FROM: Linda Flaherty-Goldsmith

SUBJECT: Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) Between the University of Connecticut and the American Association of University Professors

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Board of Trustees approve the MOA (attached) with the faculty bargaining unit, the American Association of University Professors (AAUP), for the teaching of summer and intersession classes beginning in June 2005 through August of 2008. The Executive Committee of the AAUP approved this MOA on January 25, 2005.

And that, the Board of Trustees also approve an extension of the existing MOA for the January 2005 intersession. This extension is necessary because negotiations on the successor agreement were not concluded in time to cover the January 2005 intersession.

BACKGROUND:

The offering of summer school courses and intersession courses is an increasingly significant component of the University’s “Finish in Four” initiative. The programs are completely self-supporting and are offered at Storrs as well as all of the regional campuses. Since 2000, summer course offerings have increased 50%, and winter course offerings grew by 195%.
PROPOSED MOA
SUMMARY OF TERMS

SUMMER

- Faculty will be paid 8.5% of their base academic year salary for courses with minimum enrollments of twelve students. Summer compensation per course will be capped at 8.5% of the university wide average salary for a full professor.

- For classes with enrollments between six and eleven students, faculty will be paid using the following scale: A flat rate plus a set increment per student.

This language raised the minimum enrollment for the 8.5% rate of pay per course, which generates savings at lower enrollment levels. The addition of a salary cap also controls salary costs. Anticipated savings, based upon the 2004 summer program, are at least $25,700 per summer.

- Compensation for non-traditional courses, defined as fieldwork, internships, practica and independent studies, will be based upon 50% of the fee revenue as opposed to a percentage of the faculty member’s salary.

- Class cancellation fees are frozen at current rates.

- The date upon which the enrollment numbers is determined was moved from the second day of classes to the end of the add/drop period.

- The parties agreed to a joint study of the summer session program to assess compensation practices and other issues which impact terms and conditions of faculty work.

The parties also agreed to review the narrower issue regarding compensation of adjunct faculty.

INTERSESSION

- Faculty will be paid at a rate between the adjunct faculty stipend rate and up to 60% of the fee revenue for the course, but no more than double the stipend. The enrollment number used to determine the final compensation rate will be set at the end of the add/drop period as opposed to the second day of classes.

- The option that allowed faculty to have intersession compensation placed in a professional development fund in lieu of pay was eliminated.

RE:  SIGNATORIES AND AUTHORITIES FOR STUDY ABROAD BANK ACCOUNTS

RECOMMENDATION:

That the Board of Trustees approves the following resolution for Study Abroad banking:

Resolved that the Chief Financial Officer for the Storrs-based programs, Controller, Associate Controller, and the Director of Study Abroad are duly authorized to carry out all banking for all Study Abroad Programs including but not limited to executing all documents, applications, obtaining business cards, and completing signature cards. Resolved that the aforementioned positions and the Study Abroad Resident/Academic Director are authorized to be signatories on all overseas accounts that are established. Resolved that this authorization applies to all financial institutions, both current and future, including but not limited to National Westminster Bank Plc, Banesto Español de Credito, Banca Toscana, Barclays Bank, Credit Lyonnais and Bank America and its affiliates. Resolved further that the Executive Secretary to the Board of Trustees shall provide such attestation to this authorization as may be necessary.

BACKGROUND:

The UConn Study Abroad Programs with Resident/Academic Directors and with overseas bank accounts currently include London, England; Granada, Spain; Florence, Italy; Paris, France; and Grenoble, France. Plans are underway to develop new programs in other locations around the globe. The London Program is over twenty years old, making it the longest-standing Study Abroad Program offered at the University. All Programs are administered by the Office of Study Abroad, in coordination with various departments at the University. The primary mission is to send students abroad each semester with the purpose of immersing them in the different cultures while continuing their academic studies. Each Program is administered on site by either a UConn Resident Director or an Academic Director appointed by UConn. As part of his/her responsibilities, the Resident/Academic Director must arrange field trips and overnight excursions, purchase tickets to cultural events, and pay stipends to guest lecturers and adjunct faculty. In order to enable the Resident/Academic Director to fulfill his/her duties, the Study Abroad Office has historically had a bank account to utilize for these functions.

Recent changes in international banking have introduced enhanced security requirements related to the establishment and maintenance of bank accounts. This includes revised signatory applications that require personal references from U.S. banks and passports for each authorized signor. In addition, for corporate bodies, the authorization of the governing board is required as well as an attestation that the authorization is "a true excerpt from the Minutes of the Meeting" of the Board.
