Cattle, placed silently, FIELD VOL. surface, also similar associations of the college speaks. In addition to such a powerful and ever-increasing force for the betterment of the college was the substance of the message of Alumni Field Secretary Mathewson when interviewed for the Campus.

"Probably all of our students feel that the college is made up solely of two groups, namely, the student body and the faculty" said Mr. Mathewson, "and while this may seem true on the surface, one must admit that the alumni, which might be called the third group, is one that is ever ready and willing to support progressive movements at Connecticut."

"Students," continued Mr. Mathewson, "should know something of the alumni; its organization, and how it functions, and perhaps a few points in regard to this may prove interesting. In the first place, there are over 2000 graduates and former students of the college. The policy of the Alumni Association has been to consider all former students, regardless of whether they may have graduated or not, Connecticut men. This group is widely scattered, but the Alumni Association files would show that Connecticut men are to be found in every state in the Union, in Mexico, South America, Europe, and elsewhere.

At the present time the Association has plans under way that will provide for a complete and accurate alumni directory in which will be found the names, addresses, and occupations of all former Connecticut students.

Thirty Local Clubs

"Alumni keep in close touch with the activities of the college in several ways," said Mr. Mathewson. "Within the state are located local alumni associations which go a long way in bridging the gap between the college and its former students. There are ten of these local alumni associations in Connecticut and they are to be found in these cities: Litchfield, Danbury, Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury, Hartford, Storrs, Middletown, Norwich, and Danielson. Monthly meetings are held by these clubs as means of keeping members informed on the Alumni's work and many representative of the college speaks. In addition to the alumni clubs named, there are also similar associations with heads.

State Dairy Breeders Contribute Expenses

On Thursday morning the Dairy Judging team left Storrs to attend the National Dairy Show held at Syracuse, N. Y. Twenty teams entered the largest judging contest in the history of the dairy show. There are over twenty teams entered at the National, representing all sections of the country from coast to coast.

For trophies there are two prizes of four hundred dollars each to be used by the winners in graduate dairy work. There are two trophies for the high scoring teams, and medals for the high individual in the various classes of the show. In addition to the competition, each breed association has offered a trophy to the high team in a particular breed.

"According to past results, the prospects are good for the Connecticut team to make a very creditable showing as there are two past winners of the Eastern States Exposition, W. L. Burgess being high man from two years ago, and R. E. Wing being high man this year. The men going on the team are W. L. Burgess, R. E. Wing, M. B. Chalker and J. J. Clark."

"Going to the National Dairy Show this year offers opportunities of exceptional value to students of dairying, in connection with the show, the World's Dairy Congress is to be held at the first meeting in America, also its first meeting since the war. Delegates will attend the congress from at least thirty foreign countries. Also is it said that the quality of the cattle on exhibition as well as the educational and machinery exhibits far surpass any previous dairy show held in America or, in fact, at any other place in the world."

The dairy cattle breeders of the state have shown their interest in having Connecticut represented at the National by donating funds to pay the expenses of the team visiting the show.

At a recent meeting of the Sophomore class, the following officers were elected: Carl Brink, president; Paul Baldwin, vice-president; Clippers Sackett, treasurer; Charles Smith, secretary, and Theodore Clark, treasurer.

Freshmen interested in dramatics who are to try out for the dramatic club should begin to prepare themselves for the try-outs which will be held soon.

Senior Class Elects

Baldwin Prominent in Activities at Connecticut. Member of Gamma Chi Epsilon.

A meeting of the senior class was held last Monday night for the primary purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year.

Those selected by the class of 1924 to serve as officers during their last year at college were: President, Ronald Bamford; Vice-President, Harold Baldwin; Secretary, Margaret Hall, and Treasurer, Howard K. Upham.

Ronald Bamford
Senior Class President

Bamford has been very prominent in both class and college activities while on the Hill. During his junior year he was business manager of the "Nutmeg," Vice-President of the Junior class, chairman of the Junior Week executive committee and captain of his class basketball team. In addition to these he has been very prominent in the dramatic club, where he was business manager, being elected to Theta Alpha Phi, of which he is president this year. He is also a member of Gamma Shi Epsilon honorary fraternity.

