AG CLUB FAIR OPENS AT NOON NEXT FRIDAY

PLAY ADDS INTEREST

Loving Cup Given to Best Exhibit.—Barn Warming Costume Dance will Make Second Appearance.—Thirteen Departments Included in Exhibit.

The annual Ag Club fair opens at noon on Friday, Dec. 12. This event is a classic in the Ag Club's program and the trailerites in charge are doing everything in their power to make it successful. Keen competition is expected between the thirteen departments who are putting on exhibits in the Armory. The best exhibit will be awarded the Scoville-Inter-Department Economics.

These exhibits will be more than a display of materials used in the different departments. They will have expression and will be of interest to everyone. A new feature this year is the College and Ag Club booth. This booth will be an attempt to show what the college and the Ag Club are doing in the State. Incidentally the booth will also act as a rest room and the headquarters of the Fair.

On Friday evening "The Dear Departed," a one-act comedy, will furnish an evening of pure fun, with "Red" McAllister, alias Grandfather Abel Merryweather and his granddaughter, Catherine Manchester, playing the important roles.

The cast of characters in order of appearance:

Mrs. Slater ............ Lillian Amesley
Victoria, her daughter

Catherine Manchester
Henry Slater, her husband

Lawrence Smith
Mrs. Jordan ............ Pauline Graf
Ben Jordan, her husband

Edwin Nelson
Abel Merryweather, the grandfather

"Red" McAllister
Musical numbers will be furnished and the awarding of the Inter-Departmental cup and the Judging Contest Medals will complete the evening's program. Refreshments will be sold by the Co-eds during the Fair, and they also expect to put on some demonstrations in connection with their exhibit.

With the closing of the Fair on Saturday noon the Armory will be decorated for the Barn Warming which comes that night. This dance was considered very successful last year. The "Yellow Kittens" of Hartford, playing this year, promises to make the event "diggier and better" than ever. For (Cont. on page 6 col. 4)
BANQUET CLOSES FIRST UNDEFEATED SEASON
ATHLETIC COUNCIL HOST TO ENTIRE VARSITY SQUAD

Prof. A. W. Manchester Acts as Toastmaster—Speeches by Coach Dole, Members of Faculty, and Senior Players Add Interest—Turkey Dinner Brings Season to Fitting Close.

The 1924 football season was officially closed last Monday night, when the entire varsity squad was banqueted by the Athletic Council at Johnson's Inn, Storrs.

A real New England turkey dinner with all the fixins' followed by cigars and a round of impromptu speeches by the coach, players, and faculty members, served to bring Connecticut's most successful football season to a fitting close.

Prof. A. W. Manchester, chairman of the Athletic Council acted as toastmaster, calling on President Beach, the Rev. Morris E. Alling, Mr. A. S. Simms, Coach S. A. Dole, and Captain M. J. O'Neill, Maxon Eddy, Tracey Swan, John Balock, Herbert Eyre, and William Thomson, seniors who have played their last game for Connecticut.

CLASS MEET OPENS SWIMMING SEASON

Class Competition Strong—Many Events Mark First Clash.

In keeping with the numerous other sports enjoyed here at Connecticut comes the announcement by the Physical Education department of an interclass swimming meet for men to be held Monday night, Dec. 9th.

There were several meets held last season, when the pool was first opened, and class competition was strong. This year indications are that the meets promise to be a source of still keener class rivalry.

The following events will be featured Monday night:

- 50 yard swim.
- 100 yard swim.
- 40 yard back-stroke swim.
- 220 yard swim.
- 40 yard breast-stroke swim.
- 200 yard relay (4 men).
- Fancy dive.

Puny Distance.

CLASS SPIRIT

More interest was shown by the members of the two underclasses in the Pig Roast than has ever been seen in them this year. Although the roast produced a failure in some respects, still there was a tension in each class that made upperclassmen feel that the annual classic was not held for nothing.

