-eds in the evening, after which an "old-clothes" dance takes place in the Armory.

How Electrical Engineering began

IT IS not enough to experiment and to observe in scientific research. There must also be interpretation. Take the cases of Galvani and Volta.

One day in 1786 Galvani touched with his metal instruments the nerves of a frog's amputated hind legs. The legs twitched in a very life-like way. Even when the frog's legs were hung from an iron railing by copper hooks, the phenomenon persisted. Galvani knew that he was dealing with electricity but concluded that the frog's legs had in some way generated the current.

Then came Volta, a contemporary, who said in effect: "Your interpretation is wrong. Two different metals in contact with a moist nerve set up currents of electricity. I will prove it without the aid of frog's legs."

Volta piled disks of different metals one on top of another and separated the disks with moist pieces of cloth. Thus he generated a steady current. This was the "Voltaic pile" — the first battery, the first generator of electricity.

Both Galvani and Volta were careful experimenters, but Volta's correct interpretation of effects gave us electrical engineering.

Napoleon was the outstanding figure in the days of Galvani and Volta. He too possessed an active interest in science but only as an aid to Napoleon. He little imagined on examining Volta's crude battery that its effect on later civilization would be fully as profound as that of his own dynamic personality.

The effects of the work of Galvani and Volta may be traced through a hundred years of electrical development even to the latest discoveries made in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company.

DEBATING TEAM DOWNS RHODE ISLAND 2 TO 1

Second Triangular Debate for Connecticut.—Subject: “Resolved: That the United States Should Recognize the Soviet Government in Russia.”

In the second annual triangular debate with the Rhode Island State and Massachusetts Agricultural College debating clubs, Connecticut’s home team was awarded the decision while the team that journeyed to Amherst was defeated. In both cases the debate was won by a two to one decision of the judges. One of the most vital questions of the day served as the subject of the debate, namely, “Resolved: That the United States Should Recognize the Present Soviet Government in Russia.” Connecticut’s negative team met the Rhode Islanders in Hawley Armory before a small audience. Dr. H. K. Denlinger of this institution presided and in a few opening remarks stated that debating was an excellent means of encouraging the ideals for which America stands. The first speaker for the negative was William Hutton, second was William Dampsky, and the third was Lawrence Loeb. Russell Palen served as alternate. The Rhode Island speakers, upholding the affirmative side of the question, were Ehler J. Ernest, Louis E. Tilley and J. Clifton Ricketts.

The negative contended we could not recognize Russia. First, because such an action would constitute a menace to democracy; secondly, because of economic conditions; and thirdly, because of unfavorable international conditions within the Russian empire.

The affirmative argued that we should recognize the Russian Soviet government because we had recognized France in 1793; because of economic, trade, and moral reasons; and lastly because the existing Russian Soviet government is a stable and representative government. Each speaker was allowed ten minutes to deliver his speech, and seven minutes was allotted to rebuttal. At the conclusion of the main speeches a ten minute interim was taken for the preparation of rebuttals. Both the negative and the affirmative presented their respective viewpoints equally well in their main speeches, but Connecticut’s rebuttal was of a smashing and superior character.

The judges were William O. Brooks, George Elliott, and Mr. Nelson, all of Willimantic. In awarding the decision the judges commented upon the negative’s superior organization of material and forceful delivery.

Connecticut’s affirmative team composed of Eli Collins, Samuel Wilkes, Oscar D’Esopo, Captain, and Benjamin Schneer, alternate, traveled to Amherst where they met in the Bowker Auditorium the Massachusetts team of A. S. Gordon, E. T. Dodge, E. Wood and G. A. Church alternate. Professor W. L. Machmer was the

The X soon came back and took the next two games by large margins. Very few “strikes” were in evidence, and “spares” were almost as uncommon. “Scooe” Metelli was the high scorer of the evening, having both the high single of 105 and a high total of 294. In a game marked by many errors, Hilldring, shooting for the College Shakespearean Club defeated Kennedy who shot for the Alpha Phi fraternity in the second leg of the pool tournament. The first block ended with Hilldring leading by four points. Kennedy started displaying fine form in the second block and overcome Hilldring’s lead, only to have it taken away from him in the following racks. The game was very close during the entire match, finally ending in Hilldring’s favor. The final score was Hilldring 100—Kennedy 95.

twelve o’clock the party returned to the reception room for dinner, which was served at 12:30 in the cooking laboratory. The class-room made an attractive dining room, arranged with seven oblong tables decorated with sweet peas. Palms and ferns added to the room decorations. For favors the gentlemen received button-hole bouquets of forget-me-nots and the ladies sweet peas. Co-eds chosen from class all acted as waitresses and served a sumptuous meal of grapefruit, roast turkey, mashed potatoes, creamed cauliflower, cranberry sauce, celery, olives, rolls, lemon meringue pie and coffee. A tour of the campus followed the dinner.

OUR EASY PAYMENT PLAN IS GOING BIG

There’s lots of young fellows like yourself that long to get out on the open road with a motor cycle and enjoy big days of this regular out door sport.

COST? Less than that of an average show. Some of these fellows have investigated our easy pay-as-you-ride plan on new and rebuilt motorcycles. As soon as we told them how easy it was for them to own a motorcycle on this plan, it didn’t take them long to pick out their motorcycle.

Come on over tonight. Here in this big stock of ours is your motorcycle. You can select your machine and begin to ride this week.