Baldwin, has, since his entrance in college, been closely connected with publications work, having been very active on the Campus and in now associate editor. In addition to doing a great deal of writing for agricultural papers he is secretary of the Connecticut Swine Breeders Association.

The photoplay to be shown in the Armory Saturday evening, will be "The Man Who Played God."

STRENGTHENED ELEVEN

PERFECTING PASS DEFENSE

Great Power in Aggie Forward Line—
Tufts Has Dangerous Team.

The big blue and white team which opened its season with a decisive win over Trinity at Hartford last Saturday will meet a harder test this week when they play the Tufts College eleven at Medford. Tufts is reputed to have a strong team this season, and they too opened their 1923 season with a decisive win, at the expense of Lowell Textile. Last year the Aggies and Tufts met at Medford and the Aggies were forced to take the short side of a 13 to 0 score. Nevertheless, this is a different year. Tufts is stronger on offense, and the Aggies have not been great while the Aggies are weaker, but the team has a different morale than they had last year and for this reason might spring a surprise in Eddie Casey's eleven.

The Aggies gave away very few of their plays at Trinity Saturday, being content to take the defensive most of the time, and for this reason the backfield did not get a chance to show its real strength, the line carrying off most of the honors. The only weakness that showed in the game against Trinity was the weakness of the Aggie defense against forward passes. Coach Dole, however, has been spending some time this week on perfecting a defense against the aerial attack and this weakness will not be noticeable against Tufts.

The team came through the Trinity contest with only a few minor injuries, the only men not reporting in uniform for the first practice of the week being Narfeldt and Donahue. Maxon Eddy reported this week for the first time since injuring his knee and Coach Dole is spending some time on making over the former end into a center. In case Eddy is used at center, Donahue will probably be used regularly in the backfield, his regular position.

The Aggies will be a hard nut for the Tufts backfield to crack in Saturday's game. Most of the Aggie strength lies in its forward line. Captain O'Neill is one of the strong points. Red managing to get in on practically every play, no matter where it goes. The team is especially strong on the ends of the line with four first string ends to pick a pair from. Two of the

STRONG YEARLING TEAM

Have Been Showing up Well Against Varsity This Week

A freshman varsity team will take the field this fall for the Greater history of Connecticut athletics when the frosh football team plays Crosby high school of Waterbury on Dow Field Saturday at 2:30.

The yearling squad is rounding out a month's hard practice under Coach Louis Alexander of Waterbury, and a smooth working team is gradually being formed from a collection of individual stars. Only one man on the varsity, Gould Clark, of Waterbury, did not play regularly with a high school eleven last year.

Acting-Captain Zollin was at All-Scholastic tackle last year for Boston area last year, playing with the Ridge Technical high school. Glaxer, the right end, was a varsity man at Hartford High.

At quarterback are Schofield, formerly with Crosby High of Waterbury, and Flaxman of Hartford High. Schofield hurt his ankle while tackling during a practice scrimmage, and it is doubtful whether he will be able to play. In case he is not in shape, Flaxman, who has been running the team all week, will get the call. Greenberg, former Bridgeport high player, is at left half, while "Sam" Andrew, former halfback for Naugatuck high school, has won the other backfield berth. Andrew does the kicking for the freshmen. Rounding out the eleven is "Cook" Reeves at fullback. Reeves formed a team with Killington High of Danielson.

The frosh have been showing up extremely well against the varsity in practices sessions this week. They play hard and follow the ball closely. Aggie supporters expect them to put up a great game against Crosby Saturday afternoon.

FROM THE SIDELINES

Twice in succession on Trinity field! the "sod-busters" to bring home the bacon.

"Trinity outplayed the Aggies with its forward passing game," said the Hartford Courant. Well, let's em out play us as long as we win by two touchdowns.

But at that, the boys on the sidelines are of the opinion that the blue and white has a good passing attack

CAMPUS PHILOSOPHER

Some people have the faculty of delivering the goods without making a lot of noise about it beforehand.

As the first game of the season showed quite conclusively.

And Trinity was going to wallop us and then break off athletic relations!

Well, the best laid plans are often never hatched.