CARL M. BRINK '26 HEADS VARSITY ELEVEN

HIGHEST HONORS GO TO NEW BRITAIN MAN

All-Connecticut Scholastic Tackle in 1920.—President of Class in Sophomore Year.—Active in Basketball and Track.

Carl M. Brink, '26, of New Britain, was elected captain of the Connecticut Aggies 1925 football team following a banquet tendered the varsity squad at Johnson's Inn, Storrs, Monday night. Brink has been a member of the varsity for three years, and for the past two seasons he has played regularly at left end. His work from that position has been of high order, and he is considered as one of the best ends in the history of Connecticut Aggie football.

BASKETBALL MATERIAL

LAST YEAR'S TEAM INTACT A NEW TYPE OF PLAY

Inter-Fraternity Series Scheduled to Bring out More Men.—1923 Freshmen Material Will Make Competition Strong.—Prospects for Successful Court Season Promising.

Basketball got under way Tuesday night, when Coach Dole sounded the first call for practice for the 1925 squad. About twenty-five men responded, and more are expected before the week is over.

With last year's team intact, and many other promising candidates on hand, the prospects for a successful court season looks extremely well. Dole has Captain Balock, Eddy, O'Brien, Allard, Seymour, and Bitgood, lettermen from last year, and also Makofski, a member of the famous 1922 quintet.

In addition, there are a number of promising candidates from the 1923 freshman five, of whom Schofield, Daly, and Palmer seem to be the most valuable.

This year Coach Dole is working on a new plan in his preliminary practice sessions. An inter-fraternity series will be run off, in which all varsity candidates must participate. With the games starting this week and continuing right up to the Xmas vacation, Coach Dole believes there will be more interest taken in the work by the men, and at the same time more men will be participating in the sport.

The coach will be able to get a good line on the men in the fraternity games, and the varsity squad will be picked upon the showing the men make in these games.

INTERFERENCE

The interference of upperclassmen during the recent undergraduate class scrap put the freshmen at an unfair disadvantage. Numerous automobiles toured the country in the vicinity of the roast just prior to the roast thus adding to the sophomores confidence that the annual class fight would be held somewhere in that section.

Whether the upperclassmen knew the exact location or not of course is not known. Suffice to say that they were there and so was the "Roast."

The various colleges placed men as follows: Williams 3, Connecticut Aggies 2, Massachusetts Aggies 2, Middlebury 1, Amherst 1, and Springfield 1. Wesleyan, Norwich and Trinity did not place in the Union selection.
University Stand Based on Final Examination of Senior Year

So you proceed through three years of 8--or four--attending many lectures or few as your tutor suggests, reading much or little as your taste "tests" from time to time which are set by your tutor merely to discover whether you are slacking or not. The first year of Oxford is one of experiment—many acquaintances, many diversions, with a good deal of dabbling at the books.

The second year is one of "getting up steam"—a few friends, a few selected outside interests and a good deal of back work at lectures and reading.

The last year is one long driving nine months' "cram" with University examinations at the end—examinations which cover the whole three years' study and constitute the only basis of your ranking. An unruptured week of papers, four hours in the morning and four hours in the afternoon, with everything at stake on them! Whether this is a better or a worse system than our own, the pedagogs can decide. It is certain it is a different one.

Undergraduate Life Exists in Colleges, Not in Official University.

The distinction between Oxford University and the Colleges which compose it, is not easy to grasp at first. The best analogy I know is that of "states" which go to make it up. The United States itself, and the University, under its own name, and ceremony, greets you when you enter with all its formality and picturesque Oxford, and blesses you when you depart. And perhaps once in the course of your residence, an official of the University captures you in the set of breaking one of its regulations.

But apart from these occasions, the undergraduate's life is spent in his College; one, two or three hundred men gathered within its four walls, living there, taking part in the College sports, taking the direction of their work from its tutors, belonging to its clubs, and meeting as a community at least one day a week in the College hall.