Let your conscience be your guide but don't let it carry you more than once a week.

For then you won't have money enough to pay your Campus subscription.

And your class dues

And your weekly church collection

by also has a strong team. The Waterbury high school has shut out Derby and Green with large scores.

The line-up which will probably take the field for Connecticut is as follows:

Hoadley, le
Ryan, It
Lorentzen, Ig
Daly, c
Clark, rg
Zollin, rt
Glazier, re
Flaxman, Schofield, qb.
Gronberg, lbh
Andrew, rhb

up its sleeve.

"Our system is simplicity," said Coach Dole. Combined with headwork, it seems to go.

Freddy had the boys in the cheering section working overtime. Outshouting Trinity on its home field has become a habit with Connecticut. The famed Aggie spirit was there with bells on.

Have to hand it to Red and Feeny. They kept their eyes on the ball.

Wally Moreland got off some good kicks, while Jake Dunn's intercepted pass was worth the admission ticket.

That sports writer who predicted that Trin would win by two touchdowns got the names mixed.

A FRESHMAN'S VIEWPOINT

In the last issue of the Campus an extensive article appeared under the heading, "Everythmg taken into account, the Safetym Valve was beaten before the upperclassmen," was written.

This plan has double advantages in that it enables a person to criticize his exact ideas on a subject, and at the same time, gives others the opportunity to read them. However, the Campus does not assume any responsibility for any of the articles printed under this column and wishes to state that they are private ideas and in no way expresses the policy or thoughts of the paper. In addition the Campus also reserves the right to use its own judgment in relation to the advisability of printing material which shall be submitted to this column.

The Safety Valve may do much good if used in the right manner but may also be a detriment if employed in other channels so all would be contributors would do well to bear this in mind before submitting any of their writings.

From the result of the contest on Trinity Field Saturday, it would appear that the old Connecticut was coming back into its own and promises to outdo all previous records. Not only was this spirit shown in the field but the start was also ripened with an abundance of pep. A large number of the student body followed the team and were in the game from start to finish and clearly outpointed the Trinity rooters. Of the game there is little to say, as the score speaks for itself. It did, however, satisfy Connecticut students. This alumni that Connecticut has a fighting team which should develop into a combination which will bring Connecticut football once again into the limelight. Everything is looking so bright for the present football season opened with much promise and bids fair to continue that way.

COLLEGE NEWSPAPER TO BE PLACED IN LIBRARY

"Campus" will make Exchanges Available to Students

Students of the college have always been interested in reading the newspapers of other colleges which the "Campus" receives as exchanges. It was for this reason that the "Campus" staff two years ago placed a request in the library on which to put exchanges.

The work of keeping the papers on the rack has usually been done in a haphazard way; but this year the "Campus" will make a special effort to get all the college papers on to the rack. Wallace S. Moreland, a member of the class of 1925, is interested in the job of handling these exchanges.

Moreland is now getting a list of names of colleges and school papers which he plans to exchange, and will appreciate it if students who have any particular paper in mind which they would like to read, will tell him know. The number of high school and "prep" school papers in this and nearby states are particularly desired.

The Safety Valve

To the Editor of the Safety Valve:

In answer to the letter of the Safety Valve last week, there are at least two generalizations to be made. If the spirit of first place, at the reading of the rules on Cemetery Hill, all freshmen were requested as a personal favor, by the president of the Student Body, to interview him personally before carrying any complaint of unfair play or injustice to any other person or audience. The writer of last week's article evidently thought too little of the square deal for which he himself asks, to do this. In the second place, while a freshman undoubtedly has the right of self expression, it is, to say the least, the part of discretion for anyone who be reformer to wait until he has a foursquare and well founded argument before he attempts any agitation. Changes in the traditions of our Alma Mater will emanate from upperclassmen and not to the rope pull; in my opinion, this tradition has three functions. The first and most important of these is that of initiation. The ducking in the Connecticut River Lake is a sort of baptism into the fellowship of Connecticut.

The second function of the rope pull is to furnish interclass scraps, an element of friendly friction necessary in maintaining the class spirit of the freshmen. The present senior class, when freshmen, were more uneventfully matched against the components of the antagonizing class spirit of the freshmen. The present senior class, when freshmen, were more uneventfully matched against the components of the antagonizing class spirit of the freshmen. The present senior class, when freshmen, were more uneventfully matched against the components of the antagonizing class spirit of the freshmen. The present senior class, when freshmen, were more uneventfully matched against the components of the antagonizing class spirit of the freshmen.

The third and least important element of the rope pull is that of contest. It should be even enough to the likes of the present freshmen seem to lack that intangible something which we have always called the Aggie Spirit. They have not even attempted to be Aggies. The third and least important element of the rope pull is that of contest. It should be even enough to the likes of the present freshmen seem to lack that intangible something which we have always called the Aggie Spirit. They have not even attempted to be Aggies.

Congratulations, Mr. Richardson; the movement is well under way, and we wish you all the success in the world.

L. C. Richardson.

ANSWERING G. B. C.

To the Editor of the Campus:

A freshman owning to the initials of G. B. C. spread himself over nearly every column of Campus concerning the Rope-Pull, the cos-des, and traditions in general. At the outset, let it be said by this writer that: "What must I go through?" In that sentence, which is the second in G. B. C.'s column, he states what was apparent to everyone who had watched things at all closely, that the freshmen thought beforehand that they were going through, and therefore only half tried. For instance, the Rope Pull was hardly two-thirds over before the majority of the freshmen had plunged into the pond. What would we think of a football team that quit toward the end of the third quarter, simply because the other team had a big lead piled up against it?

And yet, is it not the fact that you "had the sympathy of the upperclassmen", don't kid yourself. Most of the upperclassmen were amused or disgusted, for the contest was not a rope-pull; it was a soaking party. If you had put up a good fight against odds, and lost by a close margin, as many a freshman class has done, you would have had the sympathy of the upperclassmen. As it is, the upperclassmen are saying, "If that bunch doesn't back up next year, the class of 1927 will put them thru." A word about your handicaps, so-called. Granted that the frosh get the worst ground. What should we do to them? For one thing, they do not have an open mind, and if he is willing to wait a while before forming a snap judgment, he will take medicine like a man. Then later, when his ideas have a fairer foundation, and his opinion more weight, he will better be able to accomplish those reforms which seem advisable.

ANNUAL ELECTION
R. S. WHITE, PRESIDENT
J. W. Goodrich Elected Vice-President
—Miss Hazel Clark, Secretary
Russell S. White of Bristol, Conn., became president of the class of 1925 for the current year Wednesday night. White is assistant manager of basketball, and is a member of the social committee.
To serve as vice-president the class chose John W. Goodrich of West Hartford. Miss Hazel M. Clark of Windsor was elected secretary, while Valdemar A. Johnson of New Britain, track captain, won the position of treasurer. The class historian for the year will be Oscar D’Esopo of Hartford.
About two-thirds of the members of the class were present to take part in the voting. All members were requested to pay up back dues, and to do their utmost to support the class during this, its big year. It is already predicted that next year’s Junior Week will eclipse any ever seen on the campus.
Under the direction of Professor Davis and Professor Manchester, an economic survey of the town of Lebanon has been carried on during the summer by the Economics Department. Those associated in this work were J. L. Hypes, professor of Agricultural Education, C. I. Hendrickson, assistant professor of Economics, James Clark, ’24, Vernon C. Pinkham, ’22, and Samuel Kostofsky, ’22, agricultural agent of The Jewish Agricultural Society.

When Henry rang the bell
If any bell was ever heard around the world, Joseph Henry rang it in his famous experiment at the Albany Academy. The amazing development of the electrical industry traces back to this schoolmaster’s coil of insulated wire and his electro-magnet that lifted a ton of iron.
Four years later when Morse used Henry’s electro-magnet to invent the telegraph, Henry congratulated him warmly and unselfishly.
The principle of Henry’s coil of wire is utilized by the General Electric Company in motors and generators that light cities, drive railroad trains, do away with household drudgery and perform the work of millions of men.