Each College has its cliques, its gossips, its internal rows, its particular antipathies among other Colleges, its traditions, its legends, and its specialties—whether they be strawberries in-season anchovy toast, or a pot of black share of ale. And when you go out from the University into life, you are forever known as a Trinity man, a Magdalen man, a Balliol man, as the case may be.

E—"Brother, if you dont dew as ah telly ye', ah am again to spread yo' name, now ah face, bend yo' vultures, shape push yo' tonsils farther down, et cetera.

C—"You don't mean et cetera, yo' mean vice versa."

A NEW TYPE OF PLAY
THIRD'LUNUNUNIOII

When the Dramatic Club gave "Pygmalion and Galatea" for the football hop step, it stepped boldly out of the profound though of a lower order of dramatic appreciation to a higher plane. This change had been predict- ed and hoped for in the past. It is inconsistent with our movement to foster and promote good drama to give plays, some of them clever enough in their way, which were distinctly no art in any sense of the word. The dialogue alone in "Pygmalion and Galatea" was worth listening to, and this should always be the case. If the light farces were also appreci- ated, it was not because of their art or real humor. It was because some of the men and girls in the cast were popular enough to excite interest and amusement in themselves. We like to mark the seriousness of this editorial by saying that we go to see "Red" O'Neill's face and to hear Miss Smith's charming voice, but they serve as good example of what might en- hance any stupid or halfbaked melo- drama. However, if we are promoting the dramatic art in an educational way, then we should be willing to sac- rifice a little love for the ludicrous and listen to something more in keep- ing with the educational ideals of our institution.

COLLEGE: THE SCHOOL OF A GENTLEMAN

Besides acquiring learning through the medium of curricular studies, a man, when he enters college, should come with a desire to hold his char- acter into a better shape than before, and he should study his fellows so that he may learn to appreciate them and work with them in a more under- standing manner. The latter, the students on the whole are doing, but the molding of their own character, the smoothing off of rough edges, is not as noticeable. Some of the so-called "wise guys" are still as wise as ever, if not wiser. The club might be Willimantic "bad men" still stagger and are as low as ever in their ejacu- tations, the same hackneyed stagger and ejaculations that are so much in the fashion among high school "fast" brothers. The ultra-profane, the loutish, the lamed, and the men with crude habits of one kind or an- other, should remember that college is a place to do a good job of remold- ing. God knows we all need it.

DR. RAINSFORD BRINGS MESSAGE TO STUDENTS

"Meaning of the Bible" Portrayed.
Noted Lecturer at Best.-Experi- ences and Travels Interest Student Body.

Dr. Rainsford, a graduate of Cam- bridge University, an African explor- er, and a great traveler, gave one of the most interesting talks listend- ed to by a C. A. C. audience.

His topic for the day was one that would appeal to both sexes and all creeds, namely "The Meaning of the Bible." Dr. Rainsford said, "that to- day the Bible is drawing attention from more sorts of people than ever before." He told exactly what it is to mean to him, and how much the assistance of his mother he became acquainted with this world-known text in his early boyhood. The speaker then stated that one thing need to recall in order to understand the book is the following sentence, "the essence, the heart, and the life of the Christian religion is not a creed, nor is it a book. It is a spirit and life must come through the person". If we as citizens of this great coun- try are going to live reasonably with our neighbors, we must put something into our minds besides that which is put before us as interesting reading. "Most of that which we find in mag- azines is not nonsense, and that which we read of the material of this kind, we can not properly feed our minds. "Our minds must grow as well as our muscles," said Dr. Rainsford. The well known quotation: To do justice, to love, to have mercy, and to work with thy God" applies to us all, but we do not put into constant enough practice. The speaker went on to say that we know more about the progress of truth and man's soul today, but our thoughts are different and therefore the con- ceptions drawn from the consideration of this kind, is very often impossible to accept. The thought of today is that the Bible is not "The" word of God but "A" word of God, that the ideas established through generations of peoples that God is an avenging God, and required the evils of Hell as a punishment is absolutely as wrong as any of the conceptions God is a God of love and sin is merely ignorance of a truth.