HOMER V. BEEBE DIED
DURING THE SUMMER

Family. Will Continue to Run Store
Near Campus

Homer V. Beebe, for twenty-seven years proprietor of Beebe’s Store at Storrs, died on August 19 of this sumner. The Rev. Mr. Dawson, who preached the funeral sermon, gave a well deserved appreciation of Mr.
Beebe as a man and as a philosopher.
He especially emphasized the fact that Mr. Beebe, throughout his residence at Storrs, has worked for the good of the community at large and for the best interests of those individuals with whom his business brought him in contact. One thing on which Mr. Beebe was always proud was the fact that there were women in his store, and that it was thus prevented from becoming a village loa-fig place like many country stores.

The old grads will perhaps remember Homer V. Beebe even more vividly than the present students; for in “the old days” Beebe’s Store was one of the social centers on the Hill.
Mr. Beebe himself was one of the most active men in college activities. He played in the college band and managed all the banquets held on the Hill.
Beebe’s Store will continue to be run by the family, and will be kept as nearly as possible as it was before the death of Mr. Beebe. But the upperclassmen will always miss the cheery greeting of their friend whom they have lost.

CHURCH SUPPER FOR
FRESHMEN OCTOBER 10

Rev. Marshall Dawson and Others
Will Explain Work of Church

In order to interest the student body in the work of the “Church on the Campus,” a supper will be given in the church parlor, October 10 to which all male freshmen are invited. It is planned to hold similar meetings during the year for each class, and for the coeds.

Rev. Marshall Dawson, whose new book to be issued by the MacMillan Company will be out soon, will speak.
Also several other persons on the campus will have something to say after the meal is over.

Definite arrangements for the super are not completed as yet, but those in charge of the affair are working hard to get this idea across, and all freshmen who avail themselves of the opportunity will know what the church is trying to do. However, no obligation is connected with attending the supper.

Students of Western Reserve University in Cleveland claim they were brutally handled by the police after parading through a theatre in the heart of the city. John Coss, captain of the basketball team, who had several stitches taken in his head, faces a serious charge, for he is liable to a six months’ term in the penitentiary.
President Vinson of Western Reserve has ordered a thorough investigation of the fracas.

PROF. SAMUEL WAXMAN
AT PResIDENT’S HuRE:

“EXPERIENCES IN FRANCE”

Head of Romance Language Department at Boston University.—French Students Work Hard.

Through the efforts of Professor Croceau and Professor Denlinger, Professor Samuel K. Waxman was procured as speaker of the first college assembly for the year. Prof. Waxman is head of the Department of Romance Languages in Boston University.

His subject was “Experiences in France” and he recounted his impressions of the France of today. He brought home many points and gave a clear insight of the French manners on France at present were vividly portrayed. He stated that to all outward and feelings. The effects of the war appearances France is booming but inwardly she is merely putting on as brave a face as possible. The industriousness of the boys and girls was stressed. A visit to Madame Curie was described. He also stated in regard to education that French professors were not chosen so much for their teaching as for their research ability.

French views on prohibition, religion and politics were related. He stated that were prohibition to become a law in France today, it would start a revolution. An example of the religious tolerance of the French was a town where a protestant is mayor, while all of the inhabitants are Catholic.

MASS. ALUMNI TO ATTEND
GAME AT TUFTS

The Massachusetts Alumni Association of the Connecticut Agricultural College will meet at the Adams House at 12:30 to 1 p.m. Saturday for luncheon and then attend the Connecticut-Tufts football game at Tufts Oval in a body. The committee in charge is Alvan H. Howard, ‘13, of Somerville, chairman; Dr. F. H. Miller, ’06, of Fitchburg; E. C. Eaton, ’12, of Auburndale, and C. E. Hood, ’99, of Melrose Highlands, Pres. Charles L. Beach and members of the faculty, undergraduates and alumni from all parts of New England have been invited to join the delegation.

Some rather interesting traditions are in force at Colorado Agricultural College. Among others, we note the following:

1. Senior men wear stocking.
2. There is no fussing at football games.
3. The bell is rung after every football victory.
4. There is no cheering when a penalty is imposed on a visiting team.
5. EVERYBODY SPEAKS TO EVERYBODY ELSE.