In closing Dr. Rainsford said that we must always remember the same thing that is in us and to always keep the "window in our soul" open so we can accept a good thing when we see it.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY DEVELOPES INDIVIDUAL CRAMMING IMPOSSIBLE

Rowing a Serious Sport.—Colleges Compete for Honor of Coveted Position as Head of the River.—Clubs Similar to American Fraternities.— New Generation more Restless Against Traditions.

(There follows the first of a series of articles released for publication in college papers in order to give us an idea of what college life is like in foreign countries. The "Yale News" has thoughtfully arranged this material in twenty articles and the "Connecticut Campus" will run as many of the ar- ticles as it has room for in succeeding issues.

"You Have More Chance of Growing in Oxford,—and you have more chance of disintegrating. In other words, the system (if an opportunity for ed- ucation may properly be called a sys- tem) is admirably suited to the man who knows where he is going, but the man with little purpose and no sense of responsibility is apt to suffer from being left severely alone.

Nobody bothers you if you fail to show up at College meetings; nobody makes you to lectures; nobody thinks you are especially queer if you prefer the writings of some obscure Hungarian poet to those of Arnold Bennett. "Fools are suffered gladly" as a reason for responsibility. We will work out their own salvation in time, and on the chance that the "good" may prove, after all, to be right; and that Andreas Ady may be a greater figure in liter- ature, in the author of the "Hungarian Lady." To go to Oxford may be a dangerous intellectual adventure: but one has all the freedom of the bucan- eer while it lasts.

There are Inter-Collegiate Sports, With Exception of Rowing, Very Informal.

There are inter-Collegiate sports throughout the year; and these, with the exception of rowing, are conducted in a most informal manner. On the morning of a game, a list is posted of the men who are asked to play that afternoon; but if it should be incon- venient for everyone, he writes his name; and the captain, who comes back at noon to see his matutted list, must get substitutes to take the place of those who have fallen by the way- side!

Yet a certain amount of good spirit results from these games, and an even greater amount of good name. If love of the game for its own sake be the criterion. Above all, these Col- lege games give new men the chance to mingle with the mettle of the old. When the "tub" or pair- oars. Then perhaps in the spring, when the hearts of coaches grow im- perceptibly mellower, you are given a chance at a sliding seat. It's little enough for the long weeks you have rowed through the winter, with the rain freezing your hands, an inch drawn up the wrong time with a sigh of relief,—and regret.

To anyone who has watched the inter- collegiate races on the broad Hud- son, the sight of ten college boats tearing up the river for the song of the sculls, and the long procession must seem ludicrous. In reality, it is the only kind of race which can be managed on an exceed- ingly narrow river. You are competing with each other. When one boat overtakes and bumps the one in front, both drop out, exchange places on the next afternoon, and the contest begins the second day of rowing. So it continues for a week until, perhaps, eight or ten years from now, your own Col- lege boat goes "Head of the River." On this great occasion—if I may point out a striking difference be- tween the practice here and in Oxford the President of the College will re- aranged procession begins its sec-

Colleges and Clubs Very Similar to American Fraternities.

The social side of Oxford is a thing by itself. There is practically no social society on the campus except the town; and the few stray clubs which visit the elderly ladies of North Ox- ford at tea-time on Sunday afternoon, give no trouble under the compulsion of duty. There are no fraternities—perhaps the Colleges provide on a large scale that intimacy which fraternities and clubs provide in the Uni- ted States. But there are innumerable clubs with some purpose—Liberal, Conservative, Dramatic, Sporting, Literary, Scientific—with a mem- bership that fills small club rooms of their own.

And above them all, though it has no social pretensions, stands the Ox- ford Union. Generations of Oxford men have among the leading statesmen of the British Empire have fought political battles and gained their first parliamentary experience on "its floor." It is said whether the House of Commons it- self has been the scene of more bitter skirmishes than have taken place in the arena of the Oxford Union.

It is so preeminently bound up in the history of the University and in the long tale of British politics that (Cont. on page 3 col. 1)

DRAMA VENTURE ENJOYED AS FOOTBALL HOP PLAY

Mythological Comedy well Given by Dramatic Club. Play Chosen by Theta Alpha Phi Fraternity. Prof. H. A. Seckerson Brings Fine Cast to Aggie Stage.

As the closing event of a successful Football season, the Dramatic Club presented W. S. Gilbert's three-act comedy "Pygmalion and Galatea," in Hawley Armory, Saturday evening, November 24th.

This play is a departure from the strict comedy or melodrama usually given on the Hill, in that it is a mythological comedy taken from the Greek. It is something new, something artistic, and something that was well put across. The various characters were cleverly portrayed and the audience showed its enjoyment of this new type of play. The cast of characters included:

- Minos, Pygmalion's slave Mr. Connor
- Agamemnon, Chrysso's slave Mr. Ajello
- Pygmalion, a sculptor Mr. Bilipp
- Cyneisca, his wife Miss Ellis
- Myrine, his sister Miss Wheeler
- Leutippe, a soldier Mr. Spelvin
- Galatea, a statue Miss Smith
- Daphne, Chrysso's wife Miss Girard
- Chrysso, a portman of the arts Mr. D'Eampo

Mr. Seckerson of the English Department coached the production. Music was furnished by the College Orchestra and dancing followed the play.

H. E. DEPARTMENT TO EXHIBIT AT AG FAIR

Lectures and Demonstrations in All Home Economic Phases will be Given.—"Swedish Weaving" will be Demonstrated on Saturday Morning.

The exhibits of the Home Economics Department will be one of the interesting features of the Ag Club Fair which is to be held on Dec. 12th and 13th in Hawley Armory. The exhibit, which will fill the southeast corner of the Armory, will be divided into two sections, cooking and sewing. The classes in design, house care, textile, clothing, dietetics, nutrition, table service, and teacher training will be represented.

On Saturday morning between ten and eleven o'clock a lecture and demonstration will be given on "Swedish Weaving." Other lectures are being arranged by the committee in charge, which is composed of Alice Hubbard, '25, Chairman; Hanna Jensen, '25, and Carrie Main, '26.

"Dad, where were you born?" inquired seven year old Horace, who was beginning to take an interest in geography.

"In Chicago," replied the father.

"And was mother born there too?"

"No, your mother was born in Boston, Sonny," said the patient father.

"Oh, and I was born in Boston?"

"You were born in New York, Sonny."

"Well, isn't it strange how we three came together?" said the wondering child.

RIFLE TEAM LOSES TO MAIN UNIVERSITY

First Five High Men gives Maine Victory in First Match.

Last week the C. A. C. Rifle Team fired a match against Maine University who has always been a leader in rifle work. Each team fired on its range targets, which had been exchanged before the match.

Connecticut showed up well in their first match of the year and, although they lost, the team showed excellent material. Under the conditions of the match, the scores of the five highest men in a team of ten would count, so, although Connecticut had the highest total score, Maine won the match by thirteen points.

those who have not been to a Barn Warming, it might be well to say that everyone is supposed to come in costume. It is the biggest costume dance of the year, and is one of the most original. The girl who is judged to be the most cleverly dressed will be chosen as Harvest Queen. She will be awarded the very pretty lavaliere which is on exhibition in the book store.

Likewise the man wearing the best costume will be chosen Harvest King and will be presented with a pair of cuff buttons with the college seal inserted. Both of these prizes will be suitably engraved. There will be twelve dances and two extras. Dancing will start at eight o'clock with the Grand March. Promptness carried out is urged so that the entire program may be as scheduled. As novelty dances, there will be two square sets, and two moonlights. The rest of the program will be fox trot and one waltz. Stunts will be pulled during intermission and refreshments consisting of hot dogs, cider, apples, and ice cream will be served.