Connecticut freshmen are asked to particularly consider numbers 3 and 5.
Those who were at the Trinity game Saturday saw the heavily loaded grandstand on the opposite side of the field go down "with all on board." So far as we know there were no casualties but as a result many of the more serious minded Aggie rooters on the top row wished that they had provided themselves with parachutes, particularly as the orange jerseyed eleven persisted in doing things which called for much hilarity on the grandstand. Just the same, the Trinity bleachers did not get half the tumble that the Trinity pride did that day!

Rhode Island plays Harvard in the Stadium this week, while near at hand the Aggies will be matching wits with Tufts. Boston comment is not encouraging for the Kingston eleven, but Rhody may give the Crimson a scare at that. In any event, the outcome will be watched with interest by Connecticut students. Even as this early date "On to Kingston" is becoming the watchword.

In most colleges of any repute their dramatic club and debating society hold a very high place in the field of student activities and in their way help the athletic teams to place the college before the public eye in a favorable manner.

Here at Connecticut both of these organizations have done well but the oft used phrase of "there is always room for improvement" is quite true. We can’t all be athletes but there are other fields where we can do something for our Alma Mater. There will soon be try-outs for the dramatic club and all students, particularly freshmen, will do well to give this matter a thought before passing it up. If you have ever been interested in dramatics, continue; if not, why not begin now.

PARKER DUOFOLD, $7
LADY DUOFOLD, $5
Their Fluent Writing Induces
Fluent Thinking
Your Education Demands It

If there’s any one thing that students are entitled to have, it’s a fountain pen that makes their thoughts flow freely. So don’t let “False Economy” put an unruly pen in your hand. That is a mental hazard you can’t afford to hold before your eyes throughout your college days. Pay a little more and use the pen that gives your thought free rein — the black-tipped, lacquer-red Duofold — the fountain pen classic.

Parker Duofold is not only handsomer than gold — its color makes it hard to lose. Its balanced swing and super-smooth point make it a fascinating pen to use — a point no style of writing can distort, no years of use can wear away.

Get the $7 Over-size Duofold or $5 Duofold for Lady Duofold now and you’re fixed for life. Never gold pocket-clip or ring-end for ribbon or chain included free.

STUDENT ORG MEETING HELD

At a meeting of the Student Organization called last Thursday night by President Richardson it was voted that students not returning to register in the college should be restrained from taking part in the freshman initiation.

It was urged that students make an effort to be on time at all meetings. There were some remarks about smoking in the Dining Hall and about Freshman rules.

President Richardson spoke of the necessity of all the members of the student body subscribing to the "Campus."

quarters in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston.

"Alumni, through their representatives on the Board of Trustees and on the Athletic Council take an active part in the shaping of Connecticut's policies," continued Mr. Mathewson.

"The alumni is represented by two members on the Board of Trustees and by three members in the Athletic Council, and this gives the alumni good opportunity to be of real service to the college."

"With the coming of The New England Conference, Aggie teams will find the alumni watching closer than ever," remarked Mr. Mathewson.

"The alumni is keenly interested in the athletic development of the college, and such a radical change as is brought about by the conference rules is bound to attract their attention. It may be well to mention that the sentiment of the alumni seems to favor the new conference rules, though, of course, there are some who are opposed to it."

No Reunion This Fall

"As our game with Rhode Island State is to be played in Rhode Island this year, I doubt very much if we will have any alumni reunion during the football season," said Mr. Mathewson.

"The Maine game comes too early in the season for such an occasion, and the games with C. C. of N. Y. and St. Stephens are not considered important enough to warrant a large alumni turnout. We do hope, however, to have a good alumni representation on the sidelines when the team plays Rhode Island."

horns are becoming a popular dual purpose animal at the Eastern States Exposition. Other beef cattle winnings consisted of fourth place on a Senior yearling and fourth place on the steer herd in the Hereford classes.

Professor H. L. Garrigus, while at the Exposition, sold to N. P. Hastings of San Juan, Porto Rico, two Devon calves, one heifer and one bull for immediate shipment to that island.

Through the work of the Animal Husbandry department and the winnings of the college livestock on the fair circuits, Connecticut has obtained a national reputation in livestock circles.