When You Get Back Home

for the Christmas holidays, you'll want to compare the home methods of farming with those you have been taught at college. Notice especially how they feed the cows.

If Diamond Corn Gluten Meal is not being fed, suggest it to your father or whomever is in charge. Ask him to start on a small quantity, feeding it to only two or three good cows, with bran, a little oilmeal and his homegrown oats. And ask him to keep you posted on results.

In about a month you'll get a report—it never takes longer than that to convince a man of Diamond's place in
"PARLIAMENTARY LAW" AT MONTIELT MEETING

I. Society Interest Growing.—Reading room Probable—Books and Magazines Being Procured.

The topic of discussion at the last Montielg Art Society meeting was "Parliamentary Law," Arline Fisher, '27, spoke on how it came to be so called and adopted. Her outstanding point seemed to be the object of law which she states was to assist in assemblies. Cora Lavalie, '25, spoke upon another branch of Parliamentary Law, namely, officers, their duties and qualifications. She brought out many fine and essential points in her short discussion. Mildred Brockett, '27, emphasized still another phase of the subject in her discussion on duties of the members. Her discussion, in the main, brought out the things which are most commonly neglected in assemblies and meetings of any sort.

At the next meeting of the society, Dr. H. K. Denlinger will speak on "Travels." In the first meeting after the Christmas recess, Miss Demander, Miss Swan, and Miss Scholander will speak on "Music."

The meeting was held on Monday night of this week instead of Thursday, as a solution of the conflict which existed between the meetings of the society and basketball practice.

Insofar as is known at present, meetings will continue to be held on Monday nights and the clause in the constitution concerning absences will go into effect immediately.

The members of the society are showing a bit of enthusiasm over the prospect of having a Montielg Room. Decided steps are being taken toward the purchasing of a sectional bookcase as soon as there is sufficient money in the treasury. The society has already voted to withdraw money from the treasury to subscribe to three popular magazines, which in addition to the many books which they are in hopes of obtaining for temporary use only through the kindness of the girls in the dormitory and faculty members, will furnish a great source of entertainment during the winter nights for the occupants of Holcomb Hall.

CO-ED ATHLETIC COUNCIL ACTS ON SENIOR SPORTS

Sophomores Leading Interclass Athletic Points.

Because of their heavy schedule, and the size of their class the senior girls have asked to be allowed to drop all inter-class athletics for the year. The time during which the senior girls leave the Hill for practice-teaching, comes during the basket-ball season, and therefore would necessitate the forfeiting of all senior games in that sport should they continue to have their class athletic games. The matter is pending before the A. A. Council.

The close of the hockey season has brought the sophs to the lead in athletic points. The results are as follows: sophomores—five points; freshmen—four points.

MISS A. S. BAYLOR VISITS H. E. TEACHING DEPT.

Smith-Hughes Chief Observes College Methods in Teacher-Training Visits Schools Which Are Supervised by C. A. C. Alumni

From Nov. 21 to Nov. 24, the Teacher-Training Department of the college was visited for the first time by Miss Adelaide S. Baylor, Chief of Home Economics of the Federal Board of Vocational Education at Washington.

Miss Baylor is in charge of all Vocational home-making work in the United States which receives funds under the Smith-Hughes Act. While here in Storrs she visited several of the educational classes and spoke a few minutes to the seniors of the teacher-training class, outlining to them some of the problems which they, as teachers, might have to face. She suggested that when going into teaching work a person must be like the ace who went up in the aeroplane; that is: "to have a plan, then have an alternate plan, and then go up with an open mind."

Miss Baylor spent three days at the college and also visited the Windsor and the Seymour high schools. The Home Economics departments of these schools are under the supervision of former students of C. A. C., Miss Ida Tuttle and Miss Gertrude Piko, both of the class of '22.

The dear old lady was anxious to make her boy think that she understood everything.

"Over there, mother," said the son, "are our wonderful polo fields.

"The results are the old lady, "what is there that is nicer than fields of waving polo?"
